Miss Renfrow Is Married to Son of C. A. Hunter

A number of La Grande people went to Wallowa Saturday night, where they attended the wedding of Miss Edna May Renfrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Renfrow, of Wallowa, to Elwyn K. Hunter, son of Representative and Mrs. Charles A. Hunter.

The wedding took place at the First Presbyterian church at Wallowa at 7:30 o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Shields reading the ring ceremony.

The bride was given away in marriage by her father. The sister of the bridegroom, Miss Virginia Hunter, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Ruby Root, Miss Grace Coleman and Misses Peterson and McCoy. William Hendricks, of Wallowa, was best man.

The bride wore white and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Her maid of honor wore light blue and carried roses and sweetpeas and her bridesmaids wore apricot and carried sweetpeas.

Following the wedding a reception for the bridal party was held at the Hunter home, after which the bride and bridegroom left on a short honeymoon trip to Western Oregon. They will return to Wallowa and will make their home on the Hunter ranch near here.

Miss Renfrow just finished high school at Wallowa and Mr. Hunter was an Oregon Agricultural college student.

Among the people from here who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reynolds, M., and Mrs. G. L. Dutton, M., and Mrs. G. W. Hunter and Mrs. H. F. O'Brien and daughter, Jacqueline.

COVE (Special).—Mrs. Thomas Towle entertained at a children's party Monday, honoring her little daughter, Inez, on her second birthday anniversary. The afternoon was spent playing games, after which the children were seated at a table and refreshments were served. A birthday cake with two lighted candles served as a centerpiece.

The children present were Inez Towle, Maxine and Elwin Towle, Charles Hefty, Gordon Hancock, Milton, Rita and Averil Harris and Claudia Woods.

American Poetry Program Planned

An interesting program has been planned for tomorrow afternoon's meeting of the La Grande Neighborhood club when a program on "Modern American Poetry" will be given.

Miss Mabel Doty is the chairman for the afternoon and she will be assisted by Miss Gladys Miller, Miss Ruth Johnson, Mrs. George S. Hennie, Miss Myrtle Wilcox, Miss Henrietta Hoering and a group of children from Central school, who will give an act entitled "Parables and Chimeras," portraying several clever children's characters.

The children who will take part are: Margaret Dixon, Ruth Byers, Patricia Longfellow, Carlisle Wilson, Rex Lowry, Dick Larkin and Maxine Harris.

The Miller violin ensemble will play.

The Central Parent-Teacher association had an interesting program.

MENUS

By Sister Mary
BREAKFAST—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, bread crumb pancakes, maple syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of spinach soup, cutlets, open brown bread and cottage cheese sandwich, sliced oranges and bananas, sugar cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Stuffed veal steak, twice-baked potatoes, new carrots and peas, stuffed kumquat salad, bran rolls, canned white cherries, date cake, milk, coffee.
Cottage cheese is considered an excellent food for children as young as three years of age. Of course the cheese must not be highly seasoned with salt and pepper and should be made moist with thick sweet cream. The luncheon can be served to small children without milk since a cream soup as well as the cottage cheese is included in the menu.

Stuffed Veal Steak
One slice veal steak cut 1 1/2 inches thick, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon ground mustard, 1/2 cup chopped fresh mushrooms, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 tablespoon minced uncooked lean ham, 1 cup coarse bread crumbs from soft part of loaf, boiling water.

pocket through the outlet, cutting almost through the slice. Lay back top and rub inside with salt, pepper and mustard thoroughly mixed. Melt butter, add mushrooms, onion, parsley and ham and simmer for 10 minutes. Add bread crumbs and remove from fire. Mix thoroughly and add just enough boiling water to make moist. Spread stuffing over lower piece of meat and bring top down. Sew edges firmly together. Brush over with melted butter and broil 30 minutes, turning four times during the process. The steak can be pan-broiled or broiled under a gas flame. In either case sear both sides first and then reduce heat slightly.

Remove cord and serve on a hot platter garnished with sections of lemon.

HEALTH

CARE OF NEWBORN CHILD

By Frederick W. Rice, M. D., New York City
Member Gorkas Memorial Inst.
With the first cry of the newborn child at the moment of birth, the lungs receive air and assure the function of supplying oxygen. At the same time the heart undergoes a number of changes to accommodate its function to this new life.

During the first few days the mature, healthy infant has little or no trouble in acclimating itself to its new mode of living. The adjustment is assisted by avoiding any unnecessary handling and by carefully watching the general condition.

A healthy condition is indicated by a rosy color of the skin and by a strong vigorous cry when the child is disturbed or uncomfortable. Improper functioning of the lungs is indicated by bluish color about the mouth, hands and feet. Normal color is promptly restored on stimulating the child to cry.

As soon as possible after the first two or three days a daily routine should be established and rigorously maintained. It should be based upon the following hygienic principles, proper food, sufficient rest, plenty of fresh air, and protection against infection.

The child should be breast fed. This is possible in nearly every case. Inability to nurse may be encountered in a few cases where the nipples are abnormal to an unsual degree or where the physical condition of the mother contraindicates.

During the first 24 hours the child should be put to the breast every six hours and allowed to nurse only five or six minutes. After the first four hour interval should be observed during the day. The first feeding should begin at six a. m., the last at ten in the evening. In some cases, when the amount of breast milk may not be sufficient to supply the needs of the infant, it may be necessary to give temporary feedings of artificial food.

Every effort should be made to insure sufficient sleep for the newborn infant. The normal baby, when properly cared for, usually sleeps except during the bath and nursing periods. The daily bath, comfortable clothing and bed, with plenty of fresh air are of importance in promoting sleep. Irregularity in the care and unusual excitement interfere with rest.

The newborn child has slight resistance to the common infective organisms. Special care should be taken with everything which comes into contact with the child. The mother's breast or hands, the food, and baby's clothing, may be a source of infection. Breast milk rarely, if ever, is the cause of infection, but when supplementary feedings are used every precaution must be observed. Cleanliness is essential.

Colds are always transmitted to the child by contact with some member of the household but an infant is predisposed to this infection by too much clothing and insufficient fresh air.

A mother who adheres to these principles in caring for her baby may be almost certain that at the end of this period her child will be developing normally. There is every possibility that such an infant will survive the critical first year and continue its development throughout childhood.

LADY MOSLEY MAY BE SOCIALISTS' HOSTESS

LONDON—Lady Cynthia Mosley, daughter of the late Mary Lettler Carson of Chicago is likely to become the official hostess of the Socialist party. Lady Cynthia has a London house, or two, as well as several country places, and is known as a graceful and charming hostess at all kinds of social affairs. Incidentally Lady Cynthia has decided not to give up her peerage right—not for the present, at least. Mr. Oswald Mosley, M. P., her husband, however, still maintains that he will not accept the title of baronet until the death of his father, Sir Oswald Mosley, Bart.

Political hostesses have been particularly busy of late since Parliament has been in session. For the Conservatives, this honor has fallen to Lady Londonderry, daughter of the famous Squire of Blankney. Lady Beauchamp is the principal hostess for the Liberals. Her home is in Helgrave square.

WAR WORKER FIGHTS SALE OF FIREARMS

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J.—A war worker of New Jersey, Miss Agnes Jones of South Orange, is warring in the legislature against the sale of firearms in the state. Miss Jones was captain of the New Jersey Motor Corps in 1917 and 1918. During the influenza epidemic at Camp Merritt her corps of six ambulance workers worked night and day carrying patients and the dead. She was also in service at an explosion of a powder works at Morgan. The National League for Women's Service selected her to present its wreath at the burial of the Unknown Soldier. Miss Jones is serving her second term in the legislature and devoting much of her time to pressing legislation against the sale of firearms and vote snacking.

"We that live to please must please to live"
... so spoke Samuel Johnson when he opened a London theater some century and a half ago. Today it is even truer of the people who advertise to you.
Whether merchants or manufacturers—whether they advertise hats or harness, powder puffs or plows—the permanent success of every advertiser who uses these pages rests squarely upon his ability to please you.
The goods he advertises must be right. They must meet your approval in open comparison. They must please you in utility, design, quality, value and service. If they don't, you won't buy. And if you won't buy, the advertiser can't live.
That's why advertised merchandise must be good merchandise—and that's why there is protection, true economy and real satisfaction in reading the advertisements and being guided by them.
