Produce Code Explained By Bureau Chief

Distributors and dealers, as well as commission merchants, are subject to provisions of the produce agency act under rules of administration issued by Secretary of Agriculture Judd.

In general, all persons, firms or associations or corporations receiving produce for or on behalf of another in interstate commerce, whether at point of origin, or at destination or elsewhere, are subject to all the provisions of the act.

The secretary's code of regulations was followed by a supplementary statement from Lloyd S. Young, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, who by virtue of his office is responsible for administration of the law.

"The act," Young said, "makes it a misdemeanor for anyone receiving perishable farm products in interstate commerce for or on behalf of another to dump, abandon or destroy the products so received without good and sufficient cause therefor; or, knowingly and with intent to defraud, to make any false statement concerning the handling, condition, quality, quantity, sale or disposition thereof.

May be obtained from the regulations themselves provided, however, that a certificate may be obtained from the secretary of agriculture.
