The Central Council of Parents and Teachers will meet Monday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock in the Neighborhood club rooms.

MENUS

By Sister Mary BREAKFAST - Stewed dried apricots, broiled rice with cream, ham toast, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON - Macaroni and cheese baked with tomatoes, brown bread and butter, maple gelatine, milk, tea.

DINNER - Planked meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, buttered kale, grapefruit and orange salad, date and nut puff, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Very often a meat dish is vastly improved by the contrasting flavor of a tart jelly or spiced preserves. In this particular dinner the meat loaf, which is made of veal and ham, gains much if spiced grapes or red raspberry jelly accompanies it.

The small dish of jelly adds an attractive bit of color to the dinner table, too, which is worth while.

Maple Gelatine One tablespoon granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1 cup maple syrup, 2 eggs (whites), 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Let stand ten minutes. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Let stand until cool. Put unbeaten whites of eggs, salt, maple syrup and cold gelatine into a deep bowl and beat with a Dover beater until stiff. Turn into a mold first dipped in cold water to chill. Serve with a boiled custard made with the yolks of the eggs.

TURKISH WOMEN'S CLUB WILL SURVEY WORKERS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Mar. 5 - Madame Meithe Moushiedine, Turkey's leading feminist, president and founder of the only women's club in Turkey, has undertaken to make a nation-wide survey of women workers with the compilation of statistics on women in industry...

The club will be entertained Wednesday, Mar. 16, at the home of Mrs. Ella Hymerson.

Baptist Women to Take 'World Tour'

The Baptist Women's society observed World Prayer day yesterday when the regular meeting of the society was held at the church with Mrs. Charles Whitney as hostess.

Mrs. William Shade presided over the meeting. Nine members of the World Wide guild were present and were represented in the cycle of prayer. Eighteen women were in attendance.

During the afternoon plans were made for a "world tour," four homes to represent four continents, the trip leading from place to place. The date for the trip has not yet been set. Tickets will be purchased immediately and as the party taking the trip goes from one home to another luncheon will be served, one course at each home.

Refreshments were served at the close of yesterday's meeting.

The South Methodist Missionary society met at the parsonage Thursday afternoon with a goodly number in attendance. An interesting discussion on "Interpretations of Jehovah" was a part of the afternoon's program, taken from the book of Micah, fifth chapter and eight verse.

During the roll call it was found that 23 sick calls were made during the month of February.

The meeting adjourned to meet again with Mrs. A. J. Starnier, Mar. 24.

An interesting program has been outlined for the regular meeting of the Young Women's Educational auxiliary Tuesday evening, Mar. 8, at the First Methodist Episcopal church. The subject will be "The American Folk Songs and Dances," the Indian, the plantation and later the barn dance period.

The Soangetaba campfire girls and the Oscha campfire group will take part in the Indian part of the program. Edmund Harris will be in charge of the negro part and the auxiliary members will take part in the colonial and barn dance part.

Refreshments were served at the close of yesterday's meeting.

The Garden

VEGETABLES KEEP BEST IN REFRIGERATOR. The garden is a better place to keep vegetables fresh than the refrigerator. The economy of a survey is seldom considered from this viewpoint but it is an important one. There is no waste from storage. The vegetables are kept at their best quality while growing.

Their best get over-matured if left too long in the soil but they keep where they grow and only a quantity sufficient for a meal need be gathered, leaving the rest to remain in tip-top condition for another day and another meal.

A garden saves a lot of room in the ice box and provides better quality vegetables than can possibly be gathered from the refrigerator or from the cold storage plant of the grocery. Home-grown vegetables do not suffer as do market supplies from wilt from being left in the sun and they are not passed through hands whose cleanliness and sanitary condition there is grave suspicion.

Home-grown vegetables are cleanest, of best quality, and a real economy. Clean spinach for the baby is the incentive for many a garden start. The wilted and sand-laden greens often on sale at the green grocers cannot compare with the fresh, crisp leaves that may be gathered in the back-yard patch from a nickel package of seed plus a little healthy exercise in the way of spading up space to plant it.

But proper diet for the baby is no more important than proper diet for the adult and although it is usual to treat a baby with more consideration than a grown-up when it comes to food, there is no good reason for doing so from a strictly hygienic standpoint.

Start a vegetable garden this year as a measure of health and economy. If it is no more than a spinach patch it is that much clearer gain. Tomatoes may follow the spinach and two staples of the menu are provided for the season.

MADGE KENDAL GETS OFFICIAL PORTRAIT

LONDON, March 5 - Dame Madge Kendal, one of the best loved British actresses of the last quarter century, is to have an official portrait done by Sir William Orpen. The price of the picture is to be paid by theatrical subscription, and it is hoped that eventually it will find its way to the National Portrait Gallery. Dame Kendal who is 78 years of age, has been connected with the stage since her childhood. She visited America on several occasions, making her first appearance in New York at the Fifth Avenue Theater in 1889, playing Susan Hartley in "A Scrap of Paper." Her last appearance was at His Majesty's theater, London, in 1911. Mrs. Kendal in her familiar Victorian bonnet is not less picturesque than Whistler's mother in the portrait so much reproduced.

"Ma" Streeter Disappears; "Deestriet of Lake Michigan" Is Only a Memory

By Roy J. Gibbons CHICAGO, Mar. 5 - Down where the Chicago water front overlooks the choicest and proudest section of the city's famed Gold Coast - the boulevard of brown stone fronts and millaires' palaces - there rides at anchor, battered and forlorn, an empty and abandoned craft.

Frayed ropes hold its stern beside the rusty piling, and no life stirs from its deck nor inside the tiny cabin. It bobs with the waves, neglected.

And few there are who recognize in this cockle-shell with its slatternly rigging and stove-in railing the thing for which it stands.

A Historic Gesture The boat is the last vestige of the "Kingdom of the Streeters," the "Deestriet of Lake Michigan." It is all that remains to remind the present year of a decade and less ago when "Cap'n" George Wellington Streeter, doughty and picturesque, threw a gesture at Chicago which has gone down into its history.

Until three months ago the craft was the home of Streeter's widow - the equally scrappy "Ma" Streeter, who dwelt in it with none but a white bull dog for company and a shotgun across her knee. Year in and out she drifted across the water front, pursued from pier to pier by the vigilant harbor police.

Now "Ma" has disappeared. None knows exactly where she has gone.

To all this hangs a tale which dates back to 1885 and what is termed "the night of the big wind."

It seems from what is handed down by those who knew him, that the "Cap'n" had grown sick of Chicago and decided to pack up and shove off in his good old flat-bottomed scow, the "Reutan."

But a storm arose and the "Reutan" grounded on a sandbar just a few hundred feet from where he had set out the previous day. The "Cap'n" couldn't get it off.

Days lengthened into months and during that time the doughty old fellow, with appraising eye, welcomed the efforts of contractors and excavators who were using the roadstead of the "Reutan" for a dumping ground.

The Sand Bar Grows More years passed and the dumping ground blossomed into a wide patch of "made land." The "Cap'n" claimed all this by squatter's right and called it "The Deestriet of Lake Michigan." He claimed his possession to be beyond the control of state law and forthwith busied himself to establish on it an American counterpart of Monte Carlo.

He set his "Deestriet" up as absolute ruled off all who came to take it from him with shotguns and rifles. In one pitched battle one man was

Light Heat Power

Not so long ago the decision of the supreme court, for which the now dead "Cap'n" had been waiting, was handed down, confirming the judgment of the lower court. "Ma's" case was lost forever. But she still continued paddling about the old "Deestriet's" shoreline to maintain a legal residence there. The process-server was after "Ma" again. They want her to remove her boat on the ground that it is a derelict and is otherwise in the way. But "Ma" is gone. It is her first recorded absence from the boat and she has not been seen since last Christmas. Just a worn old junkhead tied to its wharf - but it speaks the history of another day when a tall, lean figure, with a walrus mustache, stovepipe hat and wearing the insignia of office, consisting of a heavy gold chain across his vest, defied all of Chicago in a fight for a fortune.

A stranger in a western city noticed an odd crank on the meter of the taxcab in which he was riding. Becoming curious he turned this crank a wee bit to see what would happen. The meter immediately added fifty cents to his fare.
