MISSIONARY FROM CHINA SPEAKS HERE

Miss Minnie Argentsinger Tells Attitude of Orient to Foreigners

BAPTIST CHURCH CROWD HEARS HER

Ministerial Association in Meeting Today Discusses Religious Canvass of La Grande.

The political condition in China and the natural resentment of the Chinese toward foreigners, due to the former ill treatment and the inconsistencies of foreigners, was explained last night by Miss Minnie Argetsinger, missionary from West China, when she addressed a large audience at the First Baptist church here.

Miss Argetsinger has been in the United States for about a year now from China, where she is a tacher in a normal school for young Chinese women. At present she is delayed in her return to the orient because of the unsettled condition there.

The Chinese see only the worst American customs and are treated badly by a large percentage of the foreigners. Having an anti-foreign feeling they naturally have an anti-Christian feeling, she told her audience.

Miss Argetsinger also told something of her work in West China which is in the interior, and where there is a greater respect for the foreigner than in East China, which is nearer the coast.

Mr. Riley returned this morning from Hood River, where he attended the Eastern Oregon Convocation of the Episcopal church. Others attending the convocation from here returned home Saturday night and yesterday morning.

During the convocation Mr. Riley was appointed chairman of the committee on the dispatch of business, one of the most important appointments during the meeting, having to do with all of the affairs of the diocese.

Mr. Riley was also elected to five other offices: chairman of diocesan commission on evangelism chairman of committee on lay readers, member of trial court, member of council of advice and member of the executive council.

Other local appointments made were: H. A. Zurbrick, diocesan treasurer; J. D. Slater, member of council of advice; and E. Marks, member of commission on evangelism.

Local elections made at the women's meeting were, diocesan treasurer, Mrs. Anna Polack; and diocesan box work, secretary and representative to provential synod, Mrs. G. N. Tarkington.

There was a public meeting on Friday evening during convocation, when Bishop E. Cross, of Spokane,

JUST ONE OF THE HERD

Very few business men are willing to be just one of the herd, "an also-ran" in their particular line. Most of them have the ambition to make their store or business the outstanding, dominant one in the field—convincing you so thoroughly as to their ability to serve and satisfy you that you spend the majority of your money with them gladly.

That dominance can only be secured quickly and economically through intelligent use of advertising space in The Observer. Here it is that you naturally look for advertising messages, for business news to influence your buying. The merchant who overlooks that opportunity misses his chance to be outstanding in his business in his community. In no other way can he possibly tell his story so convincingly and effectively to so many people in this territory.

Redmen Change From Primordial To Modern Ways

Pipe of Peace Replaced by Cigaret and Charleston Is the New Indian War Dance.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 (AP)—Gone is Longfellow's Minnehaha — she who used to roam the forest.

In her place has come a flapper who can powder; who can rouge.

Hiawatha, too, altered: he has shed the buckskin leggins.

Nowadays it's spats and trousers, with sharp creases down the pantlegs.

Chief Roy Oshkosh has brought this word from the reservation at Menominee, Wis., to the first 1927 pow wow of the grand council fire of American Indians.

Chief Himself Natty

The chief himself was natty in trousers that carried a knife edge and with smart styled spats fitted snugly over slickly shined shoes.

"How can I express to you," Chief Oshkosh asked, "the great change that has taken place in our people? Ah, I have it. My daughter, Mrs. Rhoda House, is the president of the Indian Women's Voters league of the Menominee reservation."

The change, the chief confesses has lifted the burden from the shoulders of the squaw and placed it on the brave, but he is not sorry. Times have changed since his grandfather, the first Chief Oshkosh, ruled the reservation. Dreams of old-time power and glory, said young Chief Roy, are for the wrinkled braves.

Pill Replaces Pipe

"The cigarette," he said "has replaced the pipe of peace among our wives and daughters. Rouge, delicately scented, is the modern war paint. Stockings of silk are quite the thing.

"The charleston—and the black-bottom—are our war dances. Our girls are flappers, and our young men wear floppy pants, and I suspect that the latter like their gin."

He painted a bright picture for the tribesmen gathered in council. He said the Indian is much better off with electric lights, automobiles and his modernism than the Pottawatomie, the Winebago, Oneida, Cherokee, Mohawk and all the rest who roamed the virgin forests while the squaws did the work.

Nowadays, he said, the women take care of the home, join voters leagues and take a real interest in affairs, while the braves take care of business, with an ever-watchful eye to windward for new sartorical distinction.

Mt. Emily Dairy Robbed; Loot Is From $75 to $100

The Mt. Emily Dairy on Fir street was entered by robbers this morning at about five minutes before six o'clock, the safe combination worked and between $75 and $100 taken. A definite check had not yet been made early this afternoon to determine the exact amount of money stolen.

The place was entered through the front door the lock broken and the door pryed open. The police were by there at 5:45 o'clock and everything was all right then. At about five minutes until six Vere Blair, working at the Yellow Dog, next door, heard a noise, but thought it to be the men starting work at the creamery. Grant Bean was the first to find that the store had been broken into when he came to work at about 6:20 o'clock.

The robbers took only the money sack, containing silver and currency and three of four checks, leaving over $150 in checks, which were also in the drawer. An insurance policy was also missing, but was found at about ten o'clock this morning on Jefferson avenue, near Fourth street.

Officers, so far, have no clue as to who the robbers were. The job is similar to the L. and L. drug store robbery last week.

MILLION AT FUNERAL OF JAP EMPEROR

Most Pretentious Ceremony in Oriental History Marks Burial

9,000 PARTICIPATE IN PROCESSION

Body of Yoshihito, Descendant of Sun Goddess, Carried in Magnificent Catafalque.

By Victor G. C. Eubank

TOKYO, Feb. 7. (AP)—Yoshihito, 123rd emperor of Japan, tonight was accorded the most pretentious funeral in the history of the Orient, approximately 1,000,000 bowed, damp-eyed subjects viewing the gorgeous cortege which marked the passing of a personage regarded as a lineal descendant of the mythical sun goddess.

Although the late ruler actually was the real emperor for only a brief time, owing to an illness which afflicted him from the time of his youth, the Japanese revered him as a diety, his death causing a real nation wide mourning which foreigners never understand. Consequently, tonight's procession toward the tomb excited unusual emotion among a usually stoical people.

Held at Night Time

As the magnificent catafalque slowly wended its way over the four-mile route from the imperial palace to Shinjuku gardens, half suppressed sobs of men, women and children were held. All imperial funerals are held in the night time because the imperial spirit must go from darkness into darkness.

Approximately 9000 persons participated in the procession, which began to line up shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon. The forward end of the procession and the catafalque began to move promptly at 6 o'clock whereupon artillery throughout Japan fired 101 guns and the battleships 18 guns.

The route of the procession was lighted with 10-foot wooden lanterns on pedestals and containing electric lights and also by great braziers atop huge bamboo piles resembling burning pine faggots. Every effort was made to preserve the age-old traditions and even the quaint costumes of those who participated in processions a thousand years ago were reproduced.

No Women in Parade

No women participated in the procession, princess and women of the nobility witnessing the ceremony at Shinjuku gardens and at Awakawa, the burial ground.

In addition to court musicians and reed music, several naval and military bands interspersed the procession, playing soft funeral dirges.

A feature of the procession was the huge catafalque drawn by four almost black oxen sanctified by due ceremony. Nine imperial ox tenders and numerous assistants guided the catafalque, a vehicle weighing more than one ton, fashioned from four kinds of wood. In the wheel-hubs, the centers of two great wooden wheels were concealed peculiar musical attachments emitting seven distinct tones which merged into a wailing dirge as the catafalque proceeded.

Sobs of Grief

The passing of the eerie, wailing catafalque seemed to affect the spectators tremendously, calling out sobs of grief.

Prior to leaving the palace a brief ceremony was held, attended only by Emperor Hirohito, Dowager Empress Sadako, the young princess, and their sisters of the royal household and retainers and priests. This was a sort of family farewell at which offerings to the spirits were made.

STATE FINANCING PLAN ADVANCED

Senator Joseph Drops New Scheme into Legislative Hopper

STATE HOUSE, SALEM, Ore., Feb. 7 (AP)—A brand new plan for financing the state government was dropped into the legislative hopper here today by Senator Joseph, of Multnomah county.

Briefly it contemplates:

First—the submission of a moderate income tax bill to the electorate at the 1928 general election.

Second—the financing of state pending the enactment of the income tax bill with loans from the industrial accident commission and the state highway commission.

"I believe that the business and affairs of the state of Oregon should be conducted as much as possible in the same manner as a prudent person would conduct the business in which he is engaged," said Senator Joseph in announcing the plan.

"Sometimes," he continued, "it becomes necessary to tide over a business by borrowing money for a short period of time, making preparations for th repayment of the same at the earliest possible date at the least cost.

"This morning I introduced a bill authorizing the state of Oregon to borrow from the state industrial accident commission and the highway commission any funds available, on such terms and conditions as might be agreed upon between the state board of control and the respective commissions named."

"I am not in favor of going to the expense of holding a special election to enact a state income tax as proposed by the governor, as it is entirely unnecessary to go to that expense and have the people go through the turmoil and trouble incident thereto."

Mrs. Huddleston Swims Catalina Channel Sunday

Mother of 11-Year-Old Boy Is First Woman to Reach Mainland from Island Isthmus.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Feb. 7. (AP).—"A pot of gold," the means of giving her 11-year-old son an education, today appeared to Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston to be within her reach as a result of her courageous and successful swimming of the San Pedro channel. She was the first woman natator to negotiate the 20 odd mile wide channel which separates Santa Catalina island from California's mainland.

Mrs. Huddleston, 30, former resident of Mattoon, Ill., competed for no prize in her swim, but she hopes to realize a handsome revenue from motion pictures, vaudeville and advertising contracts as a result of her channel conquest. The fruits of her victory, she says, will be used to send her boy, Everett, through school.

Vaudeville Offer

A tentative offer to go on the vaudeville stage already has been made to Mrs. Huddleston, who at present is the proprietor of a beauty parlor here.

Mrs. Huddleston who learned to swim less than a year ago, triumphed over adverse tides, chilling waters and fog in 20 hours and 42 minutes. Even the attacks of a savage barracuda fish failed to shake her determination to cross and at 11:14 o'clock yesterday morning she touched bottom at Point Vicente. Her attempt started at 3:32 p. m. Saturday from the isthmus on the island.

Son Spurs Her

As the goal hove in sight, Mrs. Huddleston in near delirium, was spurred on by her son who called to her from a convoying boat:

"Come on, mama; come on, mama, don't give up!"

When she was helped out of the water after finishing the final quarter mile she was in a state of demi-coma. She collapsed when lifted into the boat. Her left side was paralyzed.

About her arms and body were bites and bruises received in her battle with the barracuda which had attacked her when she was midway across the channel.

Third Attempt.

Mrs. Huddleston's conquest culminated her third attempt to negotiate the channel. Last month, with an education for her son the incentive for her entering, she participated in the Wrigley marathon swim in which a $15,000 prize was offered for the first woman to cross the channel, and was taken from the water after she had covered about two-thirds of the way.

Mrs. Huddleston was the only one of four starters to reach the mainland. Peter Meyer, of Cincinnati, who put off from the island isthmus at 4:05 p. m. Saturday, gave up exhausted at 6:29 a. m. Sunday when he was two and

Daugherty and Miller Case Is On Trial Again

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Having shaken the dust of four months from piles of ledgers checks and bank statements and reassembled some of the 88 witnesses that testified in the first trial, the government today put Harry M. Daugherty former Attorney general and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, on trial a second time on charges of having defrauded the United States of their best services in the transfer of $7,000,000 of American Metal company assets.

Protest by counsel for the defense caused assignment of a new judge to hear the case and John C. Knox replaced Judge Julian W. Mack on the bench. Aaron Shapiro, of Chicago and San Francasco, replaced Colonel William Rand as counsel for Miller, but Max D. Steur resumed defense of Daugherty.

Otherwise the courtroom, the one in which the first trial was held, seemed like the first trial were still under way, the familiar faces of government attorneys witnesses and reporters adding to the illusion that hours instead of months had elapsed since the first trial concluded in a disagreement.

Selection of jurors began at 10:30 o'clock from a long list of talesmen. The length of jury service caused frequent requests for dismissal.

Siskiyou County Swept By Blizzard

YREKA, Cal., Feb. 7. (AP)—Siskiyou county was swept yesterday by a storm that approached a blizzard in intensity. Weed and Mt. Shasta reported a snowfall of one foot. Snow plows had their hardest work of the winter clearing the Pacific highway. The territory between Dunsmuir and Redding reported torrential rains.

SEEKS ORDER IN FOREIGN SETTLEMENT

Secretary Kellogg Renews Negotiations with Two Chinese Factions

TENSION GROWING IN SHANGHAI TODAY

Attacking Southerners Nearing City—One Report of Capture Spread in Hankow.

LONDON, Feb. 7. (AP)—Reports received here today from Shanghai stated that Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang's forces have captured Chuchow, the advanced base of the Cantonese armies in Chekiang, and that the Cantonese are retreating to the southwest.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. (AP)—Not only the interest of 30,000 foreigners including 4000 Americans but those of the Chinese people in general require that "order shall prevail" in Shanghai, Secretary Kellogg has informed the military leaders in China's warfare in proposing that the international settlement of the great port be excluded from the fighting zone.

He emphasized this point in the second open invitation to be transmitted by the United States to the war lords of the north and south in China since the internecine strife in that country recently became the subject of international concern.

The proposal the text of which was made public last night here asserted the fate of American interests in Shanghai "is the occasion of great anxiety to the American government," and suggested that the international settlement be neutralized in the present struggle so that "American citizens and other foreigners may receive adequate protection."

Ready For Peace

It was added that the American government "will be ready to become a party to friendly and orderly negotiations properly instituted and conducted regarding the future status of the settlement."

The plan already has been presented to Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord and influential dictator, and General Chiang Kai-Shek, military dictator of the Cantonese or southern forces, while the consul general at Shanghai has been instructed to take the question up direct with General Sun Chuang-fang, governor of the Shanghai provinces and ally of Chang.

Although made independently of any other foreign powers, the American proposal is known to have been communicated in advance as a matter of information to the ambassadors here of other powers chiefly concerned.

Secretary Kellogg still was without word from the Chinese military leaders today in response to his Shanghai proposal.

TENSION GROWS

SHANGHAI, Feb. 7. (AP)—Tension increased in Shanghai today as the city, now crowded with foreign refugees awaited news from the battle front south of here and studied a report that the attacking Cantonese army would not attempt to take the city by force.

Messages from Hangchow, critical point for the embattled forces declared the booming of artillery could be heard there indicating that the attacking southerners have advanced again. To offset this, headquarters of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, ally of the northern powers and defender of Shanghai, his last stronghold, asserted his

PLAN CHANGES IN EPISCOPAL MARRIAGE VOW

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Elimination of the word "obey" from the Church of England marriage service is one of the changes suggested by the house of bishops which has long been studying the revision of the Episcopalian book of common prayer.

The bishops' proposals, made public today, also provide for the elimination of the word "endow" from the man's side of the service, substituting "and all my worldly goods I with thee share."

These proposals, among others, were presented at the church house in Westminister at a convocation of the two great synods of the English church—those of Canterbury and York.

La Grande High Teams Take Two Games at Wallowa; Tigers Come Home with 26-16 Score; Girls Win 11-10

La Grande high school athletes brought home a brace of basketball trophies Saturday night when the boys and girls' basketball teams played the two teams from Wallowa at Wallowa. The anticipated situation was reversed, namely that the boys had comparatively easy going while the girls had tough time of it.

Fans were led to believe that the sextet would romp away with the laurels because Wallowa had been beaten so decisively here earlier in the season. Abreast or ahead most of the time Wallowa controlled the situation until well toward the end when the La Granders finally found themselves long enough to make the score read 16 to 11 in their favor.

Many things contributed toward the situation as it stood, among which may be listed a bad infection of over confidence, vast improvement in the Wallowa team's play, and a severe fall which Betty Cochran the jumping center on the ineffective - list. She limped through the game with a fine show of grit but the center combination was badly demoralized and none of the other members of the sextet got going; fans and team alike are thanking good fortune at the outcome. The team made its worst showing since the present winning streak that has cost over 10 consecutive games. Lois Nelson went out of the game via the foul route, Ruth Durland taking her place. the lineups:

La Grande (11)		(16) Wallowa
Courtney (5)	F	(6) Eddleman
Campbell (6)	F	(4) Hann
Cochran	C	Couch
Stange	C	Hunter
Reynolds	G	Trump
Nelson	G	Johnson
Durland	S

Tigers Victorious

In the second game, the play was hotly contested through the first half, the half-way mark showing all square at 12. The La Granders were slow in getting the kinks in their muscles loose after the strenuous game with Pendleton the night before. Wallowa's attack was spirited and persistent, but gradually lost out when the La Granders once got their stride. Hanks came up from his guard position to drop three pretty baskets from the center of the floor. Otherwise there was little of the sensational in the game.

Newlin, Zundel and Lyman each ringed two baskets but Lyman had three free throws to his credit and consequently tied with Hanks for high scoring honors. Berry was sidetracked via the too many fouls route and Stalcup took his place.

On the Wallowa side, Johnson was the best scorer.

The two games were watched by a large delegation of La Granders who followed the teams, some 11 or 12 autos loaded with fans returning home about midnight.
