Two crushing defeats on the hands of a "ball club" found John McGraw's Giants today in anything but a snappy frame of mind.
Cincinnati punctured Giant aspirations yesterday, winning the first game, 5-6, and then meeting Virgil Barnes for an 8-3 win.
Pittsburg took the third game of the series from Brooklyn, 6-5.
"Tiny" Osborne Sterling pitching gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-1 win over the Boston Braves. Chicago thus held on to its game and a half lead over the Braves for next place.
The St. Louis Cardinals, after three straight victories over Philadelphia bowed before Clarence Mitchell's southern spunk shots, 7-2.
Indians Stop Yanks
The Cleveland Indians stopped an 8-game losing streak and the Yanks at the same time. The American League leaders were set back 4-3.
Although held to five hits, the St. Louis Browns beat Boston, 4-2. Detroit was leading Washington, 2-0, when rain halted the game in the third inning. The Athletics and White Sox were rained out.

Two Film Extras Attempt Suicide

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 15 (AP)—Two Hollywood motion picture extra girls were treated in a hospital and one is in a critical condition there as a result of their suicide attempt.
Virginia Burke, 17, swallowed two kinds of poison after leaving a party held by other film extras at the home of Marjorie Stewart. She is in a critical condition.
Genevieve Taylor, 26, then attempted extra, was given treatment for deep slashes in her wrists. She said she did it "just for fun." Her condition was not serious and she was returned to the home of her sister.
Many a daughter has imitated her mother because they dress alike.

EX-CHAMP TAKES 'EM ON THE CHIN

Dempsey Undergoing Final Test of His Ability—Sharkey Takes Rest

SARATOGA LAKE, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—Jack Dempsey is undergoing the final test of his ability, whether he can take a bushy punch on the chin and still bore in, fighting with senses undiminished.
The former title holder is certain that his physical condition is sound that his punching power is as great as ever and his footwork fast enough to carry the high powered artillery into stone range for heavy work on Jack Sharkey's body, but he realizes that on the way in he will be hit hard and often and he is anxious to discover his reaction when fists are drumming on his own chin, fists popping before his eyes and the drone of a million bees in his head.

Jack has fought only 12 rounds in two fights in almost four years. When Louis Firpo smashed Dempsey from the ring in September, 1923, Jack came back in a fury to sink the Argentinian a half dozen times. Defending the world championship against Gene Tunney last fall, Jack was not knocked from his feet but stood his punishment.

Takes 'Em on Chin
Yesterday was the first Jack spent stepping punches with his chin when he could have avoided the punishment. In the first three minutes of boxing against Johnny Saxton, Jack stuck out his head and let it stay there while Johnny whaled him solidly. Then Dempsey drew back, whipped a half dozen short punches to the body, and had to "carry" the little welterweight the remainder of the round. Against Chief Metoquah, runcy Oklahoma Indian, Dempsey submitted to four right crosses which carried every ounce of Chief's 240 pounds behind them. Once more Jack pulled himself together and nearly crushed the Indian with body bending attacks. Italian Jack Herman and Marty Gallagher both took their shots at the former title holder and were repaid in heavy punishment.

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—The weather has called a halt to Jack Sharkey's training program for the fight with Jack Dempsey here next Thursday night. Sharkey, after a rather spotty showing yesterday, decided that humidity was harder to cope with than his staff of sparring partners, and he announced he would do no boxing today.
The Boston heavyweight, weighed in to 266 pounds when he began his New York training at Madison Square Garden, but the last two scorching days brought him down fast, and, in fear he would reach the peak several days before the fight, it was decided to give his human shock absorber a day off.
Sharkey exhibited flashes of speed yesterday that it was impossible to match the action. He boxed six rounds in all and shipped rope and punched the light bag to conclude the day. He looked good against Marco Polo, but Johnny Chan made him miss frequently and got a hand from the small crowd that leaved the weather for a neck at the training.

Sharkey Confident He Will Beat Dempsey; Also Gene, the Champion

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Staff Editor)
NEW YORK, July 15—Confidence—that's Jack Sharkey. No aspirant for heavyweight championship honors ever climbed into a ring with more assurance, expressed and otherwise, than the Boston Lithuanian. If he whips Jack Dempsey on July 21 at the Yankee Stadium, thereby gaining the right to fight Gene Tunney for the title, it will verify his fulfillment of Sharkey's own predictions.

"Dempsey," Sharkey has said, "is made to order for me. I will beat him sure, and Tunney? He will be easier than Dempsey."
Confidence, plus his unusual fighting equipment, has carried Sharkey rapidly up the fame ladder, less than a year. When other heavyweights very side-stepping the so-called "Jack message," Harry Wills, Sharkey went about beating promoters to match him with the boxer. He finally convinced Hammer Shoney to do it, but there were few if any experts who had any ideas Sharkey would meet the giant ex-convict at Kismet Field last October.
Plenty of Confidence
After crawling through the ropes that night, Sharkey stood out his chin in an aggressive manner, gave Wills what is generally known as the "eye," then walked over to the radio and declared:
"Hello, folks! I will see Wills sure—as shooting tonight!"
It is well-known ring history that Sharkey did "talk" Wills, confidently and thoroughly, although the decision went to him on a foul in the thirteenth round.
Sharkey was "smiled" by his decisive victory over Wills, who was then stimulated from the picture as a heavyweight contender a fortnight after the downfall of Dempsey before Tunney at Philadelphia.
Beats McTigue
Again last winter, when Mike McTigue was on the high end of a sensational come-back, heading over such men as Paul Hirschbach, Sharkey showed no fear of Mike's now-found punch.
"It's a shame to fight such an old man but I'm willing to do it if no one else will," Sharkey commented. Mike proved a tougher nut to crack than even Sharkey figured, however. The Bostonian won a technical knockout in the

ATER SCOTT'S HONORS
(CLEVELAND, O.)—When Everett Scott hung up a record of playing in 1,367 consecutive baseball games he was thought to have set a mark for all time. But now comes another shoe-step to increase Scott's laurels—Joe Sewell of the Cleveland Indians, who played in 1,418 consecutive games up to July 1. But for the fact that he was kept out for a day in 1921 to give a rookie a chance he would by now have played in more than 1,500 games without a miss.
Alabama Joe joined the Indians late in 1920 to fill the shortfield job left vacant by Chapman's tragic death. He made good from the start. At 27 he has a chance to break Scott's record, for he has "the finest pair of eyes in baseball" is a hard worker and always in condition. But to do it he must participate in every contest from now to the middle of the 1928 season. He is one of three Sewell brothers in the major leagues all from the University of Alabama.
