

SHARP DECLINES IN EGG PRICES

Portland Quotations Drop from Two to Three Cents a Dozen

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 27 (AP)—Sharp declines occurred in the egg market today with local prices down two to three cents a dozen. Receipts are picking up again with 1,105 cases reported for Wednesday.

On the daily exchange, extras, firsts and receipts dropped three cents to 28, 27 and 25 cents, respectively. Pulllets are down two cents at 25 cents a dozen.

In the latter division cubes are gradually working to higher levels with standards a half cent higher and firsts a cent higher for the day. Extras and standard cubes are now on a parity at 46 cents. Lower grade cubes are up to 45 cents. Prime firsts and extra grades are unchanged for the day.

No change has been announced in prints or butterfat prices but the trade are buying liberally in anticipation of an advance. Butterfat bids range from 48 and 49 cents in the country to 52 cents delivered Portland.

Country and country dressed meat receipts along the coast continue moderate with only limited offerings for the Thursday trade. Buyers are still searching for fancy pork and veal. Prices remain extreme at 13 cents on calves and 17 cents on hogs. An additional half cent is obtained in exceptional cases.

A fair demand is shown for hogs, roosters and capons. Light hogs quoted at 20 cents with heavies at 25 cents. Capons are down to 37 cents.

Everybody can eat eggs now. Offerings are plentiful and prices on an extremely low level. At retail on the public market the housewife can buy the best fresh standards at 21 cents. Pulllets of medium size are offered at 29 cents.

Trading Shifty In Wall Street; Closing Steady

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (By the Associated Press).—Occasional shifts of speculative sentiment again characterized today's stock market, but the undercurrent was fairly firm. Bond traders succeeded in uncovering a few new weak spots, but the apparent security of the floating supply in a number of other issues, particularly among the insurers, public utilities and equipments, forced them to bid high in order to cover their commitments. An irregularly higher opening was followed by a sinking spell, but by early afternoon another upturn was under way with trading dull on the rally.

Market leadership was shared at intervals by such issues as Adams Express, Western Union, Remington Typewriter, Hudson Motors, Collins and Allman and General Railway Signal.

The closing was steady; fresh buying of Wheeling and Lake Erie shares, the common crossing 55, and advance of two to three points in Warner Bros. Pictures "A." International Paper, Southern Dairies "A," Fiske Rubber first preferred and U. S. East Iron 7 1/2 occurred in the final hour.

U. S. Steel, however, turned heavy again and some of the other pivotal industrials also shaded their best figures.

Total sales approximated, 1,100,000 shares.

What Makes Stars Shine

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 27 (AP)—Screenland, the domain of make-believe, is crammed with contradictions, and none of these is more bewildering than the search for an answer to the question, "What makes the stars shine?"

Many factors reach into the heart of the public and from it draw film success. But along with each of these, say the studio casting directors, there marches an unnamed something, an appeal that cannot be defined.

This declare the men who measure theater-going taste with a cash register, as the key to the temple of fame.

If it is there, the camera will catch it. An example chosen at random by a casting director is Norma Shearer. With it, says the critic, she inspires the confidence of her audience and elicits its sympathy in a natural, artless manner.

A totally different method of appeal is found in the artistry of Lon Chaney. He devoted four weeks to perfecting his makeup for the Chinese character of Mr. Wu. It took him three hours to put it on each day he worked in the Oriental picture.

John Crawford is another illustration picked from the scores who have it, opposed to the thousands who have it not. Along with it she registers pliancy and wry.

An almost unknown little Russian immigrant, out of a back-ground of world war woe, radiates it, says Director Edwin Carewe who put her into the cast of Tobey's "Resurrection." Her name is Sonia Poushkaroff.

Fourteen days after her marriage in Russia, the great war broke out. Her bridegroom went to the front. She nursed in a base hospital. Then her husband was reported killed. After the war she came to America with her family and took up dentistry. Finally, the films found her. Recently her husband was located, his memory almost gone, working as a baggage-man on a European steamship dock.

Sonia Poushkaroff has lent for him. Meanwhile she has put to work her possession, the unnamed something that carried her into the screen heaven.
