Workman (to employer, who has given him ticket for theater): "But this starts at 8 in the evening! I see!"
Employer: "Well, you've nothing to do then, have you?"
Workman: "No, but that's my own time—aren't you one for a malinee?"

"Are you a tourist?" asked a kind old lady of a little girl, who, with her mother and father, was waiting for a train at the union depot.
"Oh, no," answered the little one sweetly, "we're Americans."

WHY NOT ONE THAT THROWS KISSES

Accessory Salesman: "What sort of horn do you want—one with a loud blast?"
Customer: "No. One of those two-tone affairs that sounds like 'I Love You Truly' when I blow at a pretty woman and 'One Side You Big Bum' when it's a man."

"Where are you from?"
"Chicago."

"Let me see your bullet wounds."

"I hear your brother has the hay fever pretty badly," said one man to another.

AT THE THEATERS

"Long Loop" Is Picture of Days Of Gun Law

A story of the west in the days of a forty-five is told by Leo Maloney in "The Long Loop on the Pecos," a Pathe feature showing today and Wednesday at the Star theater.

There is a lawless band known as the "Long Loop" operating on the Pecos. They are cattle thieves and killers, and while there are many suspicious as to who its leader is, it has never been proved. Then comes Jim Rutledge, representing law and order. He soon finds that "Clem Vining" is positive that "Bobcat" Arnold is the leader, while "Bobcat" is equally positive that his neighbor, Vining, is the man. Both men have suffered heavily at the hands of the "Long Loop."

This situation, concocted by W. D. Hoffman, a master teller of western tales, is promised to provide a lot of excitement, and also a romance. Eugene Gilbert playing the girl whose heart is captured by the daring hero. Others prominent in the cast in this Maloney picture are Albert Hart, Tom London, Frederick Dana, Tim Osborne, Chet Ryan, Robert Burns and Dick La Reno.

The Andy Gump comedy "Itoms For Rent" is also being shown.

"Third Degree" At Sherrys Castello Triumph

The young generation triumphs in the person of Dolores Costello, and it is a triumph that, we predict, will extend to the generation to come, with the fair Dolores holding the position of "first lady of the screen." She has a talent that we believe is close to genius. Since she first made of the doll-like heroine of "The Sea Beast" a wildly alive girl who embodied everyone's dreams of young romance, she has gone on turning typical screen heroines into characters of unforgettable charm and reality. Witness her "Mannequin" and her "Bride of the Storm."

But especially witness her work in "The Third Degree," the Warner Bros. production of Charles Klein's police melodrama, now at the Sherry theater.

She appears as Annie Daly, a Coney Island trapeze performer, who marries a wealthy young man, Caste distinction blinds the young man's father to the girl's natural loveliness, and, in attempting to separate the pair, he resorts to a stratagem that has tragic consequences.

Across Miss Costello's face emotion is registered with an intuitive feeling for exactly the right thing. Her extremely sensitive mouth tells more than a world of words. She is a pantomimist par excellence; an actress who brings fresh beauty and life to her every moment in front of the camera.

In "The Third Degree," she has the support of one of the finest actresses of the older generation, Louise Dresser. "The quiet methods and certain authority of Miss Dresser lend distinction to any picture in which she appears, and in "The Third Degree" she appears to her best advantage. A uniformly excellent supporting cast includes Jason Robards, Rockcliffe Fellowes, Kate Price, Tom Sant-ehi, and David Torrence. Comedy showing "Be Careful, Deary."

Judging from the sounds in England, Mr. Churchill is having his troubles in trying to hodge the budget.

Thunder of Big Guns In Marine Picture

The surge of war—thunder of big guns—these are the settings for a wonderful human drama in one of the real masterpieces of the screen, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's much heralded EPIC of the Marine corps, now playing at the Arcade theater for two more days.

"Hell To The Marines" is a mighty drama told amid great battleships in grim war maneuvers; amid strenuous frays in an Oriental wilderness; amid the confusion and bustle of Marine barracks—but, after all, these thrills, bits of comedy, and inspiring spectacles are incidental—in the love of a young American and a pretty girl—and the graft but fatherly love of a grizzled Marine sergeant for the boys he scores and belabors like a terrible task-master, but at heart is proud of.

It is the story of the soul of the Marine corps—the story of the love, loyalty, sacrifice, and ideals of those whom the world knows as "First to fight."

And it's glorious entertainment! One rouser with laughter at Wild-Dam Haines, as the recruit, in his troubles with the paint—his introduction to the "Admiral's barge"—and his troubles with the sergeant that land him in the brig. One thrills at the mighty spectacle of a battle fleet in maneuvers—its gun belching flame—and the grim Marines who feed them their explosive food.

It's the story of the soul of America.

Lon Chaney, as the grizzled sergeant, has a role the like of which he never played and may never play again—a role he does not act—but literally lives. It may well go down as one of the real Chaney classics.

Eleanor Boardman makes a charming heroine, and Carmel Myers a subtle Oriental vampire. Mitchell Lewis as the bandit chief, and Eddie Gribbon as the comic corporal, contribute some gems of acting.

Today's definition: radio commission—a group of men who transfer the groat from the air to the broadcasters.

QUOTAS VS. QUARTS

Exercise and the outdoors are substitutes for wild parties, a psychiatrist advises. One of these evenings when you attend a party you won't know whether a man is asking you for quarts or quarts. No party will be complete without a couple of dabs on the hips. When a somebody suggests a smoking party, proceed instead a chinning contest. Thus the horizontal bar soon will supplant the punchbowl in some of our best families. But if the outdoors is a good antidote for spooning, then those park benches certainly fall to rest.

U. S. MILITARISTIC
