OUT OUR WAY By Williams

Sister Mary Says:

BREAKFAST—Stewed figs with cream sifted cereal, thin cream, toast, buckwheat cakes, sausage, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Mushrooms in tomato sauce on toast, celery hearts Brown Betty, milk, tea.

DINNER — Noodle soup, pan broiled pork chops, twice baked sweet potatoes, corn custard, stuffed prune salad, bran rolls, lemon sponge pie, milk, coffee.

The luncheon dish of mushrooms on toast is worth keeping in mind for chafing dish use during the Christmas holidays. It will prove quite as popular as Welsh rarebit and is much easier to make. And remember if you have no chafing dish it's quite as good made and served from the kitchen.

Mushrooms in Tomato Sauce

One-half pound mushrooms, 1 cup grated cheese, 2 cups canned tomatoes, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, ½ teaspoon onion juice.

Clean and peel mushrooms, break in small pieces. Melt butter in sauce pan and simmer mushrooms for five minutes. Rub tomatoes through a colander to remove seeds. Add tomatoes and cheese to mushrooms and heat until cheese is melted. Season with salt, parsley and onion juice and add eggs well beaten. Stir and cook over a low fire until mixture thickens. Serve on squares of hot toast.

Shipping Board Favors Adequate Replacement Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Mindful that as fast as satisfactory sales of government-owned ships are made to private enterprise, a source of direct financial loss of the American people is eliminated, the shipping board is going full steam ahead with its plans to get out of the shipping business, but not without sufficient guarantee that the American flag will be kept permanently on the seas.

Postponing its recommendations to congress on a future American merchant marine policy until about the first of the new year, the board in its annual report called attention to the need of a replacement program to keep an adequate number of vessels on the water, even after they have passed into private hands. Dropped a warning about the declining trade to South America due to keen foreign competition, and lifted again the danger of "international propaganda" to "influence the United States to abandon its protective coastwise system."

Doheny calls that $100,000 a "bagatelle". This product abounds in several eastern and central states, notably Pennsylvania and Illinois.

Several women in New York have taken jobs as candles. They probably want to see man at his worst.
