Cocoonut Custard Pie
 One cup canned shredded cocoonut, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 1/2 cup milk, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup flour, 2 tablespoons lard, 1-1/2 teaspoon salt, cold water.

Mix and sift flour and salt and rub in flour, using tips of fingers or a pastry mixer. Rub lightly. Add cold water, about 1 1/2 tablespoons and work into a dough, handling as little as possible. With the hands, form into a flat round, roll on a lightly floured, molding board, turning a quarter round frequently to keep the shape round. Fold one side over the other and place on a pie dish. The fold should be in the center.

Beat yolks of eggs until thick, gradually beating in sugar and salt sifted together. Fold in the whites of the eggs, beaten until stiff and add cinnamon, vanilla and milk which has been heated to the boiling point. Mix thoroughly, being sure the sugar is dissolved. The Garden

ONLY HOME CORN IS SWEET
 Sweet corn is the ambition of every home gardener. Only home-grown corn is really sweet. Corn from the market, while excellent as food, has lost the sugar content before it can come to the table. Fresh picked corn alone retains the sugary quality which makes it the most popular summer vegetable.

Removed from the stalk, a chemical change starts which turns the sugar into starch and the corn has a corn taste but not a sweet one. If it remains four hours before getting into the kettle, for scientists tell us that this changing of sugar into starch is accomplished in about that time. That is why a suspicion so often arises that sweet corn sold in the market is field corn or, as it is often called, "horse corn." It is sweet corn once. Time has stolen the sweetness.

Corn planting time is here. It is corn planting time into July. The corn crop season is relatively short and several plantings are necessary to maintain a supply. Golden Bantam now has the place of honor in the garden list for its exceptionally fine quality. It required several seasons to dispel a prejudice against its yellow color as the ideal sweet corn always had been white. Now yellow corn is sought first as the golden color is an indication of sweetness. Ground cannot be made too rich for sweet corn. Its success depends on fertility. Corn is usually planted in hills two and a half to four feet apart. This is right for the vigorous growing types. The smaller growers such as Golden Bantam are best planted in rows with the individual plants a foot apart in the rows. Plant an inch deep.

Corn is a very shallow rooting vegetable and therefore must not be cultivated deeply, merely a stirring of the soil is best. It starts roots above ground and these anchor the plant as it increases in size. Hilling up is necessary to furnish these auxiliary roots in medium in which to take hold. Cultivate corn constantly.
