AT THE THEATERS

"Afraid to Love" Now Showing At Arcade

Proving humorously but convincingly that when a girl decides to marry a man he might as well come to a similar decision, "Afraid to Love," the new Paramount production starring Florence Vidor with Clive Brook as leading man is the attraction today and Wednesday at the Arcade theater.

As Sir Reginald Belsize, Clive Brook convincingly portrays the cultured English gentleman whose plans for marital bliss are upset by an old uncle who wills him an enormous fortune on condition that he marry any woman at all except the one he wants. The girl uncle disapproves of is Helen de Semiano (Joceyln Lee) who is carrying on an intrigue before Sir Reginald's eyes with a gigolo.

As Katherine Silverton, whom Sir Reginald marries to fulfill the terms of the will and collect the fortune, Miss Vidor appears first as a dowdy old maid with thick glasses and a bad disposition. She is approved as a wife for Clive by Joceyln who has agreed to the marriage only as a measure of collecting the legacy, and who insists on an immediate divorce as soon as the money is handed over to Clive. But alas for all well-laid plans! Florence's unsuspected beauty complicates matters and Clive's clever solution to his difficulty proves only to have jumbled matters the more.

A new Ben Turpin comedy is also on the program.

Buck Jones in "Whispering Sage" At Star

Buck Jones, hard-riding Fox Films star, will begin a two-day engagement at the Star theater Wednesday in "Whispering Sage," a tense drama of the Southwest in which the popular Western ace is seen at his best in some hair-raising situations.

The action centers about the love and homestead of Mercedes, an charming daughter of a Basque patriarch, who is threatened by a band of desperadoes headed by Hugh Acklin, an unscrupulous rancher with a band of thugs under his control.

Buck, bent upon avenging the death of his brother, who has been shot under strange circumstances, rides into the Basque country, wholly in ignorance of the critical situation.

When the father of Mercedes is assassinated, Acklin figures it will be comparatively easy to switch the blame to Buck.

From this moment, until the smashing climax in which Buck is vindicated, there is action in every sentence and the finish brings on a fight seldom equaled on the silver screen.

Natalie Joyce, a little southern beauty has the leading feminine role.

Miss Nichols' Comedy Coming To La Grande

The management of the Arcade theater is pleased to announce it has secured Anne Nichols' epoch making appealing comedy "Abie's Irish Rose," of which Miss Nichols is not only the producer, but the author as well, for an engagement of one night on Tuesday April 12. The attraction having recently finished an unprecedented run of 25 weeks at the Garrick theater in Detroit to capacity business at almost every performance, Miss

Nichols not having changed one member of the cast for the slightest detail in production, thus assuring local theatergoers of a metropolitan presentation in every respect of this most head-lined perennial wonder.

It is needless to say that "Abie's Irish Rose," needs no introduction of those who kept posted on what is going on in the larger cities, and the management of the Arcade theater is to be congratulated on the booking.

All orders are now being received for this attraction. The regular seat sale opens Friday April 8 at the Glass Drug Store.

Novel Setting In New Glyn Picture

Scenes in an aerial express of the type which flies between London and Paris were filmed for the first time by Director Jack Conway for Ritor Glyn's "Soul Mates," coming to the Sherry theater. Scenes showing the embarkation in London and the arrival in Paris of the huge flying machine are scenes of an actual embarkation and arrival, filmed ahead, while the interior scenes were photographed in the Metro-Goldwyn-Maxim studios within a set accurately reproducing the inside of such a plane.

The passengers on this trip include Alison Pringle as Velma, heroine of the story, and Edmund Lowe as Lord Tanager, her bridegroom, flying from her in a huff to obtain a divorce at the French capital. On finding themselves follow passengers on the plane they effect a reconciliation. The scene is one of the most interesting ever filmed by reason of the novelty of its setting.

WASHINGTON—Some $35,000,000 belonging to others who have not asked for it is lying in Uncle Sam's vaults. It is interest due on liberty bonds. Maybe the reason for not collecting is patriotism, but experts think the real cause is carelessness.
