Crochet Straws Featured

Crochet Visca fashioned in helmet shapes and other new styles, vastly becoming to youthful faces, are very much in vogue. They are lovely. $7.50 UP

Chouquette, a very light crocheted straw, resembles silk fabric in its sheen and suppleness. Chouquette hats are rippled and dented and draped to achieve great becomingness. $13.50

WHETHER or not you have a new Spring hat, you'll not be able to resist having one of these for the dress-up occasions of the new season. Glowing Spring hues—monkey skin, athenia, diadem, rustic browns, hydrangia are popular colors, and crochet straws, as fine and supple as fabric, lead in smartness.

Satin and Straw combine in many attractive hats that have fluted ribbon for trimming, and are ever so chic because they are exceedingly simple. Many becoming hues. $5.00 UP

"Degrade" popular in hats as in garments, and ribbons of three different tones of a color often trim the most attractive of small chapeaux. $9.75

POCATELLO WINS FROM BOTHELL

Eugene, Ore., Whips Florida Team 13 to 12 and Plays Norfolk Today

By the Associated Press
Pocatello, Ida., defeated BotHELL, Wash., 26 to 20 in an overtime period at noon today. The Cowboys trailed at halftime 12 to 11 but a third period spurt put them ahead of the Washington team, 13 to 14. BotHELL came back with 4 points to Pocatello's 2 in the last quarter but in the overtime period the Cowboys looped 6 points and held BotHELL scoreless.

CHICAGO, Mar. 31 (AP)—The air was cleared today for the real struggles in the national high school basketball tournament with the field of 43 teams cut to 16.

Five from the south give that section its greatest opportunity for the title in the nine years of the University of Chicago tournament.

Norfolk, Va., has tried for five years to win, and that team's impressive showing yesterday, playing just hard enough to win and with plenty in reserve, made it one of the third round favorites today. Three of the southern representatives are in the lower half of the draw. Norfolk, Va., Florence, Miss., and Vienna, Ga., the latter one of the smoothest machines of the competition. London, Ky., and Knoxville, Ark., are in the upper half.

Four West Teams Win
Four of the westerners fought their way through the first rounds—Eugene, Ore., and BotHELL, Wash., to represent the coast and Colorado Springs, Colo., and Pocatello, Ida.

The eastern contingent slumped down to one team, from Boston, Mass., (Boston College) and St. Louis, Mo. (St. Louis University) likely will come through the third round today, in their game with Florence, Miss.

Wisconsin and the Dakotas weathered the first two rounds. Roswell, N. M., remained out of the southwestern group and both Chicago entries went through. The two Chicago teams meet tonight and a fast, rough melee is expected from their showing yesterday.

BotHELL Meets Pocatello
The championship round of eight games starts at noon while eight consolation round games are sprinkled through the program.

- Today's pairings:
- 12 noon—BotHELL, Wash., vs Pocatello, Ida.
 - 1 p. m.—London, Ky., vs Huron, S. D.
 - 2 p. m.—Grand Forks, N. D., vs Eau Claire, Wis.
 - 3 p. m.—Roswell, N. M., vs Batesville, Ark.
 - 4 p. m.—Eugene, Ore., vs Norfolk, Va.
 - 5 p. m.—Bristol, Conn., vs Florence, Miss.
 - 6 p. m.—Englewood high, Chicago, vs Morton high, Cicero, Ill.
 - 7 p. m.—Vienna, Ga., vs Colorado Springs, Colo.

PAULINO HAILED AS NEXT CHAMP

Spanish Heavyweight Is Most Colorful of 1927 Crop of Aspirants

HITS TOO HARD
NEW YORK, Mar. 31 (AP)—Paulino is destined to wear the crown of heavyweight champion, in the opinion of Georges Carpentier, the colorful Frenchman who failed in an effort to lift the title from Jack Dempsey in 1921.

By Alan J. Gould
NEW YORK, Mar. 31 (AP)—Paulino Escudon may not develop into the logical contender for Gene Tunney's title this year, but the rugged Spanish heavyweight has demonstrated himself to be the most colorful of the 1927 crop of championship aspirants.

So far, at least, Paulino has applied to the heavyweight picture the same picturesque, primitive touch that Luis Angel Firpo gave to the famous campaign of 1925. Like the giant Argentine, Paulino has jumped quickly into the spotlight a display of crude fighting power. Whether the Basque wood-chopper packs a punch to compare with the famous right of the "Wild Bull," however, remains to be seen.

Paulino bowled over his first three opponents on this side in short order, two in Havana and another, Homer Smith, in Tampa. The Spaniard, however, did exhibit a devastating wallop in carrying off a close decision from the melancholy Dane, Knute Hanson, in Madison Square Garden recently. It was Paulino's courage, aggressiveness, stamina and ability to "take it" that impressed the experts who watched his New York debut.

The Spaniard's next big test, slated for April 1 at the Garden, will pit him against a fighter of his own rugged, give-and-take type—Tom Heeney of New Zealand.

In physical make-up Paulino is built along the lines of the sturdy oaks which, to refer to the legends of his career, he is accustomed to topple with his trusty axe when in his native haunts. Broad and thick-set, he is almost devoid of neck, a circumstance which is of distinct advantage in the ring, enabling him to tuck his chin out of harm's reach between his shoulders.

Coming at his opponent with a weaving, swaying motion both arms swinging fan-like, Paulino presents a perplexing target to hit. He couples this with unusual ability as a shock-absorber. His own blows, as exhibited against a defensive fighter of Hanson's type,

Dim light does not attract. Bright lights from hidden lamps draw trade. Glare hurts eyesight.

Windows That Win Are Well Lighted

GLARING light is just as wrong as dim light. Glare hurts eyesight. People look away from glare. Dimly lighted windows are passed by unnoticed. Both cause loss of business. Well lighted windows are flooded with light from concealed lamps. The displays stand out in all their attractiveness. Passersby stop and admire your merchandise in comfort.

X-RAY LIGHTING from Concealed Sources

accomplishes this. Ample light—no glare—no added cost for current.

X-RAY Reflectors double the brightness of any window. They are designed on the searchlight principle. Instead of wasting light on the ceiling, walls and sidewalk, they concentrate all the light on the goods, spreading it evenly over the display.

The lamps are hidden from the eye, giving an effect like a theater stage.

X-RAY Reflectors are the only reflectors made exclusively for show window lighting. Seventy per cent of the windows on State Street, Chicago—the second largest shopping district in the world—are lighted with X-RAY Reflectors.

Allen, Kansas Coach And Maker Of Champions, Wins 15th Title

LAWRENCE, Kan., Mar. 30 (AP)—The sixth consecutive Missouri Valley basketball championship has just come home to roost in the Jayhawk nest at the University of Kansas, but Dr. P. C. Allen, director of athletics and coach of basketball, has forgotten about it. He already is intent on next year's team.

"Phog" Allen has had 15 championship teams out of 17, eight of them in the Missouri valley.

"How do you build up championship teams year after year?" he was asked, and "Where does the material come from?"

"Hard work answers the first question," he responded. "The material all comes from Kansas. Every man on this year's team was a native product."

"I was at Missouri Teachers' College at Warrensburg seven years and had seven championship teams. My teams here at Kansas in 1905 and 1909 won championships and in the eight years I have been back here my teams have won six in a row, counting this year.

A Man's Game
"Basketball is a man's game. It requires stamina and teamwork, but I do not try to build a machine. I try to develop each player and to instill in him the enthusiasm which absolutely must be there if he is to be a champion."

"I do not cut down my squad after the first few weeks of practice. Every man who has the enthusiasm to come out is given the same amount of attention. As a result I always have material carried over from year to year."

"One player who virtually saved a championship for me came out the first year a tall, awkward boy who did everything wrong. I coached him throughout the summer, and I got my reward."

OBSTACLE NO BAR TO GIRL GAGE CHAMPIONS

PITTSBURG, Kan.—Members of the girls' basketball team of Cockerill, winners of the Kansas State girls' basketball tournament, shoveled snow off the outdoor court on which they played to practice for the contest.

"This spirit of overcoming obstacles put the team in excellent condition and allowed them to win four hard games in two days," H. J. Howius, coach, declared.

Cockerill is an unincorporated community rural school, and as finances were limited the girls made the trip to the state tournament, about 150 miles away, in automobiles.

Three of the four teams that competed in the semi-finals were from communities located within a few miles of each other in a coal mining community.

To be sitting on top of the world isn't such a hot ambition. Consider the Eskimo.
