TRADE MARK REG.
By JUNIUS

Bobbie: "I saw you Junius' sister again last night."
Sutter: "Well, I'm not going to give you a quarter again."
Bobbie: "That's the tendency of these times. They all want to cut out the middle man and let the goods go straight from the producer to the consumer without charge."

New bathing suit is a "black tar-felt" with a small collar of (Roman striped ribbon). If it looks as good as it sounds it must be all right.

Girls may want their hose to be thin, but they don't want what goes in them to be thin!

"Don't you think my girl has a neck like a swan?"
"I don't know, I never needed a swan."

First chorus girl: "What are you doing now, Mack? I never see you in the theater any more?"
Second chorus girl: "Oh, an anti-tubercular insurance company is paying me $500 a month not to wear a short skirt on streets where traffic is heavy."

Women have only two faults: they leave you too quickly or they stick too long.

A good many people think religion is like their best clothes—for use only on Sunday.

First Mother: "I have the time of my life keeping dirt out of my youngsters' ears."
Second Mother: "It's the same with me. My husband just doesn't seem to care what he says before the children."

It is war time. Seeing a Khaki-clad figure passing, the private called out:
"Hey, Biddle, gimme a light."
The other obligingly held out a burning match.
The doughboy, looking up to thank his "buddy," discovered to his amazement the star of a bright star.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said: "I didn't mean any disrespect. I didn't notice you was a general."
"That's all right, Biddle," said the general—who apparently was a regular "guy"—"but you should thank God I wasn't a second lieutenant."

FOR SALE

Here is a good buy. Four-room house, plumbed, wired, garage, close to Greenwood school. The price, $1425, includes some very good furniture. Terms $100, and balance like rent.

Five-room house for rent; good repair. $14.50 per mo.

AT THE THEATERS

Jack Mulhall Is Hero In "See You In Jail"

Jack Mulhall is the same frolicksome young man in "See You In Jail," that he has been in many other First National pictures. The film is showing for the last time tonight at the Star theater and last night's crowd was enthusiastic in its approval of the entertainment.

The word "debauchery" seems to apply to Jack, especially; and by the same token, Alice Dry, who plays opposite him, is as pretty as a picture and can act. This combination is always a satisfaction.

Joseph Henabery, who directed "See You In Jail," has the comely spirit. It is easy to see where he has injected a lot of clever touches into this story of a youth who goes to jail in place of another man because he needs the money.

Mark Swain, always unctuously humorous, one of the real big-brothers of the comedy film, has a fine chance in this picture and a lot of other clever people contribute their share. Among them are Crawford Kent, George Fawcett, John Kohn, William Orland, Leo White, Carl Stockdale, Burr Melntosh, Charles Clary, Yola d'Avril and others.

"See You In Jail" can be recommended for its entertainment value and for the perfection of the production as well as the superior acting of the cast.

On the same program, Mable Normand is appearing in her latest three-reel comedy, "The Nickle Hopper" and from the way it was received last night the laughs kept hopping right along.

Wilder Cameron Mendes, art director, in designing the setting for this gathering place of street pranks, imparted to it a quality of realism that gives it an interest to all who view it. It lends itself perfectly to the strange comradeship that existed among the tubercular and comedy stalked hand in hand, and life was imbedded in it, as if it were a part of the end of time, with no prospect of a tomorrow.

"The Beloved Rogue" reveals John Barrymore in a characterization that is startlingly different to anything he has assumed previously, and easily the most charming, romantic role of his screen career.

Extremely showing "Kiss Me Kate."

"Taxi Dancer" Showing At Arcade

Joan Crawford in "The Taxi Dancer" is conceded to be one of the two or three best dancers in the film colony, and it was on this account, as well as on the fact that she has exhibited marked dramatic ability, that she was selected by director Harry Millard and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives for the part of Joslyn Lee, the Southern belle who becomes a "taxi" in one of New York's dance palaces, in "The Taxi Dancer," the big picture that opens at the Arcade theater today.

It is the kind of part that comes to a girl once in a lifetime, and Joan, realizing this, has done astonishing work in this Robert Terry Shinnon story.

Opposite Miss Crawford is Owen Moore, and the cast also includes Marc Macdermott, Douglas Gilmore, Gertrude Aster, Rockwell Feltows, Bert Roach, Claire Macdonell, William Orland and Charles French. These players have been so skillfully directed by Mr. Millard in this absorbing film, as to have brought the picture veritably to life. It is one of the season's most stirring photoplays.

The latest bit of fun from Mack Sennett's husband, "Peaches and Plumbers" is also on the program.

A "DIFFERENT" PICTURE

LONDON (AP)—Oxford townsfolk and bowler hats are worn by figures in a church painting showing Christ addressing the multitude from a boat on Lake Galilee, Evelyn Dodgson, the painter, says she has introduced modern costumes "because it is much more real to represent the figure of Christ as he is today."

The figure of Christ is not to share in the modern treatment. The painting is in All- Souls church.

Paris Reborn In "Beloved Rogue" At Sherrys

"The Court of Miracles," which flourished during the reign of Louis XI in the fifteenth century, is one of the most colorful settings in "The Beloved Rogue," John Barrymore's fascinating presentation of the life of Francois Villon and his first United Artists picture, which is showing at Sherry's.

The film sees and the imagined walk in the Court of Miracles, in keeping with the name, such miracles are nightly happenings there, for the Court of Miracles is the rendezvous of the beggars of the Paris streets, where the "blind" beggars revolve their spectacles, the armed and legged and bearing its rays to the "dead," so that all may enjoy each other's company when the day's activity is finished.

Villon, greatest poet of his time, was a man of great diversified pursuits, not the least of his accomplishments being skillful thievery. Paradoxically enough, this poet whose verses thrilled royalty and changed the destiny of his country, was so much the vagabond that his closest friends were found in the lowest court of Miracles.

Wilder Cameron Mendes, art director, in designing the setting for this gathering place of street pranks, imparted to it a quality of realism that gives it an interest to all who view it. It lends itself perfectly to the strange comradeship that existed among the tubercular and comedy stalked hand in hand, and life was imbedded in it, as if it were a part of the end of time, with no prospect of a tomorrow.

HEALTH

WHY WE HAVE APPENDICITIS

No. 2
By Reginald H. Jackson, M. D.
Madison, Wis.

Member, Madison Memorial Institute

Nature is getting rid of useless excess as she always does by a process of atrophy and shrinkage. In human beings of today this has reached the point where the surplus pouch of our herbivorous ancestors has withered to an appendix and small caecum.

Where there is no demand for physiological activity, muscle, membrane, cells, and so forth degenerate and are replaced by fatty and fibrous tissue. When this process begins at the tip of the appendix and advances in a uniform way, to its attachment to the caecum, the result is a solid, fibrous cord as commonly noted in elderly people. Nature has successfully eliminated the appendix without giving rise to symptoms indicative of disease in it.

When this process begins at the middle of the appendix or advances in an irregular fashion, the channel becomes tortuous and contracted, and an attack of acute appendicitis may occur. Why? Because the germs which are always present in the intestinal and appendix caecum are burlesque as long as free drainage is present but when stagnation occurs, they immediately irritate and inflame the tissue of the appendix, giving rise to acute, tendering, tenderness.

These attacks are most common to some people the word health means "house of correction."
