He is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Helen Kinney, of Grants Pass, and four children, boys, 12, Kathleen, 10, Sarah May, 7 and Dorothy Jean, 5. Presentation Of "The Creation" Will Be Tonight

Oratorio to Be Given by Pendleton Group in L. D. S. Tabernacle, Beginning at 8 O'clock.

Music lovers of La Grande are enthusiastically looking forward to this evening when one of the finest things in sacred music ever written—the oratorio, "The Creation," an oratorio by Haydn.

Although many beautiful cantatas have been given here this is the first oratorio ever presented, and "The Creation" is one of such beauty that much interest is being shown in this evening's performance, its sponsors declare.

It was at the suggestion of Gordon Brown, director of the Episcopal church choir of Pendleton who directed the oratorio, that the presentation of "The Creation" was attempted. A group of 75 Pendleton singers was secured and an orchestra of 25 pieces. During the months of hard work discouragements were many, but the work continued, and about two weeks ago the oratorio made its initial appearance in Pendleton.

Since then it has been given at Walla Walla, Wash., where it was broadcast from radio station KOWW, word being received from listeners far and near declaring the program to be one of the best they had ever heard. A short time ago "The Creation" was repeated in Pendleton and now it comes to La Grande for a fourth presentation.

Soloists taking part in the oratorio are Mrs. John Knight, soprano; E. J. Warren, tenor; Henry Karpenstein, baritone; Mrs. Charles Bond, soprano; C. H. Abrams, tenor; Willard Bond, bass; Mrs. Hudson Smith, soprano; R. M. Mayberry, bass and Miss Vera Hampton, contralto.

In addition to the solos of the production the orchestra has been given parts. Mrs. B. A. McDonald in piano, accompanist. Violins, violas, cellos, bass viol, flutes, clarinets, trumpets, oboes, trombones and a tympanist compose the orchestra.

The program will begin at eight o'clock. There are no reserved seats.
