Carnation Club Is Entertained At Eagles Hall

The carnation club was entertained last evening at Eagles hall by Mrs. D. B. Mosby and Mrs. Harry Owens with 21 members in attendance.

Following a brief business session bridge was enjoyed until a late hour. Mrs. Jack Hunt made high score. Mrs. Lloyd Kilgore second and Mrs. Harry Kennedy, consolation.

The St. Patrick motif was cleverly worked out to the minutest detail in the decorations of the hall and the two-course luncheon, which followed the card games.

Mrs. Milton Price and Mrs. Parley Price will be hostesses to the club April 12.

An interesting evening was spent last evening by the members of the White Rose club, when they were entertained by Mrs. Guy Warren and Mrs. Melvin Galbraith at the home of Mrs. Warren at 1204 M avenue.

About 16 women were present and most of the evening was spent at games. Mrs. Royl Puleok, Mrs. C. E. Happerst and Mrs. Martha Fox winning prizes.

At the close of the evening the hostesses served refreshments.

Mrs. Floyd Mann and Mrs. Frank Hardin will be the next hostesses to the club April 13, at the home of Mrs. Mann.

The members of the Altar society of Our Lady of the Valley church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. M. J. Turner for a short business session and social meeting.

About 20 women were present and the afternoon was spent visiting.

Mrs. Turner served refreshments before adjournment.

Because of illness the Helomata Bridge club did not meet yesterday afternoon as announced. The meeting was to have been at the home of Mrs. Oscar Johnson.

The club will meet next Wednesday, March 16, at the home of Mrs. Giles Harnden at a one o'clock luncheon.

Mrs. Tyler Tells of China Situation

Although the attendance was small because of the illness of several members the Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church had an interesting meeting yesterday afternoon at the parsonage, with Mrs. H. W. Parker as hostess.

Mrs. G. C. Hendley presided over the business session in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. Leighton, and plans were made for the annual banquet of the church, which will be March 21. Plans were also discussed for the annual offering services March 27.

During the program Mrs. H. E. Tyler told of the situation in China and about her sister, a missionary working in China, who has just been moved 2,000 miles from her missionary station to Shanghai for safety. She said it is not yet known whether the missionaries will be sent home, or whether they will be detained there until the danger is over.

Mrs. Abbie Cooper gave a review of the last chapter of the study book "Modern Women."

St. Peter's aid society was entertained last evening by Mrs. Anna Polack at her apartment in the new Foley building.

The evening started with a short business session, when plans were made for a rummage sale to be held March 15. Arrangements were discussed for the luncheon being held today at the home of Mrs. Lucy Wade, and the date for the second tea of the series was set for March 24, at the home of Mrs. C. C. Bull.

Folk Songs Topic of Meeting Here

"Native Folk Music" was the program topic at the monthly meeting of the Young Women's auxiliary of the First Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening, and a splendid program exemplified the various types of American folk songs.

The committee in charge of the meeting was assisted by members of Soangetah and Osba campfire groups, and the girls of these two divisions, in their rendering of Indian songs, were refreshing, different from the usual run of Indian programs.

In Indian costume, against a background of small forest trees, they gave versions of the caribou dance and the ghost dance, the sarobe call, and the dawn call, the latter being sung by Miss Mina Cooper as the girls pantomimed it.

The caribou and ghost dances were explained to be not dances but forms of religious ceremonies.

Miss Arta Verity gave a very interesting paper, introducing the various numbers and explaining in detail the Indian music.

And Helen Evans, in costume, gave several negro spirituals, and following this, the Colonial period was exemplified by eight members of the auxiliary in correct colonial costume.

Ruth Kinman, May Stearns and little Barbara Puleok made up the orchestra.

At the close of the program refreshments were served. Miss Arta Verity was chairman of the committee for the evening, assisted by Zola Lofland, Greta McShain, Frances Mengor, Ruth Kinman, Myrtle Hoyt, Mollie Gower and Elsie Maguire.

Miss Gladys Miller is chairman of the next program, which will be the annual music program.

GRANGE HALL. (Special)—A party honoring the birthday anniversary of George Gekeler was held at the home of his sister, Mrs. Roy Spencer, Sunday.

There was served at a table attractively arranged, a large birthday cake, serving as a centerpiece. Covers were laid for 14.

After dinner the remainder of the time was spent visiting.

James E. Palce auxiliary No. 11, United Spanish War veterans, will meet Friday evening at Honan hall.

The Monday Musical chorus will meet at 7:15 o'clock this evening in the Neighborhood club rooms for rehearsal.

The Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Pickens, with Mrs. L. I. Bussey, Mrs. Lynn Bohnenkamp and Mrs. Frank Jackson as assistant hostesses.

The Greenwood Parent-Teacher association will meet tomorrow afternoon at the school. Everyone interested is invited to attend.

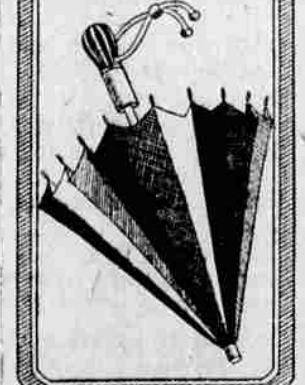

WOMAN IS INSPECTOR OF FARM PRODUCTS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 10.—The only license as federal inspector of farm products ever issued to a woman by the United States department of agriculture is held by Mrs. J. L. Landrum of Oklahoma City, who carries the title of federal and state brown cereals inspector.

Mrs. Landrum also is public health director for the Oklahoma Market Commission and is state chairman of home extension work in the state federation of women's clubs. Despite her varied public activities, Mrs. Landrum keeps house for her two children.

More than three million yards of surplus canvas, intended originally for army tents and wagon covers, has been turned over to post office authorities for use as mail bags.

GOVERNOR'S WIFE BEST HOME MAKER

OLYMPIA, Wash. (NEA Service)—When Roland Hartley waited to be governor of Washington he professed the voters economy. So did Mrs. Hartley. Now they're practicing it. Economy, they believe, begins at home.

At Olympia is a $50,000 executive mansion of 25 rooms. There are generally visitors.

Mrs. Hartley runs the mansion on two maids and a cook.

The governor dispenses with a butler and answers the doorbell himself.

Mrs. Hartley helps the cook in the kitchen and then, donning her apron, takes her place at the dinner table.

It's the governor's job to turn off the lights when not in use.

Mrs. Hartley made many of the dresses in the house herself. Others she brought from her Everett home.

Together the Hartleys have reduced the cost of running the mansion several hundred dollars a month.

Mrs. Hartley is winning the name of "the state's best housekeeper."

MENUS

By Sister Mary
BREAKFAST—Stewed figs, cereal, thin cream, creamed fresh beef on toast, crisp bran toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Veal loaf, creamed new carrots, radishes and young onions, plum bread, canned strawberries, coconut cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Salt codfish pie, buttered peas, French onion with French dressing, baked apple dumplings, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

The codfish pie combines potatoes, parsnips and tomatoes with freshened salt codfish in a most appetizing fashion. It also forms a labor-saving "one-piece" meal if desired.

The veal loaf is good, hot or cold, cut in thin slices for luncheon or supper.

Veal Loaf
One and one-half pounds lean veal, 1/2 pound fresh pork, 2 eggs, 4 soda crackers, 1/2 cup cream, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons minced parsley.

Remove ardsle and bone from meat and put through food chopper. Mix thoroughly. Beat eggs slightly and add to meat. Cream and add alternately with cream to first mixture with a large wooden fork or spoon until perfectly blended. Pack into a deep, well-buttered oblong pan. Cover with buttered paper and bake one hour in a moderately hot oven. Remove paper for last fifteen minutes of baking.

Turn out of pan onto a hot platter and cut in thin slices to serve.

The Garden

A USEFUL COUSIN OF GARLIC
It is only recently that two delusions concerning a useful but much neglected vegetable have been to some extent dispelled. These are that the leek was akin to the garlic in strength and flavor and that it was hard to grow.

Green growers in the large cities have done much to introduce the leek by making it a part of the bouquets of soup greens that are now a common and popular feature of the daily sales.

The leek is even milder than the onion, very easy to grow and an excellent flavoring vegetable for soups and stews. It is an excellent show vegetable when well grown and the only acquaintance many people have with it is the inspection of its snowy base and wide dark green leaves on the show table.

The leek is exceptionally useful because leaves and all are employed. City housewives are not accustomed to it and in the country it is beginning to make its way slowly into favor.

It is a member of the onion tribe that makes a thick, fleshy stem the same thickness from the roots to the leaves but does not form a bulb. It is an all-season grower and is harvested in the fall and early winter. The seed for the giant exhibition leeks should be sown in March in the house or in a hotbed and the plants transplanted exactly as in the case of onions.

The young plants are set in trenches in the same style as celery, six inches deep, and as the plant increases in size the trench is filled in, covering the stem to the base of the leaves. By fall it will have to be filled up. Excellent results are obtained by sowing the seed outdoors in April as soon as the ground can be worked. Giant Carantan and Musselburgh are well known varieties which make big roots.

Like the onion it requires rich soil and a good supply of moisture for best results. It is stored in pits or cool cellars in the same manner as celery after digging in the fall. It is now used extensively sliced in salads, being milder than sliced onion for the purpose. A row of leeks will be an interesting experiment to a gardener who has never tried them.

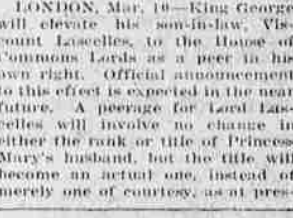

We'll know it's spring when the fall millinery begins to appear in the show windows.
