OFFICE CAT

By Junius

"Mother," asked little Benny, when they had guests for dinner, "will the dessert hurt me, or is there enough to go around?"

* * *

"How are you getting along with your girl's folks?"

"Great! They're already beginning to treat me like one of the family. Last night I got bawled out for using the guest towel."

* * *

Doctor: "Tell your wife not to worry about her deafness, as it is merely an indication of advancing years."

Hussen Tatters: "Er—would you mind telling her yourself, doctor?"

* * *

Although he hasn't been abroad this year, Charlie Chaplin for months has been sue-sick.

* * *

Mrs. Jones: "Does your husband object to cats?"

Mrs. Brown: "I should think he does! He says that I feed all the cats in the neighborhood. . . . Won't you stay to tea?"

* * *

"Aren't you going to give me a kiss, Billy?" asked the pretty visitor of the infant son of the house.

"No, I'm not!"

"Oh, Billy, why?"

"Well, I saw what you did to dad when he kissed you in the hall."

* * *

"Nola, will you marry me?"

"Doug, I must tell you I'm a somnambulist."

"That's all right—you can go to your church, and I'll go to mine."

* * *

A bachelor is a fellow who gets only half as much mileage as a married man out of a pair of socks.

* * *

Mrs. Newlywed — What's this thing, dear?

Her Husband—It's a pawn ticket.

"Why didn't you get two, so we could both go?"

* * *

Never mind the birthdays. It isn't how many years you have been living but how many years you have really lived.

A second wife, like a second mortgage, is more likely to keep you broke than the first one.

AMONG N. Y. THEATERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Theatrical notes: Flo Ziegfeld wants 32 unbobbed beauties for "Show Boat;" Earl Carroll's "Vanities" has suddenly shut up shop; Roscoe Arbuckle is to play the leading role in a revival of "Baby Mine."

FOR SALE

Here is a good buy. Four-room house, plumbed, wired, garage, close to Greenwood school. The price, $1425, includes some very good furniture. Terms $100, and balance like rent.

AT THE THEATERS

Barrymore Adds Villon To His Roles

More than any other American actor, John Barrymore has given great characters to the stage and screen. Like Stanislavsky, famous Moscow Art theater director, Barrymore believes that truth may be caught at one of its angles if a gifted person woos it with his life, that the essence of great acting is not to act your part at all, but to live it. Conrad felt the same about literature when he wrote, "A labored piece of writing shows it has not been labored over enough."

Barrymore has completely thrown himself into each role he has played, beginning with the cashier in Galsworthy's "Justice", and going through the gallery of heroes he recreated in "Peter Ibbetson," "Redemption," "The Jest," "Richard III," and his last and greatest tribute to the theater, "Hamlet," in which he was internationally acclaimed the greatest Hamlet of his age.

Believing with St. Martin, "many truths can only be expressed by silence," Barrymore than brought his art to the screen. In the series of important film parts he has played, there have been Sherlock Holmes, Beau Brummel, Don Juan, Chevalier de Greux, Ahab, Nemesis of the ferocious Moby Dick, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, and now Francois Villon, sad, bad, mad, glad beggar-poet of 15th Century Paris, and photagonist of "The Beloved Rogue," Barrymore's first United Artists picture, at Sherrys.

Comedy showing, "Kiss Me Kate."

"Monkey Talks," Mystery Drama, Is At Star

Fox Films screen version of the sensational Parisian, London and New York stage success, "The Monkey Talks," is one of the feature attractions of the double feature bill that will be presented at the Star theater today and Wednesday.

This is mystery, comedy-drama, directed by Raoul Walsh, maker of "What Price Glory," and, like the great epic which is pronounced by many critics the finest motion picture of all times, "The Monkey Talks" is a splendid entertainment.

The story is unusual in plot, treatment and character development, and is, in fact, a decided novelty and altogether different from anything filmed before. To say the least, the idea of a talking monkey is unusual, but when this monkey also possesses human intelligence the resulting situations are full of thrills, unexpected scenes and laughter provoking moments.

The story deals with the lives and romances of a troup of circus performers, including a talking monkey, with the ever dainty Olive Borden in the stellar role. Jacques Lerner plays the part of the monkey that talks, and incidentally he created the original role in the Paris stage play.

Raymond Hitchcock, star of a dozen Broadway successes is cast as Lorenzo, while Don Alvarado is in the role of Wick, the lover. Ted McNamara, Malcolm Waite, Jane Winton and August Tollaire have roles of importance.

The second feature on the program is Fred Humes in his latest story of the sagebrush country, "A One Man Game."

The battleship Colorado went aground in the Hudson. The pilot should have tried the Mississippi.

"Taxi Dancer" Full of Romance And Action

Without doubt one of the most sensational pictures of the new season, "The Taxi Dancer," which opened yesterday afternoon at the Arcade theater, lived up to all the advance heralding we had heard regarding it. Strictly speaking, I suppose this production would be classed as a melodrama, yet it is so softened by romance, and its plot is actuated by so much realism throughout that one is unconscious of its more sensational moments.

Joan Crawford, who has risen to cinematic heights within the past year, plays the title role, that of the carefully reared girl, who when faced with the hardest actualities is unprepared to meet them. Miss Crawford essays the part of the "taxi dancer," the little understood class of girls who hire out as professional partners for any men who care to dance with them. By a perfectly natural train of events, this girl, "Joslyn Poe," whom Joan portrays, is forced to become one of these girls, but the method in which she is extricated is most unusual and thrilling.

An excellent performance is given by Owen Moore, who plays the part of the good-hearted crook, "Lee Rogers," who reforms in spite of himself through his association with Joslyn.

Gertrude Astor, seen all too seldom, has an excellent part as "Kittie Lane," the gold-digger, more sinned against than sinning.

Too much individual work is done to commend it all here, but Marc MacDermott, Rockliffe Fellowes and Douglas Gilmore especially stand out, while Bert Roach, Claire MacDowell, Charles French and William Orlamond, are satisfactory in smaller parts.

The Mack Sennett comedy "Peaches and Plumbers" is also being shown on the same program.

POMP AND SPLENDOR

LONDON (AP)—Pomp and splendor feature dinners of state at Buckingham palace. When President Doumergue, of France, was entertained, the banquet hall was decorated in red, white and blue; gold plate was on the table; the king's pipers marched around playing pibroch music; Queen Mary wore opalescent creamy chiffon, the famous Koh-I-Noor and the grand cordon of the Legion of Honor. The king had an admiral's uniform.
