DELANEY BACKED TO WHIP MALONEY

New York Fans in Mad Rush for Seats for Friday Night's Battle

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Stirred by promises of the most thrilling heavy-weight encounter of the season, New York's sport world today talked nothing but "fight" as Jimmy Maloney and Jack Delaney prepared to pull up training camp stakes and head for the scene of their ten-round battle Friday night.

At Madison Square garden Tex Rickard wrestled with the problem of finding room in an arena that seats 18,000 for the 100,000 fans awaiting him for tickets.

Maloney was reported to have injured his right hand in training at Long Branch, N. J., when the report reached the outskirts of Madison Square garden. Delaney, the Boston giant, had a "wrist" sprain, then a "fractured arm" and finally Rickard himself hastily called the camp to find if Maloney really had "broken his arm in several places." The report was false.

Scalpers busy Despite the request for the boxing commission to investigate the ticket sale of Rickard's request, scalpers were reported in the streets with paste boards available at fancy quotations. Prices for $22 ring-side seats were said to be bringing an average of $110 a piece in groups and as high as $150 for a single ticket.

The odds on Delaney stood 5 to 2 for victory and 7 to 2 that the light heavyweight champion would score a knock-out. A flood of backing to the Maloney cause reported from "wise" sources, made the ordinary fan wary, however.

Both Popular The smiling Bostonian, a slugging machine of 200 pounds ring-side, has caught the interest of the metropolitan enthusiasts with a breezing style of milling that has overwhelmed his last three opponents here. The picturesque Delaney, perfect ringman with a cool demeanor and tricky resourceful of feats that includes one of the most powerful right hands in fist-cuff, has captured public fancy in his parade through the light heavy-weight, in two rounds in his principal clash with a big man.

Large advertisement for Prince Albert tobacco. It features a large illustration of a man in a suit (Prince Albert) holding a pipe. The text reads: 'I'm telling you straight - P. A. is the works'. Below this, it says 'PUT it down now for a double-riveted, copper-cornered fact: Prince Albert will give you more pleasure to the cubic inch than any other tobacco you ever packed in a pipe. Maybe I'm prejudiced. Even so, my statement holds. I'll leave it to you, after your first P. A. pipe-load.' It also includes a list of agents and a small image of a Prince Albert tin.

Prize-Winning Lincoln Essay in La Grande Written by Miss Nelson

The prize-winning essay on Abraham Lincoln in the La Grande high school contest, part of a national contest sponsored by the Illinois Watch company, written by Miss Lois Nelson, is reprinted below:

LINCOLN—THE CHRISTIAN In our study of Abraham Lincoln, we have come to love him as friend and helper, to respect him as a leader of men, and to revere him as the Great Emancipator. But do we even know him as a Christian? His life was one, like that of Christ's,—of sorrow and suffering, and finally of death that mankind might be helped. His deeds are singularly like those of Christ's and his very words and thoughts are inspired by the Christian ideal. Was he not truly a modern Saviour? Peering into the pages of history I see the boy Lincoln, born of humble parentage; reared in simplicity; gleaned knowledge from his books; reaping wisdom from nature and mankind. "And, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, he saw the spirit of God descending like a dove." I see the youth Lincoln, journeying forth in a world of sorrow and distress; spending his forty days in the wilderness; triumphing over weakness and selfish ambitions; growing in strength and purpose; seeing a vision of service. "Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life as a ransom for many." I see the man Lincoln, serving all mankind; ministering to their wants and sorrows; healing the wounds of hatred and strife between brothers; bearing a message of love and good will to the world; aye, verily, a Good Samaritan. "Verily, I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Then, I see a Lincoln suffering on his cross; betrayed by a Judas, yet pleading, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." And at last I see a Lincoln, receiving his reward of eternal peace, delivered unto his Holy Father. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

EGGS, DEER, FOXES, DOGS

HARTFORD, Conn.—The reason for the high price of eggs in Connecticut at least is clear to Dan Sullivan of New Britain. Deer run wild and distract the attention of fowls from food, which are unrestrained in raiding hen coops. Hence extend the open season on deer, he argued to legislators.
