TO INSTALL NEW LANDING FIELD HERE

Emergency Tract for Air-Mail Planes to Be Along the State Highway

2 BEACON LIGHTS TO BE INSTALLED

One to Be Placed on High Point Above Hot Lake and the Other on Rooster Peak.

Establishment of a permanent landing field and installation of two large beacons, one above Hot Lake and one on Rooster peak, west of La Grande, for use of the Salt Lake City-Pasco air mail service, is announced by Capt. William E. Galtner, army aviation superintendent of the airways division of the United States department of commerce.

The emergency field will be surrounded by border lights placed at 200-foot intervals and all obstructions to an approach or take-off will be marked with red lights, Capt. Galtner declares.

Light Route This Fall. It is expected to have the equipment installed and the entire route from Boise north-lighted by fall. The present gas beacon through the Blue mountains have proven unsatisfactory and will be replaced by new equipment. The beacons to be installed at the lake and Rooster peak will be similar to the light at Coyote Point, east of Boise.

Under the provisions of the commerce act (May, 1926) which, among other things, created the aeronautics branch in the department of commerce for the regulation and extension of interstate air commerce, the airways division of the bureau of aeronautics is making a survey of the Salt Lake City-Pasco airway from Boise north, with the idea of establishing beacon lights and emergency landing fields, Capt. Galtner said.

The beacons will be placed every 10 miles and the fields every 25 miles as far as it is possible to do so and will be in with existing ground aids, such as highways, railroads, power, telephone and telegraph lines.

These facilities, which are very much needed for the development and extension of the airway and passenger services, are known as "navigation aids" and constitute the backbone which the federal government is giving to interstate aviation. The department of commerce is not concerned with terminal airports but is confining its work, under the provisions of the act, to the intermediate fields and navigation aids.

Beacons 50 Feet High. The field representatives of the airways division who are here making the survey have selected sites for beacons on the highest

MATCHING THE CITY'S GROWTH

Keeping pace with La Grande's business growth and development is not merely a question of keeping one's doors open and one's service or goods available. Rather, it is a question of maintaining contact with present customers and establishing contact with new ones.

The business man who does that consistently knows that you will not lose sight of him nor will you forget his ability to serve you well. And you rightfully look for and expect to see his business messages in The Observer where they can reach the most people at the smallest possible cost.

Sends $15 Here To Pay In Full For His Mistake

Some time ago a letter was received containing $5 with the statement that the sender had kept about $20 out of paper sales for the Observer several years ago over a period of more than a year's time. The letter stated that the $20 could be sent as soon as possible.

This morning another letter was received by The Observer, containing $15. It read as follows: "About a week or so ago I sent you a letter containing $5 and explaining how I desired to have a clear conscience before God, and what I might do to pay right as far as possible, and that I could send $15 more as soon as I could, making $20 in all, the amount I felt I owed you. I just received some money the other day that I wasn't expecting and am glad to be able to finish it up all in one lump so you will find $15 enclosed in this letter. Thank you."

Disorders Over Week End Spread; Many Arrested

Demonstrations in Behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti Extend to Three Continents.

TRIUMPH, Miss., Aug. 8 (AP)—Judge Webster Thayer, of the Massachusetts superior court, late today denied the motion of counsel for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti for a writ of habeas corpus and a stay of execution. He also denied a petition for a writ of error.

BOSTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Justice Sanderson, of the state supreme court, today denied petitions by counsel for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti for a writ of habeas corpus and a stay of execution. He also denied a petition for a writ of error.

MANY DEMONSTRATIONS. Demonstrations in behalf of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti heightened in intensity over the week end in the U. S., Europe and South America and even wider efforts were planned.

Radical leaders in New York promised to draw 100,000 workers from their employment centers in protest against the sending of two men to the electric chair at Charlestown, Mass., next Thursday morning, and in other parts of the world sympathizers of the two internationally known radicals continued plans for further demonstrations up to the final hour.

Some Arrests Made. Demonstrations were staged yesterday in Paris, London, Munich and in Boston and other cities of the United States. No serious disorders occurred although some arrests were made.

Increased police vigilance against disorder was established in the chief cities of the world. Public officials and public buildings in the U. S. were under special guard while in other countries extra precautions were thrown about United States representatives and American property.

Prohibit Parades. In New York Police Commissioner Murray Phillips yesterday said he would permit a mass meeting in Union Square, arranged for tomorrow by the socialist party, the I. W. W. and the Sacco-Vanzetti emergency committee. Meanwhile Commissioner Warren said the mobilization of 14,000 policemen on guard throughout the city and at a large number of public buildings and in subway and elevated line stations would continue "until further notice" and that the hunt for those responsible for the explosion in two subway stations Friday night would go on with unabated vigor.

From six to ten thousand people rallied excitedly about Boston Common yesterday when police revoked speaking permits on stands where Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers had been substituted for speakers to whom permits had been issued. One man was arrested for refusing to obey police orders to cease talking.

Sister Takes Part. Signorina Lucia Vanzetti, sister of one of the condemned men, was chief figure in a demonstration by 5000 people in Paris. Forbidden by authorities to stage any demonstration within the city, the crowd marched through Bois de Vincennes carrying red flags and banners. Signs on banners were of Sacco-Vanzetti and they were considered insulting to the United States.

Several thousand Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers marched to the American embassy in London to protest against the sentence. A world-wide telegram campaign was organized in front of the American consulate in Munich.

Scattered activities against the sentences of the two men were reported in the United States. Extra police guards remained on (Continued on Page Four)

FOREST FIRE CONDITIONS STILL GRAVE

Fighters, However, Gain Headway in Task of Controlling Blazes

20 FIRES BURNING IN SOUTH OREGON

Rushing Men into Area with Hopes of Stopping Flames—Incendiarism Suspected.

PORTLAND, Oreg., Aug. 8 (AP)—Low hanging fog and increased humidity along the Columbia river today added crews fighting fires on the Washington and Oregon sides of the stream.

Four advanced up the Columbia nearly to the Herman Creek fire on the Oregon side which started Saturday night from sparks that jumped the river.

Atmospheric condition helped 75 men control this fire. Fifteen more men were sent out today to help stamp out the blaze.

One new fire was reported today from the Columbia national forest in south central Washington. It was burning over an area half a mile long near Hungry Peak, in Lewis river territory. It was believed to have been started by lightning but held back several days by haze.

Some Reports Favorable. Reports from other Washington national forests received today by district headquarters here were favorable, indicating progress by fighters in controlling the flames.

Two Oregon fires were reported under control today. One burned about 100 acres in Slashing at Camp No. 5, C. H. Wheeler Logging company, Washington county. The other covered about 160 acres in the Koster Products company's working near Vernonia. Several smaller fires in the Vernonia district are well in hand.

DOUGLAS HAS BLAZES

ROSEBURG, Ore., Aug. 8 (AP)—A string of from 15 to 20 forest fires scattered out over a strip about two miles in length, was reported this morning by the Douglas county fire patrol and forest service. The fires are located on Shout's creek, a tributary of the Umpqua river and are in the same area where last year incendiarism caused one of the worst forest conflagrations in the history of the county, burning over nearly 500 acres of virgin timber. Both of the forest protection agencies are sending men into the area and despite the fact that low humidity today made fire fighting difficult and hazardous it was believed that the fires could be brought under control within a short time, as they were discovered early and men were available to form crews. The county and fire patrol association are offering rewards amounting to $500 for the apprehension of the parties guilty of starting the fires.

LIFE BELIEVED LOST

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 8 (AP)—The battle that is raging in the Rainier national forest to exterminate a fire that has been reported by lookouts and patrolmen.

Clyde Easton of Eatonville, the man for whose safety fear is expressed and Frank Greer, both of the Carbon river ranger station, started out yesterday after a telephone conversation to meet at a new fire that had been reported by lookouts and patrolmen.

Greer went to the point at which the fire was reported but could not find the fire. It is believed that the fire burned rapidly, causing a great deal of smoke, then burned itself out. Searchers could not find Eaton.

Returning in the ranger station, Greer spread the report that Eaton had not turned up and others fighting the many fires in the forest took up the search.

The missing man did not return yesterday and an organized search was being continued today. Eaton is an experienced ranger and an expert woodsman. Tracks of Eaton were found yesterday but these could not be followed.

The fire situation in the forest today was reported to be better. All of the fires with the exception of two were reported under control.
