DIAZ ARMY BEATS LIBERAL FORCES

Report Received that Chinandega Evacuated After Air Raid

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 8. (AP)—After an air attack with bombs and machine guns by two airplanes attached to the conservative army of President Diaz, the liberal forces which captured the town of Chinandega Sunday were reported to have hoisted the white flag. The report was brought back by New Orleans, a native of New Orleans who with Lee Mason, carried out the air raid, in coordination with an advance by the conservative troops aided by reinforcements sent from Managua Sunday night.

Brooks said the conservative troops reentered the town, parts of which were still smoldering from the fire which destroyed a large area. Conservative officials expressed the belief that the liberals, scattering to nearby towns, probably would return in the next day or so to continue the battle. By this time it was said, further conservative reinforcements were expected to be on the scene.

The conservative general Jose Pallas Diaz, has left Managua for Matagua, where the liberal general Moncada is reported to be concentrating his forces for an attack on the towns.

Game Birds All Right in Eastern Oregon, Report

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 8. (AP)—Reports that many pheasants and quail during the cold weather in Eastern Oregon are untraced, according to the statement of Gene M. Simpson, superintendent of state game farms. Simpson went into the country around Pendleton and Pilot Rock during the snow to investigate the reports. He failed to find a single instance in which a game bird died of cold or hunger. During cold weather the pheasants went into the feed lots with the stock and helped themselves, Simpson said. "The quails are just dug down through the snow anywhere," he said. He saw more of the latter variety during his two days at Pilot Rock than he thought existed in Oregon.

Picture Daugherty In Sinister Colors

FEDERAL COURT, NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—A picture of Harry M. Daugherty as an attorney general who stooped to graft while sworn to enforce the laws, was sketched today by United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner, in his opening address at the trial of Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian.

"We will show you," Buckner said, "that Jess W. Smith, who later committed suicide in Daugherty's Washington home, was his agent in the transfer of $7,000,000 of assets of the American Metal company to Richard Merton, a German who came over here and negotiated with John T. King, once time republican national committeeman, who died last June, for the return of that enemy owned property."

"We will show it not by Merton's testimony, for he will tell you he paid money only to King and Miller, but by tracing some of the $221,000 of liberty bonds the very ones Merton gave to King, to the bank of Daugherty's brother, Mal S. Daugherty, in Washington Court-house, Ohio."

Buckner's opening was punctuated with interruptions by defense attorneys.

Aron Sapiro, counsel for Miller, objected to Buckner's use of charts, calling them "theatrical props." The court, however, permitted Buckner to continue using them.

STATE HOUSE, SALEM, Ore., Feb. 8. (AP)—Faith in the Oregon flax industry and willingness to boost that activity at the state penitentiary was manifested by the ways and means committee last night without opposition, when it voted a revolving fund of $200,000 for the prison flax plant. This was at the request of the state board of control made through State Treasurer Kay.

The state treasurer read from a new audit of the industry made by Governor Patterson which shows $123,000 worth of flax material on hand, based on present prices, and $213,000 worth of buildings, equipment and machinery. Since the flax operation was started 12 years ago, Kay said it had lost about $107,000, due to experiments and inexperience in handling.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT DRAWS NEAR

(Continued from Page One) Friday evening three games are scheduled, starting at 7, 8 and 9 o'clock and Saturday afternoon two more games will be played, at 2 and 3 o'clock. At the end of the Saturday afternoon games either five or six teams will have been eliminated.

Extra Game May Be Played Saturday night, at 8 p. m., the championship game will be played unless, because of the eventuality that a team with one defeat might defeat a team with no losses, in which case another game will be required to determine the best quarter.

If the 8 o'clock game Saturday night results in two teams being left each with but one loss, the play-off will be called either after 20 minutes of rest or on the following Monday night, Feb. 28. Whether the game be played Saturday night or held over until Monday rests with the two teams and their coaches. If an extra game, which would be the 15th contest, should be played Saturday night, five-minute quarters will be allowed to give the players as much rest as possible.

The drawing to determine the grouping of the eight teams and to determine their schedule of games in the tournament, will take place shortly before the tournament. Only one drawing will be made.

Caccia to Referee R. C. Caccia, of Portland, who has refereed twice before in Union tournaments, has again been engaged to handle the games. His refereeing has been found acceptable to both the players and fans and the committee considers itself fortunate to secure his services.

Some tournament officials are yet to be named but these will be selected in the near future.

UNION PREPARING UNION, Feb. 8. (Special)—This town is getting ready to entertain the fourth district basketball tournament which will be held on the 24, 25, and 26 of this month. The school gym is being repaired in a few places and the seating capacity will be further enlarged this year to better accommodate the crowds that will be here for the three days of sport. The Union commercial club has ordered a fine cup which will be presented to the team that comes out victor in the series of games.

BRIGHT YEAR IS EXPECTED IN NORTHWEST

running just about the same as usual, and our crop prospects for the coming season were never better. We have had a great deal of moisture and plenty of snow to insure good crops for next season."

"Enterprise—A. M. Pace, cashier, Wallowa National bank: "We feel that Wallowa county is stinging a real 'come-back.' The county was rather hard hit by the depression. To a large extent this was due to the forcing of a lot of money on our stockmen—in fact, setting up men in business who were not stockmen—by livestock loan companies. Of course, a lot of these men went broke, and the legitimate operators were hard hit. It overstocked the ranges and upset things in general. Today, practically all of our livestock men and farmer customers are making money, a lot of them doing extremely well. It has been a case of the survival of the fittest, and most of those on the job are now capable and successful. We have felt for a long time, and outside experts now confirm this, that there is no country in the northwest better adapted to the dairy business and the raising of hogs and sheep. To anyone who observes the livestock train rolling out of this valley every Saturday, loaded with many cars of hogs, sheep and cattle, and the heavy shipments of lumber, grain and cream, it is evident that Wallowa county cannot help forging to the front and staying there. Our first cheese factory, making Swiss cheese, is getting a nice start and is likely to begin a large industry here. Much inquiry from the outside is being received regarding dairying possibilities, and all who have tried it think our abundant pasture, water and cheap feed make the best possible conditions. Deposits in banks are holding up well, and all legitimate demand for loans is readily taken care of. In some places the last year's crop was not too good, but prospects for the coming year are about the best ever."

Pendleton—Lyman G. Rice, cashier, The First National bank of Pendleton: "Crop outlook in the territory adjacent to Pendleton are particularly bright at this time. We have had much more rainfall than we have in any of the last four or five years; in fact, this is the first year in those several that the lighter lands have been well soaked with moisture. Of course, there are many things which might happen, any of which would seriously curtail production. The chief danger we have is from freezing weather, the possibility of which continues up until the latter part of April. The prospects for livestock growers are also very good. Generally, sheep are in very good condition, and the expected crop of lambs should be very satisfactory. The winter weather thus far has been sufficiently mild to hold down the operating costs for both cattle and sheep raisers to a very reasonable level."

Baker Business Quiet Baker—C. R. Wheeler, cashier, Baker Loan & Trust Co.: "I have made no particular investigation of business conditions, but on the whole, business appears to be very quiet, due largely to the depression in the lumber business. However, none of our mills have closed down. We also had a very poor year from the standpoint of irrigation, on account of light snowfall last winter and our crops correspondingly short. Prospects for next year look much better, the snowfall being greater and the ground soaked by late rains last fall. The lumber business also appears to be reviving, the prices being somewhat better. Sheep are doing well and the better prices for beef have encouraged the cattle men. There is considerable mining development going on in the Snake River region and the Mother Lode mine, which has furnished employment for quite a large number of men. Taking as a whole, the situation is not as bad as might be expected in view of the adverse conditions."

WOMAN BADLY HURT IN DRUNKEN BRAWL LONGVIEW, Wash., Feb. 8. (AP)—Mrs. Mary St. Clair, aged about 40, was in the county hospital here today suffering from concussion of the brain, bruises about the face and other injuries received last Friday night and four men, including her son, aged 17, were held in jail as material witnesses in connection with what officers declare was a drunken brawl. The officers said they believed the woman had been beaten. The men held are Art Cullter, John Topor, Robert C. Campbell and the woman's son, John St. Clair, claimed to know nothing of the affair. Officers said the woman fell on a stove. Hospital officials said the woman had little chance of recovery.

PRINCESS CAUSE OF DOWNFALL OF MORO CHIEFTAIN (Continued from Page One) accompanying young woman. Stashed His Pants In order to make it clearly understood that she was displeased, she then seized a knife and attacked Datu Tahil's trousers, which were lying nearby. In a moment they were in shreds. They were the only trousers Tahil had with him. He positively could not attend the conference at the royal palace without a pair of trousers, and so the negotiations were held up. The sultan, the story goes on, waited until his royal patience was exhausted and then, believing one of his chieftains had ignored a command, sent word to the Pahlipine constabulary to go ahead and attack Tahil if they cared to. The constabulary did. It moved up to the fortification and then learned that the princess was inside. That stove off the attack for several days. Finally Tahil and the princess fled with a few followers, but leaving most of the retinue to face the fire. Special correspondents reported 60 Moros were killed in the attack. Official reports listed the dead at 25. Princess Pentitent. The princess later was found exhausted and pennit, wandering on a mountain side, but her husband was nowhere about. He is being sought on a charge of sedition. His people have turned against him. The princess is being kept in semi-confinement, but she has shown such penitence that it is believed she will not be punished further.
