Movie Sidelights

As the Associated Press Grass and flowers did not grow fast enough for the movie, so a lawn, flower garden and banana tree are being grown at Universal City by artificial light and heat in order to have a big act ready on the required date. The set represents a plantation home, and will appear in the picture of "Upton's Cabin".

Featured players entirely at ease before batteries of motion picture cameras leveled at them, have been known to "freeze up" and become as self-conscious as an amateur while posing for new portraits and "stunt" pictures. The photographer is obliged to resort to subterfuge to put his movie camera-proof subjects at their ease during these ordeals.

Six extras were recently engaged for a scene in "Paradise for Two," in which they had to portray the roles of six extras applying at a theatrical casting office for work.

The wilds aren't wild enough any more for making outdoor adventure thrillers. It was necessary to ship a small sized menagerie of wild animals into the Sierras for the filming of Zane Grey's "The Man of the Forest." A mountain lion, a bear, some deer, foxes, wolves and a coyote were transported to the location.

Obtaining animal actors for the movies usually is an easy matter but Director Herbert Brenon was hard put to find camels for use in desert scenes. He wanted 100 animals but after scouring the country, could only find 35, which were bought or rented from various circuses and dealers. A herd of 150 elephants was recently assembled without any difficulty for a picture of the life of P. T. Barnum.

Monte Blue, Patsy Ruth Miller, Roy del Ruth and Danny Francis Zane are one quartette making feature pictures who have combined their talents twice in one year. Their first picture together was "Hogan's Alley." Their second combination is "Wolf's Clothing."

Five Forfeit $25 Each to Tribunal

Five men were arrested and a sixth is to be named in a complaint this afternoon when police officers raided a cardroom at 209 Depot street Tuesday. The five, P. Reynolds, D. Smith, A. Millos, G. Kelly and J. Perry, forfeited $25 bail by failure to appear in municipal court for trial on gambling charges.

P. Weaver, proprietor of the cardroom, is to be tried Thursday night. Police Chief Clint Haynes said.

You just simply can't teach an onion to hold its breath.

"But my dear young lady," said the boss, "have you any reason for wanting to leave us?"
"Well, you see," replied the beautiful steno, "I'm rather wasting my time here. Why, I've been working for over a week and nobody's even asked me out to lunch."

Woman was brought into this world to be loved, not to be understood.

Housewife: "I have cut my finger, look how it bleeds!"
Maid: "You want something you can twist round it. I will fetch your husband!"

Health Note.—In proceeding a girl's father down the steps it is best to keep well in advance of his forehead foot.

I want you to fix this cuckoo clock.
Jeweler: That isn't a cuckoo clock.
Yes, it is. It just struck thirteen.

If La Grande girls just knew that the most worth while husband prospects are the easiest to catch they'd stop wasting time on hunches.

MAYBE SO—
Is the Ship of Zion a converted cruiser?

Is "the line of least resistance" a flint's father line (if there is such a thing nowadays)?

Is the mileage book the best-seller among the books of travel?

Did you ever hear an explanation that wasn't harder to understand than the thing that was being explained?

Do you think anybody can become brighter by training with dumbbells?

Now you think up one.

Indignant Customer: "Really, Mr. Gubbins, you get dearer and dearer every day."

Mr. Gubbins: "Not so loud, mam. My wife's powerful jealous!"

A STRANGE SIGHT
What is hanging down the back of that ingenuous fair?

Has my falling vision jumped the track?

Or is it really hair?

On his recent visit to America, Daudet, French designer of feminine apparel, was asked for his recipe of a successful gown. He replied: "In this day and age there is but one formula: Never leave off tomorrow what you can leave off today."

Country: What are you so hot for, old man?

Hick: I've got one of these here two-pants suits on.

WITHHOLDS GIFT
SEATTLE, Dec. 23 (AP)—A. S. Kerry, Seattle lumberman, who heads a state wide organization which, since Oct. 15, has been conducting a campaign to recall Governor Hartley, announced here that he had advised the widow of Judge Thomas Burke, of this city, to withhold a gift of several hundred thousand dollars from the University of Washington "under present conditions."

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal.—What this town needs, in the opinion of Honorable Will Rogers, the new mayor, is "some good looking woman to shoot some one." He could pick the victim and he proposes enlarging the suburban jail.

Among the places where you never see a crowd is one of those dental show cases where false teeth are shown.

AT THE THEATERS

Last Showing Tonight of "Paint & Powder"

The latest production to be released by Chadwick, "Paint and Powder," was directed and produced for this concern by Hunt Stromberg, one of the youngest and ablest producer-directors in the motion picture industry. He has turned out a melodrama the memory of which will remain long with those who see this picture now playing at the Sherry theater. The story is plausible and the situations are calculated to give the biggest thrills. It is well directed and superbly acted. A strong cast featuring Elaine Hammerstein has been assembled, among which are many of the screen's greatest favorites. Theodore Von Eltz, John Sainpolis, Stuart Holmes, Derelys Perdue, Russell Simpson, and Pat Hartigan complete the high calibre cast.

The story is an absorbing document revealing the tribulations of a young girl struggling for a successful theatrical career. Mary Dolan, on her mother's death is adopted by the parents of her playmate, who later becomes her lover and protector. In order to be near Jimmy Everts secures a job as a singing waiter in the same Broadway cafe in which Mary is earning a precarious livelihood. In protecting his sweetheart from the attentions of a burly bully Jimmy is badly beaten, and to get even frisks his tormentor of a stolen pocketbook. He tells Mary he found the money and persuades her to use it to advance herself. McCradie, the bully, traces a scarf pin which was in the pocketbook, and discovers it was Jimmy who pawned it. He takes a detective to the cabaret and while Jimmy is escaping through a window the place is raided and he is caught in the scuffle that follows.

"Comedy showing "Blue Black".

Laughs, Thrills Feature of Fox Picture

Laughs and thrills feature Fox Films release, "No Help Zero", starring Buck Jones, which will be shown at the Star theater today and Friday.

Here is a swiftly moving tale, replete with humor, a fine plot and action to spare. It is all about a wild young man, Don Hathaway Jr., played by Buck Jones. Don is a fine type of boy but has been spoiled by an indulgent father. There are some fine scenes showing him in his glory in New York, where he proposed to three Follies girls at once. Then there is a high-powered plane to the north woods, a forced landing, the right girl, a fight with desperadoes, a ride down an avalanche and other stunts and thrills that will keep the audience gasping for breath when they are not laughing at his predicaments.

Eva Novak is the girl and Paul Panzer, one of the screen's best-known villains, plays the fighting father who rules with a hand of iron. The other members of the cast of this delightful picture all fit well into their parts. All in all, "No Help Zero" is a splendid entertainment.
