AT THE THEATERS

Vaudeville And Western On Sunday Program

A program of music, song, stories, and comedy will be seen at the Arcade Theater on Sunday.

Ernest Young and Ernest, in an artistic dance offering which they call "Footloose" is the headline attraction of the current unit.

Smith of Smith and Bernard, more often known as "Piano Bill from Louisville," is a composer of many songs left while his dainty partner is a possessor of a melodious and cultivated voice.

Allen and Francis in "Electric Oddities" are two clever entertainers in a comedy offering. Burke and Durr in "Mish and Melody" introduce double piano accordion numbers, singing and dancing. Fred Wells, known as "A Sensational Aerial Artist," has many novelties in his act.

"The Arizona Whirlwind," an exciting new Pathe picture starring Bill Cody, will be the feature picture shown with the vaudeville at the Arcade theater Sunday. It is a story of the mining country along the Arizona border, and it provides the good looking young Western star with every opportunity for displaying his talents that have made him a favorite with film fans.

In Margaret Hampton, Cody has been given a charming leading lady.

This unusual photoplay casts into the rank of false modesty and striking direct at the heart of the issue, reveals in a most startling manner the real dangers threatening womanhood and manhood today. It is a combination of drama, thrills, sensation, comedy, and an important message to every man and woman, young or old.

James Lawrence Brooke, S. S., noted orator and lecturer, will give a most stirring talk at each performance. The film has been arranged in a most refined manner but owing to the delicate subject and scenes it will be shown strictly to separate audiences and no children will be admitted unless accompanied by parents. Women only will be admitted at matinees. Men only will be admitted night.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" At Sherrys

"Why Girls Go Back Home," the Warner picture which is coming in the Sherry theater on Sunday and Monday, has a brilliant cast to enact the reason why girls do go back and was directed by James Flood.

Patsy Ruth Miller plays Marie Daveny, a small town girl who falls in love with an actor at the local theater and follows him to New York, believing his love is as genuine as hers. This role is sold to give Miss Miller the greatest opportunity of her successful career, since it combines dramatic and comedic possibilities and allows her to show how perfectly she can execute the Charleston.

Clive Brook plays the handsome matinee idol who finds his little flirtation with the naive country girl has been taken so seriously to suit him, and plots a cruel revenge.

Jane Winton plays the leading woman in the traveling troupe and Myrna Loy a chorus girl who befriends Marie when she joins up with their show. Joseph Dowling is seen as Patsy Ruth Miller's father, and George O'Hara as her country sweetheart, who misinterprets her when success and fame come to her as a Broadway star.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" is a story of a small town romance and his town really written by Catherine Brady. It was adapted to the screen by Walter Morrissey, and the scenario prepared by Raven Hovoy.

Comedy showing "She Hooks"

Bob Custer Is Here Tonight In Western

A picture which has caught and retained more colorful incident and exciting action of the old west than any of recent memory, is now showing at the Sherry theater, where Bob Custer, P. H. O. western star, is appearing in "Beyond the Rockies" a story written for him by J. Edward Leebard and adapted by William E. Wing. Replete with hair-raising situations, filled with cliff-hanging stunts, filled with speed and fraught with a mystery twist which adds greatly to the suspense of a strong tale, the latest Custer output is one of the most exciting that has been seen in ages.

Director Jack Neuman has acquired himself with distinction in handling the material and the strong supporting cast, which includes Eugene Gilbert, in the leading feminine role, Bruce Gordon, David Dunbar, Milton Ross, Max Asher, Eddie Harris, Max Holcomb and Roy Laidlaw. The cattle stampede and the activity of the Crooked Riders are particularly vivid and have been splendidly pictured.

Comely showing "Foot Men"

Perhaps the most daring photoplay ever produced will be shown at the Star theater when "Are You Fit to Marry" opens Monday for one day only. The film abounds in thrills and sensation but offers splendid entertainment and as an educational feature, the management says, it should be seen by every one, young and old.

"There You Are" Nagel's Most Hilarious Film

"There You Are," Conrad Nagel's most hilarious excursion into the realm of comedy will be the feature attraction at the Star theater Sunday only. The new story, in which Nagel poses his comedy act in "There You Are," one actor, is a side-splitting imitation of F. Hugh Herbert's novel of the same name, relating the trials and tribulations that beset a pair of elopers (played by Nagel and Edith Roberts), in their attempt to escape an angry father and battery of traffic policemen, in the face of such obstacles as—misplaced identity, a lost baby snatched upon them—and a collie dog that proves a Nemesis.

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature is essentially a whimsical comedy—but it is staged in a setting of thrills, such as a wild race of the elopers with a small army of motorcycle policemen through apartment windows to a suspenseful test in which Nagel shows his skill as an athlete, and other side-splitting incidents.

The cast of the new picture is notable, including, besides the two principals, such players as George Fawcett, Gwen Lee, Phillips Smalley, Eddie Gribbon, Gertrude Bennett, Elmo Hillings, Billy Engle and others of note.

Mark Kern's latest comedy "Smilla's Customer" will also be shown on the same program.

A young man in Kansas reportedly had "a fine time" on the floating university. The purpose of higher education at that time.
