With skirts the way they are, the old one about "learning at his mother's knee" is strictly up-to-date.

"Going tearing?" inquired Mr. Newmore, as he noticed his neighbor placing suit-cases in the car. "No, I am going to a house party."

"How long should one stay at a house party?"

"Until you have to begin giving checks."

Since doctors say that women are too weak for housework and as the men are not strong for it, what are we going to do about it?

TABLE MANNERS

Soup should be seen and not heard. Soup should be used as a nourishment, not as a stimulant. Tea should be swallowed, not inhaled.

Mother: "Do you know where my keys are?"

Father: "I'll teach you to the same pants to a dog's tail."

Son: "But, Mother, it isn't our dog."

Mother: "No, I know it isn't our dog, but it's my sauce pan."

Son: "Daddy! There's the burglar!"

Father: (jerking up to bed): "How many times have I told you not to point?"

"It," said Clarence, "what is a peace offering?"

"Anything from a box of candy to a fur coat, son," replied his dad.

They were on their honeymoon and the bridegroom gave the bride a dollar not to tell anyone they were bride and bridegroom. At breakfast, the bridegroom, every one started. The bridegroom called the porter and asked, "Did you tell anyone on the train we were just married?"

"No, sah," replied the porter. "I told 'em you-all was single."

"This plant," said the gardener, "belongs to the begonia family."

"I see," said the lady. "How kind of you to look after it while they're away."

"Sherry father to his notion." A young lady told on the other day that all she ever read in the paper was the "Office Cat" and the "Virtual Statistics."

AT THE THEATERS

Hoot Gibson Star In "Silent Rider"

A fast moving story, replete with action, thrills and romance, is the Universal-Jewel production, "The Silent Rider" which opened yesterday at the Star theater.

The one and only Hoot Gibson is starred in "The Silent Rider" an adaptation from Katherine Nowlin Burr's best seller "The Red Heated Husband," and is ably supported by a featured cast of Western players.

The picture starts with a young girl appearing at the Bar Z ranch to assist in the feeding of a score of rough but good hearted cowboys. Hoot, as one of the cow-boys, is immediately smitten with the mysterious stranger, but is unable to fathom the mystery surrounding her past.

Hoot and a partner build a cabin near the Bar Z ranch where they take care of a little boy they found alone on the desert. Things start to happen fast when the father of the child claims his son and it is discovered that the mysterious girl is the wife and mother.

How it is eventually straightened out provides one of the most logical and entertaining endings to a picture imaginable.

Blanche McWhorter, who is fast coming into her own as a picture journey, plays the part of the girl, while a featured cast of western players are included.

"This Gibson feature and the H. C. Witwer story "Hilsters Under the Skin" starring Al Cook and Kit Guard will be shown tonight and Saturday for the last time.

"Children Of Divorce" Expose Of Modern Life

Those who attended the Arcade theater last night were pleasantly surprised by the feature picture, Frank Lloyd's Paramount production "Children of Divorce." Described as a dramatic exposé of the younger married set, it amounted to that—and a lot more.

Chara Bow and Luther Ralston were the bright shining lights and they were provided with enthusiastic help by Gary Cooper, Einar Hanson and Norman Trevor. As for the story, it tells of two girls who grow to womanhood in practically the same environment, only one has learned a lesson while the other's passage through life has been carefree and unheeding. Then, a climax is reached when the younger girl takes advantage of her friend's absence and practically forces the former's fiance into marriage. What, however, adds to this, the interesting side-light furnished by knowing that there is another man who really loves the bride and—she loves him! You ask—then why did she marry her chum's sweetheart. You'll never guess but you will be entertained.

"Children of Divorce" is one of the pictures which should be seen. Owen Johnson's novel was adapted for screen use by Hope Loring and Louis Lighton. Hedda Hopper, Edward Martinelli, Tom Ricketts, Julia Fayez, Gordon and Albert Gray head the supporting company.

"Children of Divorce" will be presented again today and Saturday.

"Laddie" On Screen At Sherrys Theater

Thrilling with all the potent beauty of the late Gene Stratton-Porter's greatest novel, "Laddie," the production of "Laddie" will be seen here today and Saturday at the Sherry theater. Directed by Lou Meekins, the famous writer's son-in-law, who also made the script, the picture adheres faithfully to the original story in every detail, and abounds in a wealth of imagery and delightful local color of a Middle West farm. Few of Mrs. Porter's books contain such a variety of picture material, none of them is more popular. The progress of the two idyllic love episodes forms an enchanting screen drama, and build up to a gripping climax of sheer artistry.

The leading roles are taken by John Bowers and Bess Flowers, both of whom give extraordinarily vivid portrayals. Other prominent members of the cast include David Torrence, Margenta Gilbert, Neil Neely, Fanny Midcley, Arthur Clayton, John Fox Jr., and little Gene Stratton, granddaughter of the novelist, whose work as "Little Sister" is a delight. The adaptation from the book was made by the writer's daughter, Mrs. Meekins, who also collaborated with her director-husband in preparing the final script.

Comedy showing, "Atta Baby."

"Beloved Rogue" Coming To Sherrys Sunday

John Barrymore in "The Beloved Rogue," his first United Artists picture, will be seen next Sunday and Monday at the Sherry theater. The film is Barrymore's first independent production for United Artists release and it represents twice the time the star has devoted to any previous picture.

As Francois Villon, the immortal French beggar-poet, Barrymore loves 'em and leaves 'em in fifteenth century Paris; he plays pranks on the King and the Duke of Burgundy, leads his beggar band in rous and jousts, composes undying rondeaux in boyals while awaiting the judgment of the strange Court of Miracles; jostle each other; he loves and loses Charlotte de Vaucelles, and wins her at the end.

Barrymore is Villon, the heart-breaking idol of the underworld of Paris, the cracking personality that inspired the poems of Saintsbury and Robert Louis Stevenson, Conrad Veidt, the great German character actor, is King Louis XI—his first role in an American production. The film was directed by Alan Crosland from Paul Bern's script based on the life and times of the high living Francois. "The Beloved Rogue" was produced at the Pickford-Falkenburg studio, Hollywood.

The cast of experienced players supporting Barrymore, includes aside from Veidt and Miss Day, Lawson Latt, Mack Swain, Henry Victor, Lucy Beaumont, Slim Sum-
