AT THE THEATERS

Ben Lyon Is Featured In New Kane Farce

"High Hat," Robert Kane's latest comedy featuring Ben Lyon, Sam Hardy and Mary Brian, will be the attraction Sunday and Monday at the downtown theater.

To anyone who has applied to a day school, a special picture studio, this fast moving film is recommended as a screen travelogue through Hollywood or the studio row of New York.

Ben Lyon is particularly appealing as a lady's knight in armor. Mary Brian does a turnabout from the Harrie type of role that has heretofore played, and gives a splendid performance as a sophisticated little boss of the studio's wardrobe.

"The Sap" Is Coming to Sherrys Sunday

He was despatched abroad of cat-in-the-hat. You consider him a high cliff with a team of horses, and yet he had been awarded a cross de guerre, a distinguished service cross, an overseas medal, and a bronze tablet from his home town for his distinguished services during the world war, which included the capture, single-handed, of 22 German soldiers.

His sweetheart thought of him as a wonderful handsome hero. His mother thought he was the finest boy in the world. He was the apple of her eye. On him she set her eye.

Barry's number. He knew what kind of a "yellow-belly" he was, and known ever since he had pulled his long curls when they were kids, and now he was out to show him up, particularly as they were interested in the same girl.

George O'Hara In Picture At Sherrys

To most people freedom is a precious thing. However, in "Going the Limit," George O'Hara's first starring vehicle for P. B. O. in the shows at the Sherry theater tonight only, the young hero spends many hours plotting and planning how he shall merit a jail sentence. Of course, there is a beautiful lady whom he loves very dearly back of all this. So when he goes for foraging checks, robbing banks, stealing cars and blowing safes, we can be assured that there is something very different about this love affair. The story might well be termed a "Series of Surprises."

Comedy, Dancing, Songs, Feats Make Up Vaudeville

Vaudeville show with many new and novel features, hilarious comedy, harmony songs, and colorful dancing numbers will be seen at the Arcade theater on Sunday. The bill is headed by The Six-Triads in "Sports of Rome," an off-beat farce that has been very seldom in vaudeville. It combines both quickness of the eye and strength of the body. The Trio is known as "The Three Wise Hicks" and consists of a combination of comedy songs, wise cracks, funny situations, and harmony singing numbers. Johnson does provide a novel and imitable blend of music and comedy. Cart and Paul present "Fun in a Hat," a characterization of the trials and tribulations of a taxi driver showing the humorous side of everyday life in his runabout with mishaps and surprises. Frank Hurt offers "Aerial Non-sense," a sensational aerial novelty with a comedy twist.
