Currey Realty Agency Geo. H. Currey, Realtor George Huntington Currey Phone 200-J 106 Elm St., next to City Hall La Grande, Oregon.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who never complained? Moths are economical—they eat nothing but holes.

Though one may be unable to discharge his obligations, he should always be able to remember them.

Hunt for the good in the other fellow—he has to do the same in your case.

The boss is always glad to see the fellow back from a vacation who is glad to get back.

A dear old soul declares she can't imagine what women's clothes are coming to. Well, it's plain that they're not coming anywhere near the ankles.

Eat, drink and be merry—and you'll soon be drunk.

Sometimes a girl thinks a lot of a fellow and sometimes a house and lot of him.

Even the overalls a working man wears and the barber's coat fit better these days than the formal dress suit did in the olden times.

FOUND HER CRUEL

NEW YORK—Having called her wealthy elderly husband an old fool and a dumbbell and stayed out late at night at card parties because he was uninteresting, Mrs. Julius F. Fleischner, ex-stenographer, was cruel, say the findings of a referee.

The husband won a separation suit with costs of $4,183 charged to the wife.

of seven-thirty p. m., Wednesday, May 4th, 1927, at the commission room in the city building at La Grande, Oregon, and must be accompanied by a certified check or bidder's bond, in the sum of ten per cent of the amount bid as a guarantee of the acceptance and completion of contract, if awarded. Checks will be returned to unsuccessful bidders.

The commission reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Commission April 29th, 1927.

AT THE THEATERS

"Gorilla Hunt" Coming to Sherrys Sunday

A picture of the wild life of darkest Africa. That is the way in which "The Gorilla Hunt," which is coming to Sherrys theater, will impress all who see it. Try to imagine, long lines of safaris, carrying heavy burdens over grassy plains littered with bleaching bones whose one of the many killers has met and slain his victim, grassy plains where antelopes and other game are as numerous as cattle, and seem as tame, until the scent of some killer or perhaps the strange scent of humans sends them scampering away.

The trip on the river is one long thrill, the Congo fishes between banks that are as lovely as any in the world, and none of the rest have the majesty of the immense forest that lines this mystery developed stream. Huge alligators and pythons make the banks lurking places of death, and even in the stream with its treacherous currents, death and danger lurk in a thousand forms. Giant hippopotami lie on the muddy flats, or swim themselves in the occasional shallows, huge inoffensive looking brutes, but armed with terrific jaws and massive strength that gives to their charge a menace that few care to face. With all the beauty that nature has given to the Congo, the most amateur can sense the presence of danger in every moment of his hot and sweating days, and only a man with the iron nerve that Ben Burbridge possesses could have pressed forward to achieve his end, and procure this wonderful picture for the whole world.

Even the overalls a working man wears and the barber's coat fit better these days than the formal dress suit did in the olden times.

Maynard Scores In Offering At The Star

Ken Maynard scores again in his latest First National production, "Somewhere in Sonora," now at the Star theater. The Western star astonishes with his ability to do the most sensational and daring riding stunts ever seen on the screen. "Somewhere in Sonora" goes further than just supplying thrills.

It has a story simple with romance and beautiful background. The photography is magnificent. Charles H. Rogers, the producer, and Al Rogell, the director, have added sufficient historical interest in the tale to put the production head and shoulders above the average Western feature.

Maynard is seen as Bob Bishop, a famous rider who explores various sections of Arizona and Mexico for Bart Leadley, played by Joe Bennett, the runaway son of Bishop's benefactor. Mary Burton (Kathleen Collins), the daughter of a silver mine owner, takes a dislike to Bishop at the outset of the tale. Her love for him grows with the picture. Ben Corbett as "Monte" Simpson and Monte Montague give effective comedy relief as Bishop's pals.

Charles Hills Maltes, Carl Stockdale, Richard Neill and Yvonne Howell lend fine support in excellent characterizations.

"Somewhere in Sonora" and the H. C. Wittwer comedy "Ladies First" or "Himself" will be shown tonight and Saturday.
