Union Boys In Auto Accidents; No One Injured

UNION, Ore., May 10 (Special)—Two Union high school boys who drove to Baker Saturday to attend the Eastern Oregon track meet, met with accidents while on the road between that city and Union. The first collision occurred near Baker when Merton Kuhn, driving a sedan attempted to pass a wagon and some horses. One of the horses jumped into the front end of the car, considerably damaging the fender, hood and windshield, the latter being broken and pieces of glass scattered over the car seats. The horse was thrown across the road but not seriously injured. The second accident ended a little more seriously. Walter Davis, driving a light sedan, was coming home from the meet, and as he started to pass a wagon that was going toward Baker, just at this moment a car, bearing a Washington license and driven by a woman, started to dodge around the wagon. In the collision which resulted the Washington machine was put completely out of commission, one wheel being knocked off the axle, the headlight and fender smashed, besides other damages. The machine was left standing crosswise in the road. The sedan was damaged some also. Luckily no one was seriously injured in either of the accidents.

HEALTH

TROUBLE WITH FEET AND LEGS OFTEN RESULT OF FAULTY CIRCULATION

By Leo Burger, M. D., New York City
Member Goigas Memorial Inst.
Periodic examination of the legs and feet of every individual is essential to be in good health or disturbed at all in locomotion; and this with the view to discovering the existence of any deficiency in the circulation of the extremities, if ever so slight.
We are normally endowed with a wonderfully effective system of tubes, or pipes, veins, and arteries, through which an adequate blood supply is furnished into the parts at greatest distance from the heart, namely, the feet and hands. Like the sap of a tree that must find its way into the branches most remote from the trunk, so the arterial blood requires perils or patient avenues to reach its destination.

Diseases such as inflammation of arteries for veins, or hardening and degeneration of the arteries, with or without diabetes, may insidiously and without our subjective appreciation, slowly but surely close many of the paths (arteries) through which the blood must flow.

Each, then, would be a state of impaired circulation, especially when the legs and feet are affected. Many people walk about on such poorly nourished legs. Some have vague aches on walking. Others think they have rheumatism or flat feet and even doctors may overlook the true state of affairs.

And then they go to the chiropractor! He may cut—just a bit too deep. Blood flows. The injury is deemed insignificant. The "cure all", iodine, is smeared on but to our dismay the wound does not heal; an ulcer or infection develops and often gangrene with loss of the whole extremity is the sad outcome. And why? Because the toes were already badly nourished and a most trivial cut or injury spells danger, when Nature's remedy, "blood", in adequate amounts is withheld.

At the very first sign of trouble in walking, of any sort of ache in legs or feet, seek the advice of a physician. Let us see also the first sign of trouble. Forget not that your feet are often associated with circulation in the limbs and have your urine carefully examined before any cutting is done. Let not even your physician suggest an operation for an ingrowing toenail until you will have had adequate assurance that the circulation in your feet is adequate.

Brownlee Fight For A Stay Of Death Continues

SALEM, Ore., May 10 (AP)—A plea for a postponement of the execution of Albert Brownlee, who is under sentence to be hanged at the state prison next Tuesday, has been received by Governor Patterson from the American Legion of Montana through Harry M. Johnson, of Anaconda, the state commander.

The telegraphic request asks that execution be stayed until further affidavits can be furnished to show that Brownlee is insane. It is claimed that he enlisted in the 26th engineers and served overseas, returning to Libby, Mont., after his service, wounded and shell shocked, and that he applied for hospitalization.

On the basis of similar affidavits received from Brownlee's mother he was examined here several days ago and pronounced normal. It is not probable that the Montana legioners' request will be granted.

Governor Patterson has received a letter from John Kaste, Portland attorney requesting that he be allowed to appear and plead for a commutation from hanging to life imprisonment for John Butchek of Portland, who slew his wife, and who is under sentence to be hanged June 16. A hearing will be granted.

Colls that have been properly handled and treated do not develop bad habits, such as balking or kicking. The most common cause of balkiness is punishment to make horses do something they cannot do or do not understand how to do.
