American Cemetery Unaffected by Alien Land Laws Mexico Adopted

WASHINGTON Feb. 11 (AP)—

At least one parcel of American-owned land in Mexico is unaffected by the dispute between the United States and the Calles government over application of its alien property laws.

By tacit agreement, the United States National Cemetery, two and one-half miles from the main plaza in the Mexican capital, where 750 unknown heroes of the Mexican War sleep under one monument, will not be disturbed in any way, regardless what arrangement is finally made with respect to American property rights elsewhere.

Bought in 1850, it is a two-acre tract, purchased by the war department in 1850 from a private Mexican owner. It contains the graves of many Americans and a few other foreigners who have died in that country. Its freedom from any disturbance is due, in large measure, to the solicitude of Thomas Shea, the superintendent, who became concerned over the welfare of his sternly sleeping charges when the Mexican land laws were first promulgated. Shea, born in County Cork, Ireland, in 1859, and a veteran of the Sixth United States Cavalry, has been in charge of the cemetery forty years. He recently was described in a letter to Secretary Davis as a "most heavenly old soldier," who is "worth a visit in himself and is absorbingly charming."

Flowers Abound "He has flowers everywhere and lovely creepers growing all over the old stones," the secretary's correspondent wrote. "He was about to modernize all of the paths which were not to his liking, but I begged him not to."

"It (the cemetery) has wonderful old trees and is separated from the old British Cemetery by a hedge of roses. It is one of the most charming spots in Mexico and you can feel safe and proud of it."

Burials in the cemetery ceased after 1925, because of the growth of the city and to comply with the sanitary code it had enacted.

PARTNER OF HUSBAND IN BOTH LAW AND HOME

Mrs. Charles I. Martin, wife of Brigadier General Martin, who was recently appointed governor of the National Military Home at Leavenworth, Kan., is a real partner of her husband. Ten years after the Martins were married they enrolled in the college of law at the University of Kansas, attending classes and lectures together. Admitted to the bar, they practiced together for some time in Wichita. Mrs. Martin was the second woman in Kansas to become a lawyer. Later she was appointed assistant attorney general of the state. She has now become her husband's partner in the management of the affairs of the military home. "A woman can not find true happiness in the business world if she must be away from her family," she declared.

The cost of living dropped 1.3 per cent during 1926. Probably these Herrin people had something to do with it.

MICR HAVE INVADED Florida, too. Fair bathers are having them embroidered on their beach costumes. There certainly is something very decorative about Cecile Jones of New York City, but nobody would have given credit to the nice she wears.

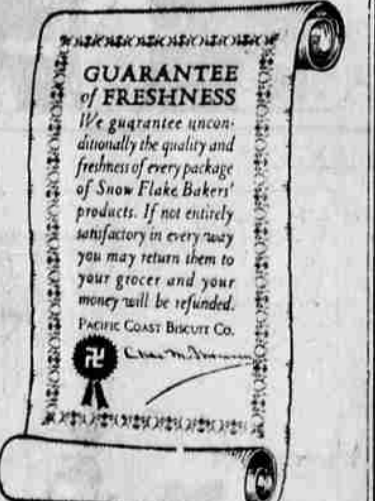

Domestic Science Teachers Endorse Snow Flake Bakers' "Guarantee of Freshness"

"A SURPRISING advance . . ." they said. "Every woman should appreciate this new Guarantee . . ." "Certainly a progressive move." "Accept my congratulations." Domestic Science teachers have quickly recognized the outstanding value of Snow Flake Bakers' "Guarantee of Freshness." They understand and appreciate the protection it brings to the food-buyers of the West—positive assurance of freshness or money refunded.

band is expected to repeat the good impression made on previous tours. Dances billed. Dances as well as concerts are given in the towns visited to help defray the expenses of the trip. The band orchestra, which plays for most of the student body dances and many receptions in Corvallis is considered one of the best on the campus. Many members of the band this year have been prominent in band work over the state. H. S. McCurley, assistant director of the college band, is director of the Corvallis high school band that took first place in the annual high school band contest in Corvallis the last three years. Loren Luper, former solo trombonist for the O. A. C. band is now a trombone soloist with the thus Pray's band in Florida. Several other prominent musicians on the coast have played with the O. A. C. band. Browning often flew into rage in talking to her mother "Peaches" said, but her mother seems to have shown him the landing field.
