THE GREAT GUIDES—Show me thy ways, O Lord! Teach me thy paths. Guide me in Thy truth and teach me; For thou art the God of my salvation. For thee do I wait all the day. Psalm 25:1, 2.

Another excuse for buying a car: An ingenious citizen says he needs one to get away from the radio.

For a nation that is supposed to have invented the art of war several thousand years ago, the Chinese don't seem to have got very far with it.

"Undue consideration for China may cost Japan dear," says the Tokio Chugai Shogyo. "Nevertheless she is an Asiatic power, and must remember her solidarity with China. Japan is not required to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for the western countries." Consideration for China may be a bit difficult for this country, too. But the United States is an American power, and wants to get along amicably with her big neighbor across the Pacific in the future, and is under no obligation to pull European chestnuts out of the fire.

Such meetings as the present economic congress at Geneva is one of the most hopeful signs of the present-day world. Whether it accomplishes much of a concrete nature or not, it is good for the world's economists to get together. Business is more international, more the concern of the whole human race, than politics, and it is out of economic wars that military wars come. Any economic conference may be regarded as a peace conference, and we cannot have too many of them. While nations are conferring, at least they are not fighting.

PASSPORTS FOR CANADIANS

The Canadian government and public have been rather jarred by the decision of the American immigration department, to make Canadians employed on this side, and crossing the line regularly on the way to and from their work, take out passports. Such workmen have been accustomed to going to and fro without formalities. This action is evidently taken to prevent European aliens from slipping into the country unobserved, by way of Canada. It inconveniences many thousands who work in Detroit and live across the river.

The Canadian minister of immigration announces, however, that "there will be no effort at retaliation on the part of Canada." This is fortunate for the good relations of two friendly neighbors. If Canada did retaliate, it would annoy many thousand Americans, who have been used to entering Canada with the same freedom as Canadians have entered our country.

The Canadian minister expressed the hope that the whole matter can be amicably settled at a conference in the near future. Americans will join in that hope. Nothing is to be gained by any needless friction along the border. In the meantime, the situation is helped by the announcement at Washington that the passport rule will not be applied to Canadians entering the states for pleasure or business trips.

Army and Navy Maneuvers End; Blues Win Games

NEWPORT, R. I., May 19 (AP)—The joint army and navy maneuvers ended at 12:25 eastern standard time today when the "Blues" defending forces won a sweeping victory in defeating the "Black" who sought to invade New York and Southern New England.

With a third of its landing force destroyed through the "sinking" of ten transports yesterday, another third bottled up on a narrow strand along Buzzards Bay unable to advance, and without support from its fleet, the "Black" position was declared hopeless by the umpires.

The defense yesterday sacrificed the cruiser Concord and two destroyers to destroy the transport flotilla. The "Blues" attempted air raids on the "Blues" headquarters at Fort Adams but called disasterously when seven of their nine planes were theoretically shot down.

This morning with the water still rising, the operator in charge of the Mountain States Telephone company reported to The Associated Press here:

RESIDENTS FLEE FLOOD

NEW ORLEANS, May 19 (AP)—Residents of the vast west Attala-bay basin were watching their belongings today and fleeing from their homes because of ominous flood warnings issued by federal weather authorities and John M. Parker, state relief director. Their homes are from 100 to 150 miles northwest of New Orleans.

Parker had a score of telephone operators at work urging the inhabitants to get out of the path of the spreading waters. His instructions were obeyed by residents of 27 towns, none of which has a population of more than 500. The section is on the route to the Gulf of Mexico expected to be followed by waters from the Bayou des Glaises levee breaks and torrent pouring through crevasses in the Atchafalaya river at Melville, from which one thousand men, women and children have departed.

A sudden inundation of an additional portion of 82 Landry parish, sending several feet of water into Bogas, Garland, Duhonson, Whinesills and into the country surrounding Bunkie, was reported. More than five thousand persons were estimated to be in the inundated territory.

NEW ORLEANS, May 19 (AP)

A new river which army engineers estimate, to be carrying much of the flood waters streaming through the Bayou des Glaises crevasses from the Tennessee basin was tracing its way through the fertile farm lands of the Evangeline county today, driving thousands from their homes. More than 7,000 already had been forced to flee from villages and towns in the path of the river was cutting to the sea to take up temporary refuge in concentration camps.

9:43 a. m. only a few minutes after classes had been assembled. The time had been fixed definitely because all of the clocks in the wrecked wing stopped at that minute. This third blast came in Kibbe's automobile in front of the school about 20 minutes later.

Kibbe was sitting in the car. Emory E. Haysk, superintendent of schools, was talking with him, one foot on the running board, Gunn O. Smith, village postmaster, and Nelson McFarren, an aged man, were standing on the sidewalk a few feet away. Sudden-a terrific blast came from the machine. The bodies of Kibbe and Haysk were blown to bits. McFarren was killed outright and Smith so badly injured that he died in a hospital shortly afterward.

who buy oil for the car

MEN like to feel that the care of a motor is one of those subjects too deep for the feminine mind. As a matter of fact, it is as simple as can be.

The principal item in the care of a car is the use of the right motor oil. And women can buy the right oil for the family car with the same good judgment that they use in their home-keeping.

Thousands of women who do buy the oil for cars have found that it pays to buy only the best. And so they do more than ask for Eastern oil. They insist on getting Veedol, the oil that gives the famous "film of protection" that safeguards a motor from wear and repair.

Next time you buy oil, stop at the orange and black Veedol sign. Ask for Veedol by name—or, if you drive a Ford, ask for Veedol Fordol. Then the family car will be the most economical and smooth running department of the home.
