OTHERS SELL TOO
BUCKHARTS—In Queen Marie's opinion the low price of Henry Ford's product permits American workmen to enjoy their Sundays in the country. Apparently she did not notice that many of those workmen have other kinds of cars.

The jury that awarded an eastern woman $10,000 because she couldn't sing after an accident probably doesn't know yet whether it was damages or bonus they were awarding.

When in the course of years the owner of property has claimed its cost as depreciation, no further claim will be allowed.

Depreciation does not apply to inventories or stock in trade.

The potential earning capacity of an individual, his inventive genius, or his literary ability may not be made the basis of an allowance for depreciation.

OH, NO! NOT 38
NEW YORK—Miss Dorothy L. Scott was being arraigned.

"Do you plead guilty to 38?" A magistrate asked.

"Oh, dear, no!"

"How fast were you going then?"

"Oh, I was speeding all right. I thought you meant my age."

She paid a $25 fine.

BULL KAYOS FOUR CARS
HAYDEN, Ohio—A bull disliked the looks of a passing freight train and expressed his feelings as a bull does. He charged, knocking four cars off the track including one loaded with dynamite. There was no explosion. The bull will charge no more.

Are You Too Thin?
Writer Says Folks Underweight Should Consider Question Seriously

One does not need to be "fat" in order to be healthy—but folks underweight should try to correct their weakness at once!

You do not need to be a Doctor to understand this danger. Common sense and the fact that Life Insurance Companies refuse to sell insurance to folks who are "too thin" furnish convincing daily proofs!

In the opinion of the writer, if you are five or more pounds underweight, you ought to try a few weeks' use of McCoy's Tablets at once. Tiny, tasteless tablets, containing the world-known flesh giving value, the physical power and strength of Cod Liver Oil. At Red Cross Drug Store and other drug stores (60 tablets 60c) on money back if not satisfied plan. —Adv.

Gladys Says: Get rid of the fellow who asks for a kiss. The live ones take it without asking.

DO THIS
Do you know there's lots of people settling round in every town. Growlin' like a broody chicken. Knockin' every good thing down? Don't you be that kind of a cattie. 'Cause they ain't no use on earth. You just be a booster rooster. Crow and boost for all your're worth.

A true sport is one who can chat lightly, smile and be at ease while watching the taximeter.

The great open spaces lose much of their attractiveness to the individual who has run out of gas.

Italian women have organized to promote greater modesty in dress. Probably inspired by the manufacturers of materials.

Just because you don't steal, don't lie and don't cheat, don't curse the notion that you are an angel.

But "The Gilded Highway" was not completely dominated by the old-timers. Primarily a drama of youth of today, the youthful element was excellently taken care of by John Harron, a convincing type of young American; by Dorothy Devore, whose beauty and whose qualities as a comedienne have won her fame, by the fragile little English girl, Andrea Tourneur; by Gardner James, fascinating Myrna Loy.

Comedy showing "Try and Do It."

Indians Rescue Whites in "Overland Stage"

Indians attack a town of settlers with no cavalry to come to the rescue in "The Overland Stage," starring Ken Maynard, which opens at the Star theater today for a three day run. Now it has apparently been a set rate of motion pictures which have a scene of Indians attacking settlers to have the United States cavalry come dashing to the rescue, banners flying, sabers gleaming as they gallop in beautiful approved positions to succor the whites.

Charles R. Rogers, producer of "The Overland Stage," and Al Rogell, director of the picture, decided to differ with their production. Here—It is Indians who rescue the settlers from Indians! This is practically one of the first times in which the Indians have not been made to appear as the villains.

"The Overland Stage," is one of the few productions in the history of motion pictures which shows the American Indian as he really was. A willing friend of the white man so long as he was treated right. But when a dissolute gambler, to gain his ends, deceived them with stories about the white man and his treatment of the Indian, one hand rose in its wrath to wreak vengeance.

Another band of Indians, who did not believe the tales of wrong doing, came to the rescue. How peace was restored and the villain awarded his just dues will be shown in "The Overland Stage."

Also showing a Buster Brown comedy.

Rich in comedy, with a melodramatic flavor, and a capital story, Al Christie's latest comedy production, "The Nervous Wreck," featuring Harrison Ford, Phyllis Haver, Chester Conklin, Mack Swain and Hobart Bosworth, and admirably directed by Scott Sidney, opens a three day run at the Arcade theater today.

One cannot follow the fortunes of the two nervous wrecks in this picture—wrecks in spirit perhaps, but not in their physical capacity to do big things in the way of eating and causing excitement—without enjoying one's self hugely. Mr. Ford was a droll figure as the leading wreck who has gone to Arizona presumably to die, but whose escapades nearly cause him to be lynched by the Sheriff, his jealous rival in love for the rancher's daughter, played by Miss Haver. You'll squirm with glee at the antics of Conklin, as cook and cowboy, while Swain's performance as a de luxe rancher will remind you forcibly of his work in "Charlie Chaplin's" comedies, and evoke your reminiscences of old, Tin Snoring plate episode done by Ford is excellent in its way. No one who enjoys the best amusement the screen has to offer, can afford to miss this delightful and bracing feature comedy.

"Gilded Highway" Cast Contains Old Timers

Fond memories were stirred at the Sherry theater when "The Gilded Highway" opened for a run of two days beginning yesterday.

First, there was Florence Turner, returning to pictures, grey-haired and with a few wrinkles, but still appealing playing this time a mother role, instead of the young heroine of other days.

Then there was Macklyn Ar-Luecke, once the star of George Ade's "The County Chairman" and of "The Roundup," now cast as the father of a family that gets rich too quickly.

There was Sheldon Lewis, the screen "villain," whom old-timers remember. And Tom Mills, the former Vitagraph director and star.

But "The Gilded Highway" was not completely dominated by the old-timers. Primarily a drama of youth of today, the youthful element was excellently taken care of by John Harron, a convincing type of young American; by Dorothy Devore, whose beauty and whose qualities as a comedienne have won her fame, by the fragile little English girl, Andrea Tourneur; by Gardner James, fascinating Myrna Loy.
