What on earth are we going to do for meals, anyway? Our friends down here won't sell us any and they have the price down so low that we would lose money if we bought them any place else. We are told that they are saving them for their customers.

We have two splendid Goodyear tires on our truck and we also have two brand new Goodyear tires that, together with the tubes, have been salvaged from a wrecked car.

Well, this thing is getting serious. When I go to bed I come home worrying so much that I fall asleep and don't wake up until morning. If we could find time we might go out of business, but the customers just keep coming in so we don't get much time to think about it.

Two carloads of our friends just got in from Idaho last evening. They tell us that they have been trading the Observer over there among the hills and thought they'd come over and help clean us out. There is no doubt that a common touring car can haul lots of roofing.

Sitting at a table 5 cents each. You better buy 'em quick, because we sold one several days ago for 2 cents and the party didn't have the money so we just gave it to him.
