PEAK IS PASSED IN BERRY MARKET

Rain Injures Portland Strawberries; Price of Fruit Is Higher

PORTLAND, Ore., June 25 (AP)—Strawberry prices are high and the season appears to have passed its peak of supply of quality fruit at season's lowest price since Thursday's rainfall injured practically all local stock now being received here. Cuts of Oregon and Washington bring $1.75 and upward. Cabbage at 2 to 4 cents is more plentiful. Green and wax beans were moving at 15 cents per pound. Small supplies of red raspberries are coming in at $2.00 per crate. Cherry supplies are increasing with some excellent Lamberts from Mary Hill bringing 25c per pound. Standard and prime first butter cuts are half cent lower today on the dairy exchange. Other grades remain unchanged. Eggs are also firm at yesterday's prices. Broilers and chickens were increased with 25¢ pounds of butter and 21¢ cases of eggs yesterday. Country dressed meats and poultry continued steady in this morning's morning trade, with prospects for a fairly good week end cleanup.

WORLD'S NORMAL FEET ARE CROOKED

Straight Lasts for Such Feet All Wrong, Shoe Designer Says

NEW YORK (AP)—The relationship between a woman's head and her feet is very close, says Andre Perugia, who has just arrived in this city from France. Perugia, the Italian who Paris acknowledges as king of shoe styles, intends to show American manufacturers that they, like most of the world, are giving women shoes that are built on the wrong principle. Straight lasts for crooked feet are all wrong, he believes, and all normal human feet are crooked, says Perugia. American women who think their feet are different from those of the rest of the world are on the wrong foot, he declares. In a period of mannish clothes, shingled heads and masculine hair fashion has not been able to "Adaptize" feminine feet. The shorter skirts and shingled get, the more dainty and interesting become women's shoes, says this man who makes them what they are today. Snake and lizard skin shoes were his idea. Half the modern shoe styles which have captivated Paris came from Perugia's brain. The science of shoe construction interests Perugia. Four years ago Andre Perugia was struggling to pay his expenses in a little shoe shop in Nice. His shoes caught the attention of an important Paris dressmaker who gave an exhibition in Paris of 500 Perugia models. The Italian designer soon afterward opened up the Paris shop, which from the time of its installation has dictated French shoe styles. His workmanship is often attributed to his skill, acquired during the war, as a constructor of airplanes. In that matter he mastered the art of applying fabrics to surfaces.

PROBLEM OF CONFERENCE IS UNDECIDED

delegation indicated prevalence of a belief that any agreement to reduce the size of cruisers from 10,000 tons, as desired by Great Britain, would be another surrender on a type of warfare which the Americans hold necessary in their national defense hence their determination to make no concessions on this point. It is also remarked that Great Britain with the Nelson and Rodney, each of 25,000 tons, has two more powerful capital ships than the American navy—vessels which embody the lessons taught by the battle of Jutland. Thus, acceptance of the British proposal to cut the tonnage of battleships to 35,000 would leave America in a distinctly inferior position as regards this type of warfare.

Deadlock Continues

The deadlock continues on the great problem of the conference, namely: Whether the decisions taken at Washington in 1922 are subject to reconsideration here. Apparently nothing important can be achieved until the question is decided one way or another. Groups of experts met today to study the technical aspects of the limitation of cruisers, submarines and destroyers, but anything they do concerning cruisers at least, may be thrown overboard later, as this hinges upon how the most painful problem of the conference is regulated. The most reliable opinion here is that American delegation prefers to go home without any agreement.

No Special Trend Is Noticed Today In Stock Market

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—The stock market failed to develop any pronounced trend in today's market, establishment of several new high records in the railroad equipments and specialties being offset by new lows in the copper and oils. The general list pointed upward in the early trading, but sold off in the final trading, closing quotations displaying marked irregularity. Western Pacific, Western Maryland, Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred, Norfolk and Southern and Kansas City Southern were all bought at advancing prices. Weakness of the copper and oil shares reflected unsatisfactory trade conditions. General Asphalt preferred broke six points, the common 2 1/2 and Green Canadian Copper 2. The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 730,000 shares.

Wheat On Decline; Market Close Weak

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP)—Opening 1/2 to 1 1/2c lower, wheat underwent some further decline. Corn started 1/2 to 1 1/2c off and later showed an additional drop. Oats were weak. Provisions also tended to sag. Wheat closed weak, 1/2 to 1/4c lower; corn 1/2 to 2/8c down; oats 1/2 to 1/4c off and provisions unchanged to 1/2c.

DeAutremont Search Greatest Man-Hunt

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Approximately 2,400,000 circulars containing photographs and general descriptions of the three DeAutremont brothers were scattered broadcast throughout the world, Post Master General Now said during the postoffice department search for them. It might be regarded, he added, as the greatest man-hunt ever conducted by post office inspectors. Who will receive the reward money amounting to $15,000, is not known yet, as under a federal statute, rewards cannot be paid out until three months after conviction.

than to reach one which would involve the entire remodeling of the Washington treaty or one placing total tonnage figures for auxiliary aircraft so high that there would be no limitation at all, but merely an invitation for increased armament competition.

Not Officially Communicated
WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Reports of prospects of a treaty between the United States and Japan to outlaw war have not been officially communicated to the state department. It was said today at the department, Secretary Kellogg conferred briefly today with the Japanese ambassador, but it was declared the question of a treaty had not been discussed.

Refusal of Ambassador Hugh Gibson to agree to the British proposal for revision now of the Washington arms treaty was said today to have the full support of the state department.

Gibson has inquired to the department the British suggestion that capital ship, airplane carrier and cruisers maximum tonnage be reduced but it was made clear that there was no intention here to urge the ambassador to accept the proposal.

The ambassador went to Geneva with clear-cut instructions, it was said, which excluded the possibility of revision of the 1922 treaty now while France and Italy,
