DUE FOR HIS ANNUAL CLEAN-UP

7-Day Airmail Service Begins In Northwest

BOISE, Ida. (Special)—Walter T. Varney, contractor for the Pacific Northwest division of the United States transcontinental air mail, serving the states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and operating from Pasco, Wash., to Salt Lake City, Utah, via Boise, Ida., makes the announcement that the new seven-day-a-week schedule will be put into effect on his line today, Monday, April 18. Heretofore new flights were made on Monday.

Mr. Varney states that the new service is necessary to take care of the greatly increased volume of air mail. The mail has shown a large daily increase since the low rate of 10c per half ounce was made effective on Feb. 1 of this year.

Senator Reed Ill; Trial Postponed

DETROIT, Mich., Apr. 18. (AP)—Illness of Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, chief of counsel for Henry Ford caused adjournment of the $1,000,000 libel suit filed against the motor manufacturer by Abram Sapiro, Chicago lawyer. The trial probably will be resumed tomorrow.

Senator Reed suffered an attack of acute indigestion early today as he neared Detroit on a train from Washington after a visit to the capital during the Easter holidays.

At his hotel Senator Reed confirmed reports that his illness was not dangerous.

from the encyclopedia to that effect. As to the syllabus of Pope Pius IX, quoted by Marshall on the matter of a possible conflict between church and state, the governor said it had been declared by Cardinal Newman to have no dramatic force.

"You have no more right to ask me to defend, as part of my faith, every statement coming from a priest," wrote the governor, "than I should have to ask you to accept as an article of your religious faith

DISCARDING THE CARES of his office, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis went out to Moushheart, Ill., to spend his vacation with the thousands of orphan children living there. He declares that he had the time of his life, and this picture seems to prove it. Davis is director general of Moushheart.

WASHINGTON—Presumably our youngsters would not stand for worn-out coffee now. The army has just got its third cook book since the war between the states. The modern version has nothing like the following in the first post-war book: "The presence of wormholes in coffee should not occasion its rejection since they generally indicate age, which nothing and disappear when the coffee is ground."

GOVERNOR SMITH ANSWERS QUESTIONS

In this connection he quoted the Catholic encyclopedia. The governor said that "dogmatic intolerance" meant that inside of the Catholic church Catholics are to be intolerant of any variance from the dogma of the church. He quoted further every statement of an Episcopal bishop.

Quotes Prelates

The governor quoted statements by Catholic American prelates defending equality of all religions before the law.

"I think you have taken your throes from the limbo of defunct controversies," the governor wrote in quoting Archbishop Dowling on the question of the church and state.

MARSHALL REPLIES

NEW YORK, Apr. 18. (AP)—Another chapter was added today to the documentary debate between Governor Alfred Smith and Charles C. Marshall, New York attorney and Episcopalian, when the latter made public a reply to governor Smith.

Marshall's letter, written in answer to Governor Smith's reply to his open letter in the Atlantic Monthly, challenged the governor's statement that the religious convictions imputed are not held by Roman Catholics as far as the governor knows.

Supporting his contentions with quotations from the Manual of Christian Doctrine published by John Joseph McVey, (Philadelphia, 1926) under the imprimatur of archbishop, now cardinal of Philadelphia, Marshall contended that some of the teachings of the Roman Catholic church are irreconcilable with American constitutional principles. This, Marshall asserted, was a matter of public and not private controversy. His articles, Marshall asserted, was in the nature of an inquiry into church policy and not an attack on the Roman Catholic faith.

Marshall said he accepted Governor Smith's disclaimer, but I submit that you are wholly wrong in your statement that these convictions are not held by other American Catholics.

Marshall denied that he had made an imputation of disloyalty on the part of Governor Smith, but denied the governor's right to brand his inquiry as "religious controversy."

"I do not charge," he said, "that the teaching of McVey's manual is disloyal in the sense in which you use that word, but I do say it is dangerous and pernicious and one against which citizens other than Roman Catholics have a right to protest and act."
