Second Liberty Bonds Will Be Paid On Nov. 15

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 11.—Secretary Mellon has called for payment on Nov. 15, 1927, all outstanding second Liberty Loan bonds. Interest on these bonds will cease on Nov. 15, 1927. Approximately $1,700,000,000 of these bonds are now outstanding.

While the bonds will be paid on Nov. 15, 1927, it is quite probable that during the next six months the treasury will extend to the holders of the second Liberty Loan bonds an opportunity to exchange them for other government securities. No announcement has as yet been made as to the type of security to be offered in exchange, or the date on which the exchange offer may be expected. The treasury explains that the terms of the bonds require that a notice be given to the public six months in advance of the redemption date. The secretary's announcement, therefore, does not mean that the bonds will be paid at the present time, but merely places the holders on notice that their bonds will be redeemed on Nov. 15, and will cease to bear interest on that date.

If holders of second Liberty bonds desire to have their bonds redeemed, they should present them for payment on Nov. 15, 1927, but if they desire other government obligations in place of their second Liberty bonds, they should wait for further announcement and notify their bank to keep them informed of any exchange offering that may later be made by the treasury. It is said.

It is announced in La Grande that bonds may be presented to La Grande banks or any local bank may be notified as to the wishes of the holders.

LESS BUILDING WORK AFFECTS STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP).—Operators for the advance seemed to experience more difficulty in getting prices up in today's stock market, despite the leadership of several high-grade industrial and railroad issues.

A big falling off in building permits throughout the country primarily was responsible for the weakness of foundation company, which declined four points. Food and public utility stocks showed further response to popular demand.

United States Steel showed intermittent flashes of strength at one time, rising up to within a point of its record high and there was a more general inquiry for the best grade southern and southwestern railroad shares.

The closing was firm. Total sales approximated 1,700,000 shares.

From Present indications the Paris-to-New York air flights will not increase Mr. Average Traveler's dissatisfaction with the slower method of ocean liners.

Western Umatilla county entered a new era yesterday with formal opening of the McKay dam. There is every indication that the project will be a success and will add new wealth and new population to Oregon. It is but one step in the development of a greater and more productive state.

Mississippi floods have menaced and destroyed life and property practically every year since the valley was settled, varying in degree, with the present disaster the worst in history. Each year such a thing is possible—and a most expensive thing, not only to the area immediately affected, but to the entire country—and nothing is done about it. The loss this year, without doubt, would pay for engineering precautions and controls that would make future river tragedies improbable. How could we better spend a portion of our national income?

SEVENTEEN HONOR STUDENTS

The attention of the public upon whom the burden of school support must always fall is regularly directed throughout a school year to the athletic achievements and activities of a student body. It is only natural that this should be the obvious thing, from a casual standpoint, about high schools, since it is an activity that "makes news" and that can arouse and allow a general public interest and participation.

Scholarship—excellence of work in the classroom—is less intimately known or appreciated by the average citizen in the average community, but it is, nevertheless, given great emphasis and attention; and in our own high school competition for scholastic honors has become gratifyingly keen as a result of the selection of honor students each year who receive Hi-Dad Honor Pins as a contest trophy. To become an honor student means the earning of 12 honor points or more each semester, with at least six of these gained entirely by scholastic excellence.

Seventeen senior students, chosen by the high school faculty, qualified this year and were presented with Honor Pins this morning by W. C. Perkins, head of the Hi-Dads, at a special assembly at the school. With a minimum of 36 points required to qualify, the student scoring highest honors had earned the remarkable score of 81 points. Two others won with 76 points each, another had 72, and the lowest score in the entire group was 44 points. The student body, the faculty, and the community at large may well be proud of the record made by these young people and The Observer congratulates them on the achievement.

At a time when education and educational methods are suffering from much random criticism the award of these tokens of student superiority, based primarily on scholastic work, is worthy of special note. For seventeen to reach such a high standard out of a class of eighty-odd is most creditable. And it is worthwhile further to note that a considerable number of these seventeen were not only successful in class work but were also leaders in athletic, literary, musical, and general student activities that aid in the production of a well rounded student citizen.

La Grande has just cause to be proud of her schools because of these things.

'LITTLE BROTHER' OF FATHERS' DAY

"Little Brother of Fathers' Day" was the name given in 1919 to Jack, infant son of Mrs. John Bruce Dood of Spokane, Wash. She was the founder of Fathers' Day on the third Sunday in June. Today the infant has grown to a "big" brother, and merited his title by becoming an Eagle Scout, winning last year the bronze, silver and gold medals for civic service and scoutmaster degrees from Columbia University and the National Council, Boy Scouts of America.
