Now, Bobby, remember your manners and don't turn around and stare. But who is that woman directly behind you?

Wife (with newspaper): "It says here that men grow bald because of the intense activity of their brains."

Hubby: "Exactly. And women have no whiskers because of their intense activity of their chins."

When you see a photograph of a man with a hat on, you know what has happened to his hair.

Judge—How did you come into this country?

Italian Boy—By air.

Judge—Flying machine?

Italian Boy—No, stock.

A forty-cent monkey wrench can stop a forty-thousand dollar machine.

A mansion is a house when they expect you to live the great level.

We'll swap winter for strawberry shortcake any day.

"Whenever I look at that girl I think of a hen."

"Which one?"

"How firm a foundation."

Isn't Vice President Duggan going to swear any more, to break the stiffness of the vice president?

Fashion took the batpin away from women and left them with nothing but an automatic revolver with which to defend themselves.

She disapproving the engagement ring he has just given her: "It's very much like the last one I had."

Doc: "That what the last girl I gave it to said."

No one ever won an argument with a taxiab driver or a telephone operator.

AT THE THEATERS

War's Thrills, Cheers and Agony Resurrected

By C. L. Strom, Commander Disabled American Veterans

God and a soldier all people adore in time of war but not before. When war is over and all things righted

God is forgotten and the soldier slighted.

This old verse came into my mind as I watched a previewing of this splendid military musical, "The Victory Parade," which is at the Star Theater today and Wednesday. Not that the nation has forgotten God or its mighty soldiers but the human mind as time passes is quick to forget. There is a vivid reminder in these films of what the fighting men of Uncle Sam did just ten years ago.

A new generation of young people has grown up since the war and in their school books they read about what was done by Americans in the various wars in which this country has been engaged. To them and to many others who know nothing of war the tales of these achievements are as a dream in printed words, a dream of honor, but seen only in the perspective of imagination.

"They said of bloodshed by Americans for America, a sacred thing, but hidden forever from their eyes in the closed book of the past. In "The Victory Parade" we see in actuality that sacred event. The shedding of American blood that others might be free. One sees the soldiers fall, killed or wounded, as they pass into the hell of sharp and machine gun fire, seen from their home from the field of honor by the Red Cross.

It gives a close up of the four big battles, Cantigny, Chateau-Thierry, St. Michel and the Argonne, in which the German army was literally blasted to shreds by the most terrific artillery fire ever concentrated upon an enemy.

If you see "The Victory Parade" you must be prepared to study as well as to be thrilled. It is a true and authentic record and screen real history in the making.

LONDON—Thunderbolts mean nothing much to Fraulein Thoa Rambo, polite stunt flyer. She and Mrs. Elliott T. Jay outside a storm in going by air from Croydon to Southampton in order that the President might connect with the Levantian for a trip to the United States.
