DEMPSEY ROUGH ON FIGHT MATES

In Meantime Jack Sharkey Is Developing Speed for Coming Conflict

RARITOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 11 (AP)—The life of a sparring partner is short and bitter to the training camp of Jack Dempsey, for the best a shock absorber can get is the worst of it.

Two new heavyweights coming in today passed a trip on the way out, and the looks of relief in the eyes of the departing guests could be matched only by the anxiety of the boys who had just appeared for seeking duty with the former champion of them all.

Jack Hildebrand, Petro Corti and Bill Hater, were handed releases and one-way transportation south simultaneously. The usefulness of Hildebrand, a Syracuse heavy-weight, ceases with two successive knockouts at Dempsey's hands in the last two weeks out. Petro Corti, strong man from Austria, has been badly battered and Hater was found too light for the ragged going. Both newcomers, Chief Metchum, 185-pound Indian from Oklahoma, and Marty Gallagher, an Irish lad from Washington, were ordered to leave their part of the boxing burden today.

The schedule for Dempsey this week, his last full seven days in the come back battle with Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium a week from Thursday night contains about as many rests as a musical score. Jack will lay off tomorrow to start the Lake George swimming marathon and his splendid physical condition forecasts another break on Thursday and Friday.

EX-GOP PREPARING

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Speed, a right uppercut and a left jab appear to be what Jack Sharkey is perfecting for his fight with Jack Dempsey here the night of July 21.

Sharkey's wanted left has been noticeably absent in his early training sessions, and his right hand hook—the punch that earned Jimmy Maloney from the heavyweight title once or twice, and then under pressure, the right hook, according to a member of the Bostonian staff, is being developed under cover. The uppercut is being brought into play often and yesterday Sharkey used it effectively on Ed Gates, Paul Cavalier, Johnny Urban and Marco Pace. He boxed Jimmy King for speed and by keeping on the defense, found opportunity to keep busy avoiding the little fellows assault.

The ex-gop is sticking faithfully to his road work and he gets in four miles or more each morning before going to the gymnasium for his sparring sessions. His wind is excellent; he proved that yesterday by going at top speed for six rounds without breathing hard.

BOAS WIN

MEDFORD, Ore., July 11 (AP)—The Boas of the Southern Oregon league defeated Grants Pass 10 to 7 yesterday at Jacksonville Hot Springs. Collapse of the Grants Pass outfield in the sixth when they missed three easy flies and allowed four runs to score, was the beginning of the end. In the seventh, with the score tied at seven all, another fly ball was dropped, and Iverson replaced Sharrock in the box. He was touched up for two more runs. The Grants Pass team in the first inning scored five runs off Davis on four hits, including a home run, and hit him hard throughout the game. Sharrock pitched good ball until the outer defense crumbled.

JACK GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS

Here you have Jack Dempsey arriving at White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., to finish training for his battle with Jack Sharkey at New York to decide who is to cross gloves with Tunney in the fall. With the ex-champ came his wife, Estelle Taylor (left). They were met by Thom Lister and his family, proprietor of White Sulphur Springs hotel where the Dempsey camp was established.

"Big Ben," Inspired by Tunney, Is Going After the Heavyweight Title

TAMPA, Fla., (AP)—Gene Tunney, who has a liking for things literary as well as pugilistic, appears to have inspired a young colt to become the world's heavyweight champion. The weight he champion has a scholastic standing which won him membership in two honorary societies.

Benjamin Pound is his name. He grew up in the same Greenwich Village which now boasts of Tunney. Two years ago, when Gene was in Florida, Pound, a student at Haines College, met him and then and there decided to follow a ring career.

"Big Ben," as Pound is best known, came to Florida the year before. As a football star and leader of the college boxing team he did not want to lose his amateur standing. He permitted Tampa promoters to match him with eight opponents, however, with the understanding that he was not to "knock down" any money. Only one fight lasted more than one round. "Big Ben" knocked them out.

"K. O." Brennan, of New York who remained a round and one minute with Pound in their first fight came back for a return engagement. "Big Ben" broke his left hand in the second round, but with his right hooked down Brennan three times in the remaining four rounds and won the decision.

After finishing his junior year in college with a scholastic average of 92%, Pound decided to become a professional. In his first fight for money he knocked out Buddy Myers of Canton, O., in two minutes and three seconds.

"Big Ben" weighs 195 pounds and stands six feet two inches. He will be back next September for his senior year.

VANDERBILT WILL SUE FOR DIVORCE

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., newspaper writer and son of General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, has gone to Reno to seek a divorce from Mrs. Rachel Linton Vanderbilt, from whom he has been separated two years.

Difficulties first developed when he started a chain of inland newspapers in several cities against the will of his parents.

Mr. Vanderbilt, prior to his departure, declared he was forced to take this action because his wife expressed wishes of his parents.

WOLF LIKES MOTORING

COAL VALLEY, Ill. — Richard Yunker, retired trapeze performer, amuses himself by making pets of wild animals. His latest acquisition is a 40-pound wolf. Heretofore he has had a pet dog, but Yunker doesn't often permit it, fearing his pet may find the tail of the wild too strong to resist.

A former prohibition leader now is head of a Mosquito Abatement association. No drinks. No bites.

will not sue him. "I have nothing against my wife," he said, "and there is no other man or woman in the case. We were just mismatched."

Married in 1920
The marriage of Cornelius Vanderbilt, fourth of that name, and Miss Linton, a half-sister of Martin W. Linton Jr., prominent New York lawyer, was one of the brilliant society events of 1920. Vanderbilt at the time was employed as a reporter on a New York newspaper and continued writing for his paper while on a honeymoon tour of the west.

Difficulties first developed when he started a chain of inland newspapers in several cities against the expressed wishes of his parents.

"This," he observed, "is a rather strange way to look at things in the modern times when two people usually find it more amicable to dissolve the marriage bond and attempt to make their lives over."

Enter: the baby!

Accompanied by his faithful stork, the Bitner baby arrived this morning. There was a great deal of rushing around, but things have quieted down now, and advice is pouring in!

Counselors, well-meaning and many, have arisen: "I used this talcum and that soap," "those bottles are best," and "Blank's have the best carriages." But behind these advices looms the most practical, most practical counselor of them all: advertising.

Advertising will tell Mrs. Bitner not only which talcum, which blankets, which carriages are best, but it will also give her many helpful hints on keeping her baby healthy and happy. It will suggest toys for his busy hands, shoes for his scampering feet, clothes and foods for his sturdy body, as well as books to set his eager mind to work. And, as the years go by, Mrs. Bitner will keep young, and look young too. For advertising will help her solve one of the greatest economic problems of her home—buying the best for her family at the best prices.

Read the advertisements. They carry a wealth of sound advice to people who are creating homes.
