Butter Markets On Coast Weak; Cubes Go Down

PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 22 (AP).—Wholesale trade in butter, eggs and poultry were holding a steady pace in early sales today with the price holding the same range in all these lines as have been in effect for the better part of a week past. Supply and demand appeared satisfactorily balanced with a very good consumer demand for poultry nationwide. While eggs are arriving in excess amounts enough are being handled into storage to maintain a firm market for better grades. A general weakening of most butter markets are reflected here today by a 2 cent drop of all grades as a result of trading in the local dairy exchange. The high price of dairy production and sharp competition among large butter contractors willing to shade the market are held to be strong influences in the current butter situation.
