EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 15 (AP)—The University of Oregon varsity and freshman swimming teams will meet this afternoon in a dual affair that is expected to go to the yearlings.

Johnny Anderson, who came here from Connecticut, is the mainstay of the freshmen team. He already has broken three Oregon tank records.

ROSEBURG TEAM IN EUGENE

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 15 (AP)—Roseburg high school basketball stars are here today for a game tonight with the University high school of Eugene. The game will serve as a preliminary to the Oregon-Willamette fray this evening.

The University high hoopers defeated Cottage Grove last evening at Cottage Grove, 28 to 15.

The coldest time of the day or night is the hour just after sunrise, declare scientists. This is explained by the fact that when the sun first strikes the earth it causes the evaporation of a chilling moisture felt by both humans and animals.

"Stop!" said the minister, "the baby is not disturbing me."

To which the mother caustically replied, "Oh, 'e ain't, ain't 'e? Well, you're disturbin' 'im!"

NOT F'RUS

When sister goes to shop in town,
Her dresses make her grandma frown;
Her dimpled knees cause men to stop,
And trail behind from shop to shop.

—Chicago Daily News.

Now who would cross the seven seas
For a rear view of dimpled knees?
It has no edge on t'other kind,
The dimpled knee seen from behind.

—Houston Post Dispatch.

Ah, let these purblind men, my dear,
Regard knee dimples from the rear;
They might, at front view of the elf,
Find that she was grandma herself.

GLENNA TO SOUTH SEAS

NEW YORK — Glenna Collett, who is at sea bound for balmy climes where she can do her stuff, departed with the remark that ignorance of golf is becoming as much of a cardinal sin among women as ignorance of baseball among men. Lots of male duffers would swap all their knowledge of the diamond for ability to swing like Glenna.

AT THE THEATERS

Bob Custer At Sherrys In "Fighting Boob"

"The Land Where Men Are Men", has an ever-increasing appeal to all ages and classes, and in "The Fighting Boob," F. B. O.'s latest Western release with Bob Custer in the title role, Arizona and the Border are shown at their wildest and woolliest. Custer is rapidly becoming a general favorite with the fans who like red-shirted stories of mesa and sagebrush, and in this picture, which will appear on Saturday for a one day run at the Sherry theater, he has a go-get-'em part that will bring the spectators up on their toes. Director Jack Nelson has made the most of the many cracker-jack desert scenes, and Violet Palmer, as the heroine for whose hand both Custer and the leader of the gang are striving, gets in some remarkably effective work.

Screaming comedy touches are afforded by the Chinese servant, whose efforts to learn the 'Melican game of golf and to withstand the Border brand of liquor afford vast amusement to the audience. Custer and his famous horse execute a leap across a canyon that is death-defying in every sense, and the plot of the story moves rapidly and excitingly to a fast and furious finish.

"Rain" Called La Grande's Treat of Season

The treat of the season, from the dramatic viewpoint, is "Rain", one of the outstanding successes of recent years, which comes here for the first time at the Arcade theater next Monday night.

Strikingly original in theme, true in characterization—vigorous in drama and richly colored with the magnetism of the South Seas, this play is described as an offering of tremendous power. The central character, Sadie Thompson, will be portrayed by Isabel Withers, distinguished New York star. She comes here with the reputation of being possessed of youth, charm and exceptional personality.

In the role of the Reverend Alfred Davidson, Harold Salter, well known Metropolitan actor, is said to be at his best. Frank Dawson, has the vital characterization of Dr. McFhail. The remainder of the cast is reported to be of Broadway excellence.

One of the New York reviewers said that to miss "Rain" was to miss the most important stage production in a decade.

Stars Dance All Night At Coney Island

Even the blase attendants at Luna Park, Coney Island, who are accustomed to late hours, were forced to sit up and take notice one night when a company of film stars, including Dorothy Mackaill, Jack Mulhall, Louise Brooks and William Collier, Jr., invaded the dance hall at the park at midnight and started dancing, not stopping until long after daylight.

It was something new for Coney Island and Luna Park, where the dance hall closes at midnight and the crowds start homeward.

But such things have to be done in the world of motion pictures. "Just Another Blonde," starring the quartet at the Star theater Sunday and Monday, was filmed at Luna Park.

The dance hall scenes would have wiped out the business of the dance hall had they been staged in the early evening when the big crowds were there. So Director Al Santell decided to start work at midnight.

Two hundred extras were placed on the floor and the cameras started grinding while they danced on and on until daybreak. "Guess this movie actin' ain't so easy after all," opined one of the attendants as he yawned and prepared for another day.

Comedy Circus Heads Vaudeville Bill Sunday

Every offering is bright and classy and has been carefully selected to assure a well-balanced vaudeville bill at the Arcade theater Sunday.

The headline feature offering is Dorothy's Comedy Circus, a miniature affair including ponies, dogs, and monkeys. Duncan & Mosher proffer a comedy offering entitled "Two Men on the Box" which should not have any trouble in gathering laughs with their rural comedy songs and sayings. Lester & Hough, clever appearing young artists, present a comedy offering with an original twist. McDonald & Leggett are dealers in harmony and are universal favorites. Buster Marsh Co., offer a comedy athletic novelty built for laughing purposes only. Attend the matinee and avoid the night crowd.

Dynamic Love Theme In "The Only Way"

For 26 years a famous stage success, the romance of Sidney Carton made immortal by Charles Dickens in "A Tale of Two Cities" now reaches the screen as the powerful drama "The Only Way," coming as the Sherry theater's next attracton beginning Sunday.

The tremendously heroic figure of Sidney Carton is played in the film version of "The Only Way" by Sir John Martin Harvey, who has starred many seasons in the stage role with a record of popularity comparable to that of Forbes Robertson in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" and similar exceptional success. Martin Harvey has toured the whole world within the play and has just done the screen version under the direction of the noted producer, Herbert Wilcox.

A love story of sublime virility is presented in "The Only Way." Against a spectacular background the familiar characters of "A Tale of Two Cities" sway with the heart drama of the hero. Sidney Carton, a brilliant but improvident and dissipated lawyer's assistant, chances to do a service for a young French aristocrat whom he strangely resembles in appearance. Carton falls in love with the young Frenchman's bride, but honor and decency oblige him to preserve his secret. His mute devotion to the girl, however, leads him once more to do her a service for which he deliberately pays with his life, a majestic gesture tellingly and absorbingly registered in a series of fine climaxes. The situation is made more intriguing by the hopeless love of a London street waif for the hero and by the plottings of a fanatic radical who strikes at innocent victims in a campaign of personal revenge for an old wrong.

Wit and humor flash through even the most dramatic incidents in "The Only Way," making its progress intensely interesting throughout.

Comedy Showing "Even Up."
