By Sister Mary BREAKFAST—Halves of grapefruit, cereal, cream, fish omelet, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked eggs and rice in spinach border, Parker-house rolls, drop molasses cookies, lemon jelly with whipped cream, milk, tea.

DINNER—Salisbury steak, creamed potatoes, hot French omelet, banana and peanut salad, graham bread, floating island, milk, coffee.

Fish omelet is very good and rather out of the ordinary. Often there is too little fish left from the family dinner to amount to much in making a left-over. The fish omelet uses just this little bit of fish to advantage.

One cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup flaked-cooked fish, 4 eggs, 4 tablespoons hot water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon butter.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in smooth sauce pan, stir in flour and when bubbling slowly, add milk, stirring constantly. Reheat fish in sauce. Beat eggs with hot water until very light. Melt 1/2 tablespoon butter in iron frying pan to coat with butter. Have the pan hot and turn in omelet, cook over a medium fire until firm, lifting edges of egg mixture as they cook to let the uncooked mixture run under. When omelet is firm, sprinkle with salt and pepper, spread half of the surface with 2 tablespoons of creamed fish. Fold omelet and turn out onto a hot platter. Surround with creamed fish and garnish with sprigs of crisp parsley.

FINDS WAY TO TRANSMIT MAPS

Inventor of Radio Vision Devises New Machine—Will Aid Airmen

WASHINGTON, May 3. (AP)—C. Francis Jenkins, radio inventor who demonstrated in 1925 that sending by radio is possible, has devised a new machine which is expected to prove valuable to navigators and aviators.

Tests of the device, which transmits weather maps by radio, have been completed by the navy on numerous wave lengths, and are being studied to determine just which frequency will prove most satisfactory to aviators. An adaptation of it for the transmission of pencilled drawings and maps, is being tested at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., with similarly gratifying reports.

The weather maps as prepared by the weather bureau, are transferred to a transparent photographic film so that the lines permit light to pass through, and then are affixed to a glass cylinder into which a light is thrown. As the cylinder revolves, the flashes of light produce an impulse synchronously toward the right. The impulse is transmitted to the receiving apparatus. There, instead of a transparent map, one made of paper is wrapped about an opaque cylinder, and the impulses created by the light are communicated to a small arm carrying a pen point, which darts in and back to make the proper record as it moves across the sheet.

For the sending of pencilled maps or drawings, the transmitting machine is equipped with an opaque cylinder. Instead of developing its impulses from light rays, a needle passing over the graphite lines causes the requisite momentary short circuit and that is communicated to the receiving apparatus in much the same way that the maps are copied. The set Jenkins declares, can be equipped simply to enable it to send drawings as well as receive them.

WOMAN LAWYER SEEKS MAYORALTY

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—A battle between Miss Julia M. Alexander, Charlotte attorney, and M. P. Redd for the mayoralty of this city will be waged May 3.

If elected Miss Alexander will be Charlotte's first woman mayor, thereby adding another "first" to her string. She was the first woman from Mecklenburg county and the second in the state to be elected to the legislature. She was the first North Carolina woman to enter the independent practice of law and the first woman delegate ever sent to a meeting of the American Bar association.

The movement which resulted in Miss Alexander's entrance into the campaign began while she was away on a visit to Bermuda. She accepted, she said, in the interest of good government and because— "I believe it is time for women to participate more actively in municipal affairs."
