AT THE THEATERS

Zane Grey Film at Star Refreshing

The silver wedding anniversary is the day on which the couple celebrate that twenty-five years of married life are over.

When a man is all wrapped up in himself, he makes a very small package.

"What do you believe is the reason for your long life, Uncle Aaron?" the reporter asked the colored centenarian.

"Hess? I was hawn a long time back, ah guess," said Aaron reflectively.

Bathing: Will this bathing suit shrink?
Beauty: Positively not, madam.
Bathing: Show me a cheaper brand, please.

To keep your upper set of teeth from dropping down by them on the floor.

"Are you a messenger boy?" asked the near-strutted man of a boy in the street.

"No, sir," was the indignant reply. "It's my sore toe that makes me walk so slowly."

The teacher, wishing to arouse the interest of her Sunday school class, asked them to write the names of their favorite hymns.

All the pupils bent their heads over pen and paper for a few minutes, and then handed in their slips—all except one.

"Come, Mary," said the teacher, "bring me your paper."
Mary, with downcast eyes and flaming cheeks, handed the teacher a slip of paper bearing the words: "Why Smith."

"Why do they have those glass cases with axes in 'em in the railroad passenger cars?"
"Oh, they are put there to use in case anyone wants to open a window."

There is no way to make it rain, says a weather expert, but it seems to help some when you put on a white suit.

A Hartford, Conn., bachelor is said to have an assortment of 400 white collars but if he should happen to marry we don't suppose he would have any place to put them.

There was a young clapper who rolled 'em;
Not needing her carters, she sold 'em;
When the weather was cold
And she wished 'em unrolled,
The poor dear had nothing to hold 'em.

Don't throw your mouth into high gear until you are sure your brain is turning over.

At the Star theater today and Saturday is another of those Zane Grey stories of the desert and the red man that has made Grey the acknowledged peer of all writers on the subject of frontier America. Grey knows the desert country and he knows Indians.

In Paramount's screen version of "Desert Band"—"Drums of the Desert" a new tempo in western drama has been created, refreshing in that among other things it brings to the screen new faces.

Warner Baxter, long a favorite, in once more seen astride a horse as John Curry. Opposite him in her first American role, is charming Marietta Miller, who has just been brought over from European triumphs. There's a freshness and verve to the characterizations of these two principals that is particularly likable.

Ford Sterling, Paramount's insupportable comedian, his usual funny self as Painless Perkins, a desert faker, is ably abetted by Heintz Ginklin. Wallace Macdonald has the principal heavy role.

The story, however, is that of the Indians and in this department the Navajo Indians themselves play an active part. Virtually the entire picture was made on their Arizona and Utah reservations.

That even prizefighters aren't safe from the wiles of women is evident in Mack Sennett's new comedy, "A Dozen Socks," which is the laugh portion of the program at the Star theater. Danny O'Shea, a prize-fighter, has a weakness for darning with pretty girls and what this weakness gets him into is plenty. When charming little Alice Day comes along, Danny is a goner and the fun is fast and furious, it is said.

Thomas McConnell and Louisa C. McConnell, his wife, and Edward McDevitt, and Mrs. Edward Jane Don McDevitt, his wife, and also, all other persons or parties unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint herein.

IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON: You and each of you are hereby commanded to appear in the above entitled court within four weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, and if you fail to so appear the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in his complaint as follows:

That plaintiff be decreed to be the owner in fee of the following described premises, being the real property described in the complaint herein, to-wit:

Lots numbered Five (5) and Six (6) in Block numbered Sixty-nine (69) of Chapter's Addition to La Grande, Union County, Oregon.

That you, and each of you, set forth any claim that you may have in or to said premises, or any portion thereof, and that such interest be decreed to be inferior to the right, title and interest of the plaintiff in and to said premises, and the whole thereon, and that plaintiff's ownership of said premises be declared to be in fee, free and clear of any right, title or claim on the part of you, or any of you, and that plaintiff have such other and further relief as in the premises may be deemed equitable and just, and have and recover his costs and disbursements herein.

This summons is served upon you by publication upon the order of the Honorable J. W. Knowles, Judge of the above entitled court, and copies being made and returned on the 24th day of June, 1927, and directing that said be served by publication for four full weeks or five publications.

A. A. SMITH, Attorney for Plaintiff, Residing at Baker, Ore.

The question persists: Are the echoes very lowden the Black Hills?

Many Thrills Promised In Chaney Picture

Thrills of a new kind; the haunting mystery of the mysterious Orient, with ead- and pistol-plot that almost runs Oriental belief; those, garnishing a romance delicate as the lotus flower, mark Lou Chaney's new triumph on the screen.

"Mr. Wu," playing at the Arcade theater today and Saturday displays Lou Chaney in a new angle to his old arts.

He invades another race for his character, as the silent, subtle and sinister mandarin, vested in the knowledge of ages; almost meekly in his insight into human character, and his enormous power, pursuing his relentless program of revenge against a family who wronged him.

The dramatic climax, in which woman's intuition is pitted against the wisdom of the Orient, in a desperate duel of wits between Chaney and Louise Dresser, with the life of her son as the stake, is one of the most astounding pieces of dramatic action ever given on the screen.

Louise Dresser plays the English mother, battling the mysterious Oriental for the life of her son; Renee Adoree, the Chinese daughter, whose wrong precipitates the dramatic situation. Ralph Forbes, the English son, Claude King as Moir, the old Scottish governor, Anna May Wong, Gertrude Olmstead, Holmes Herbert, Mrs. Wong Wing, and other well known players appear in the production.

Col. Lindbergh wrote his name in a telephone booth at Stratton, Ill., January 2, 1926. We just know some one would find him out!

NEW YORK—Anthony Fokker, who has quite a reputation for building planes, knows at least half a dozen men who want to fly around the world. Some of them wish to do it without a stop, by retreating in the air.
