Rare Roman Coins Found in Egypt

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Apr. 21. (AP)—A hoard of 60 gold coins of the Roman Empire, minted in the second century, has been discovered by the University of Michigan expedition.

According to Professor Francis W. Kelsey, the coins had been laid away in a small linen bag, which was found with them. Their fresh appearance and the absence of traces of wear indicate that they were either withdrawn from circulation immediately after they left the mint or were selected with extraordinary care.

Twenty-four separate issues of coins are represented. The earliest dates from the latter part of the reign of the Emperor Hadrian, after he had received the Latin title corresponding with "Father of His Country." In 128 A. D. the rest were minted in the reign of Antoninus Pius, and thirty-five coins have the portrait of this emperor. None is later than the year 129 A. D.

FLAGS SHORT LIVED
CHICAGO—A flag lasts about a month when flown atop a Chicago skyscraper. The Chicago Tribune reckons the annual upkeep of a flag at $54.28, $119.60 for rope, $325.68 for flags and $108 for labor.

WILD IS TALK OF TOWN
PHILADELPHIA—A Chinese merchant here is the proud possessor of a parrot famous locally for its garrulousness. No one but the owner can understand Polly's chatter, however, for she speaks Chinese.

OFFICE CAT

Angry wife: "What does this powder on your coat mean?"
Unfortunate Husband: "Trouble, my dear, trouble."
Discharged Clerk: Hello, Boss, I'm back.
Boss: I see you are. For what reason?
D. C.: I read in that letter that I was fired, but on the envelope it said, "After five days return to Smith & Co."

EARLY SPRING POEM
Come into the garden, Maud,
And look upon the wreck—
A rooster's scratched our young sprouts up—
And I'm going to wring his neck.

Come into the garden, Maud,
And help me weep and moan—
The puppy's dug your pants up
And planted there a bone.

Come into the garden, Maud,
It looks like cats and parrots
Have had a battle royal there—
There's nothing left but carrots.

He—Did you know we had a family skeleton?
She—Yes, I saw you in a bathing suit last summer.

There are only two kinds of married men in the world. Those who lose their balance and marry; and those who marry and then lose their balance.

Drunkness may not be altogether dying out, but drunkards and steady drinkers certainly are.

Beautiful Scenes Feature Tom Mix Thriller

Some of the most beautiful sequences ever shown in a western picture are shown in Fox Films' "The Broncho Twister," which opened a three-day run at the Star theater today. This latest Tom Mix starring vehicle is a thrilling tale of western ranges, that is far above the average in story material and plot construction.

It is a colorful romance of adventure with many nerve tingling situations, moments of very high order. Tom Mix is even more daring than usual. In fact, some of his stunts appear dangerous in the extreme.

The backgrounds are beautiful especially the scenes showing the old Spanish style of home in southern California and also the settings of a fiesta where the ladies are dressed in the garments of Old Spain.

Playing opposite Mix is Helene Costello, who not only makes a very dainty heroine, but is also a decidedly accomplished actress, admirably suited to the role. The giant Moleton Wolfe, is cast as the heavy and stages a splendid battle royal with Mix. Others in the cast are the ever charming Doris Lloyd, George Irving and Dorothy Kilgallen.

Comedy, "Lulu's Miss Bluffin'."

PRINTER WANTED!
RALEIGH, N. C.—The state's modern printing plant here is seeking a foreman, but is running just the same. The last foreman finished his prison sentence and other printers seem to be steering clear of the penitentiary.

AT THE THEATERS

"Casey" Comes To Bat Once Again at Arcade

When spring is in the air, when birds come flying north, when the grass is beginning to sprout, when blossoms are starting to bud, when eyes wander away from one's desk, when a young man's fancy lightly turns to love, when thoughts direct themselves toward vacation, when new moons create tender yearnings when heavy underwear is joyfully embedded in layers of camphor, when bathing suits emerge from their silk cocoons, when country excursions are playfully planned, when April showers make May flowers, when the crack of the willow manifests itself at each street corner, when empty lots overflow with baby Babe Ruths when the umpire's busy "calling 'em out" (and so on, ad infinitum)—that's the time for me!

So we can imagine the baseball fan rhapsodizing as the big leagues get going. This year, more than ever, his cause is rejoiced. Paramount has built a fine comedy around America's national pastime, "Casey at the Bat."

Based on the immortal poem, Hector Turnbull, Paramount producer, built a tale of many laughs. Starring Wallace Beery as the "mighty Casey," it starts in Centerville, a small town near New York. Casey, junk-man and baseball player, wins himself a contract to play with the Giant when he nonchalantly knocks out a home run while holding a stein of beer in one hand.

Taking place against a panorama provided by New York in the first decade of this century, Casey becomes the hit of the hour. He is toasted, feted and idolized until he is bored to death. "Casey at the Bat" opens at the Arcade theater today for a three-day stay. Ford Sterling, Zasu Pitts and Sterling Holloway support the star.

"Silent Power" At Sherrys Friday Only

Whirring dynamo, humming generators, dangerous high tension wires and electrical factors form the unusual background for the plot of the latest Gotham production, "The Silent Power," which, with Ralph Lewis in the stellar role, comes to the Sherry theater Friday only.

It is claimed by the producers that this is the first time that electricity itself had formed the basis for a screen plot and one does not require a very vivid imagination to realize the possibilities of the subject.

Ralph Lewis appears as the chief engineer of a power company which is about to build a new large power dam. Through his influence he secures for his son the important position of engineer in charge of the new construction work. The son is a wild youth just out of college and he neglects his work. He is discharged by the president of the company and soon after the president is found dead. The boy is charged with the crime and the evidence is against him. Just at the crucial moment when the new power is about to furnish current to the states prison for the first electrocution in the state, the power gives out and the electricians trace the trouble to the real murderer who has cut the main line and been shocked to death.

Many unusual dramatic situations are disclosed in this picture which is staged in and around one of the largest hydro-electric plants in the U. S.

In the supporting cast will be found Ethel Shannon, Charles DeLaney, Nadim Traneff and many other prominent screen artists.

LIONS FOR SOUVENIRS
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa.—Lion cubs, gold nuggets, ostrich feathers, and diamonds were among the souvenirs bought here by Americans round the world tourists on the motorship Astoria.

Mrs. Eleanor Hinson, Woodstock, N. Y.; Gould Dietz, Omaha; and three other passengers bought lion cubs, two of which are intended for gifts to President Coolidge.

Many of the world's ill are traced to those who sleep too much in daytime and too little at night.

For Sale
Five-room house and four lots, living room, dining room, two bedrooms, kitchen, bath room; rooms all large; wired and plumbed; basement cellar 12x14; cement walk; garage; lawn; 1 apple tree, one peach, one plum, all bearing. This price has been reduced to $2250. Terms: $250 cash, balance at $25 per month, including interest. Owner must leave city by May 1st, hence this sacrifice price. Purchaser could sell two of these lots and still have a lot 66x110. These two extra lots will sell for $500 each, which would reduce the price of this splendid home to $1650. Investigate this property. It is only occasionally such opportunities occur.
