WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN THE HOME

So Says Fascist Organization; Train Girls, Women for Domesticity

ROME (AP)—Woman's place in the home, but not necessarily her own home, according to women's fascist organizations which are training several hundred thousand girls and women for productive occupations closely connected with domesticity.

Signora Elisa Major Rizziotti, head of the feminine fascists, said the nation's crying need for nurses will have been satisfied within a few years. Five thousand trained nurses have been graduated in special courses and 25,000 more are being trained. More than 100,000 women are being instructed as scientific farmwives with the intention of relieving men of such work as animal breeding, truck gardening, fruit raising and horticulture of all types.

Premier Mussolini, believing "a mother's kitchen ought to be the cornerstone of healthy national economy," has instructed women to carry out propaganda in favor of home raising rather than imported products. The organized groups train each member as a lecturer and provide her with data on the most essential necessities proper for propagandistic utility.

Given Awards—
Miss Jiamie Kivette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Kivette, formerly of La Grande, was the winner of four awards for the excellence of her work at Visitation Villa academy, Tacoma, Wash., from which she recently graduated. She was given a gold pin for typewriting, gold medal for prose composition, music diploma and her high school diploma.

An idea is valuable only when put into action.

Mad Bull Still Leads Marathon

LAYTONVILLE, Cal., June 17 (AP)—Mad Bull, Karook Indian entrant in the 480-mile Redwood highway Indian marathon, was 14 miles ahead of the field today when he checked through Cummins, 15 miles north of Laytonville. He stopped for a short rest. He was 173 miles from the San Francisco starting point.

Between Laytonville and Cummins were Chochee and Melika, the Zuni Indians entered from New Mexico. They have steadily gained on their opponent and expect to overtake Mad Bull before midnight, for they slept last night and planned to keep running until late tomorrow.

Jamon, the third Zuni Indian, was to start out from Robbins Nest, some 25 miles to the rear, today. He was delayed with a badly bilious foot.

Flying Cloud, Karook Indian, was between Willits and Laytonville, fourth in the race today.

18 STANDARD SCHOOLS IN COUNTY NOW

According to an announcement made today by County School Superintendent Sayre the number of standard grade schools in Union county has grown from 12 last year to 18 this year. The standard schools up to date are, La Grande, Central, Willow, Greenwood, and Rivers. Perry, Blain, Imbler, Union, Shanghai, Lower Cove, North Powder, Island City, Wolf Creek, Yreka, Higard, Kamela, Alice and Ladd Canyon.

Mr. Sayre also states that eight eighth grade students who took the state examinations over have passed and are being presented with eighth grade diplomas. They are Grace Blacker, Union, Harvey Conklin, Island, Hudson, Vivian McFarland, Lewis Miller, Highland, Verna Wetmore, Cove, Vera Wilson, Higard, and Allen Zaunz, Union. There were 82 in the county who took the seventh and eighth grade examinations earlier in the spring.

HOGS UNABLE TO CONTROL TEMPERATURE

Life is what somebody else makes it, if the hog could tell his side of the story.

In winter he freezes and in summer he sweats—all of which he is powerless to prevent. Unlike other animals the hog has no way of regulating his own temperature. Horses, cows and kindred farm stock react to the weather as humans do. Their pores close when it's cold and open for perspiration when it's hot.

The United States bureau of animal industry has found that the hog is virtually devoid of this function. Beneath his skin is an adipose tissue that apparently is without feeling.

Even the process of tanning for identification in the slaughter house has no effect on the hog. The instrument, pointed and barbed, may be thrust into his back with extraordinary force and he will not bother to grunt.

The queer constitutional makeup, scientists say, is responsible for the fact that a hog may freeze to death in sub-zero weather, or drop dead by the roadside if carelessly driven through summer heat to the market.

Outdoor Code Urges Tourists to Behave

CHICAGO (AP)—"Everything belongs to somebody" is the first commandment in an outdoor code of ethics for vacationists and city folk who flock to the country in the summer months.

The code was drafted by the Izaak Walton League of America, and Seth E. Gordon, extension director, is sure its observance will eliminate much of the animosity expressed by farmers by careless urban vacationists.

Other points in the code: "Never leave a gate open, permitting cattle and livestock to roam from their pastures. "Don't disfigure or displace natural resources. "Be a hiker, not a ride rider. "Don't trespass on forbidden ground, or hunt or fish on posted land. "Don't roam across planted fields, walk around them. "Build a camp fire, not a roaring inferno. "Drown the fire with water when camp is broken, and do not scatter the embers. "Be courteous: Leave a man of thanks in any wilderness shelter used."

Farm Homes Can Have Bathrooms

No farm home need go without its bathroom, agricultural extension agents declare.

Installation of water systems to supply both the kitchen and the bathroom is a chief feature of improvement made popular by home demonstration agents.

The tank can be filled from the roof by gutters when rain is available, or from a spring by means of a run installed to force water up the hill to barns and the farmstead.

SALEM, Ore., June 17 (AP)—Richard Cox, of Portland, has been reappointed by Governor Patterson as a member of the Multnomah county tax conservator commission.

PEKING, June 17, (AP)—Mrs. and Miss Tso-Lin reported the dispatch of the Chinese Northern Chinese alliance, this afternoon, as was announced by the alliance this evening.

she had seen the agent in attendance at the present trial.

The witness testified under cross examination by the state that she was an acquaintance of Paul De Autremont, father of the defendants and that she had talked to him about the case.

Denies Charge—
The state attacked the register sheet and Mrs. Morton explained discrepancies by saying: "I am not a very neat bookkeeper," and denied that she had changed the register.

Morton stated the twins occupied the room nights and that "the third young man," stayed there in days, doing a night worker, she seldom saw him.

The state introduced a statement signed by Mrs. Morton on April 12, 1927 in which she put in writing the main points of her testimony.

The state failed to shake the testimony of Mrs. Morton in cross examination was recommended by the defense on her manner of conducting her bookkeeping. She said she was proprietress of three apartment houses, and "that nobody understood my bookkeeping but myself, and I thought that was all that was necessary."

Mrs. Morton identified Hugh as one of her roomers.

George Tabor of Ashland, Ore., a carpenter employed by the Southern Pacific at Shady, Ore., who took part in the search for evidence, with Southern Pacific special agents following the crime, testified that following the arrival of National Guardsmen, there was "considerable shooting going on" at trees in the vicinity of where the state holds the accused brothers were camped.

Saw Men—
The witness said he knew Ray Finerman, a state witness who testified he saw two men fitting the general description of the De Autremonts, boarding the passenger train just before it was derailed, but did not recall that he had ever talked to Finerman about the case of the men, in response to a defense question.

J. E. Shelton, of Eugene, Ore., former managing editor of the Eugene Guard, was called to testify to the "irregularity of the mail service on the day of the hold up," in support of the defense theory it was an "inside job." The state filed an objection, and the court retired to chambers to discuss the issue with counsel for both sides. After the conference, the witness

CLAUDE C. PRATT AND POLITICS.

I have never had very much to do with politics, or any other kind of ticks. My father was a republican, my mother was a Baptist and I sell lumber and paint to nearly everybody.

The city election is coming on and different ones have asked me if I was going to help put in 2 more city commissioners.

We already have 3 and what in the world would we do with 2 more. It costs more money to operate them and 2 men cannot agree on city affairs like 3 men can. If 5 men are placed in office as commissioners, none of them feel like there is any responsibility resting on their shoulders. They often say there is enough to chew the rag over city affairs without having to attend commissioners' meetings, or about 3 out of 5 may go fishing or else one of them may be out on a large summer and takes the evening paper to the big chair and falls asleep then wakes up long enough to ask his wife to send a messenger boy to the city hall and to tell the other 4 commissioners that they can go ahead with the meeting without him as he is not feeling well. Then the good wife takes off his shoes and turns down the covers and the 2 men commence to snore, and the 3 men commence to talk to me about it. It is not so with 3 because there is no way to sneak out. It seems to me that in a city the size of La Grande to put 5 commissioners in is like putting a blind-fold on and walking backwards to nowhere. It only gives more of a chance for a wire-pulling on this side of the track and that side of the track and sometimes I am glad that I don't live on either side of the track—I lie between the 2 tracks. Every ward of the city can have exactly what they want and are willing to pay for. If any certain ward isn't getting a fair deal it is usually because they didn't want to stand the expense.

I am not running for mayor. We are selling 100 percent pure Morehead paint and the 2 extra shingles at the per bunch and not cost at the per sack.

I will probably see you at the polls at the coming city election. Let us do a little figuring by putting down 3 and carrying 3.

ship clips in which G. W. Franklin and J. H. Dolbin also are interested have been shipped to Boston on consignment.

A. G. Butterfield has finished shearing and has sold the clip from his own flocks, run under the name of the Enterprise Livestock company, and shearing has not been finished on the large D. & M. ranch of which he is manager.

Albert Morgan and James Estes are reported to have sold for 30 cents.

One of the best clips reported in the county came from the 1250 sheep in A. F. Noregaard's band of almost purebred Rambouillet stock. The shearing was done at the Johnson and Franklin plant on Lower Prairie creek and Mr. Noregaard figured the wool made nearly 12 pounds a fleece.

Most of the fanns have been contracted at 16 1/2 cents a pound, which is considered a satisfactory price.

Will Be Tried For Possession

Fred Waldrop was arrested yesterday with a bottle of moonshine liquor in his possession and will be tried in the municipal court Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. He was released upon furnishing $50 bonds.

Jim Harrison, whose trial was set for 7:30 o'clock last night, will be tried tonight at the same time instead.

Prolong Career By Use of Radio

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The old saying, "a woman is an old as she looks," no longer applies to actresses, believe Miss Emilie Melville, one time famous actress, who at 78 still has her youthful voice and now keeps her public via the air.

Miss Melville made her debut in Philadelphia in 1888 she was "The Grand Duchess" in the first English presentation of the "French opera." She was leading lady for Edwin Booth and once had her own theater in Australia.
