

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR 'BIG FOUR'

American Team Again Hopes to Carry Away International Cup

NEW YORK (AP)—Unless injuries or the lack of some new and hard riding star upset present prospects, it seems almost certain that America's polo "Big Four" will take the field to meet a formidable British challenge this September.

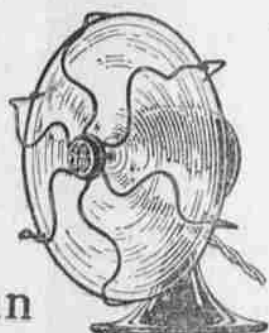

No definite selections will be made in advance of the trials slated to begin at the Meadows Brook club on Long Island around the first of July. About a dozen picked players will answer the calling call. These will be chosen chiefly on three veteran stars: Devereux Milburn, chairman of the defense committee, captain of the team and generally ranked as the greatest "back" polo ever produced; Tommy Hitchcock, intrepid

No. 2 man, sharing with Milburn the exclusive ten-goal ranking; J. Watson Webb, accurate hitting No. 1 and a southpaw; and Malcolm Stevenson, No. 3, defensive star and one of the best "pitch-hitters" in the game.

With the exception of the youthful Hitchcock, these players average more than 40 years of age. All have successfully held their high places in American polo as individual stars as well as a combination. It would be surprising if any of them were displaced when the international four is played, capable as may be the bids for recognition of such players as Captain Peter Hodges, Captain Charles Goodrich, Harry Ross, J. Chester Goodrich, Fred Ross, Bobby Strachan and Eric W. Hopkin. These are the principal team candidates, since the withdrawal of the two Pacific coast stars, Elmer Bonesteel and Eric Pedley.

GUGGENHEIM OPTIMISTIC
NEW YORK—Salomon H. Guggenheim, chairman of the American polo team, is optimistic about the team's chances. "The wealth of America is so great that there is no reason why the present prospect should not continue for many years to come. The only thing that could effect a change would be a disturbance."

Your Modern
HIGH-SPEED Motor
requires this heat-tested Eastern oil

TWENTY-FIVE a second! Fifteen hundred a minute! Faster than your imagination can race! That is the almost unbelievable number of explosions in a single cylinder of a modern, high-speed motor. And those explosions pursue each other so rapidly that they almost fuse into a steady flame of withering heat.

That is why lubrication authorities recommend Veedol, the oil that gives the "film of protection" — a film tested to withstand heat 100 degrees hotter than the hottest friction spot in your motor.

Veedol is made from the pick of the Eastern crude oils, in the great Tide Water refinery at Bayonne, N. J. All of the experience and skill acquired in more than half a century of refining are used in maintaining the high quality of Veedol.

For sure motor protection at all times, buy Veedol from any dealer displaying the orange and black Veedol sign. If you drive a Ford, use Veedol Forzol. Always ask for Veedol Lubricants by name.
