New Cook—I can't get the dinner the way you told me to, ma'am.

Mistress—Why not?

New Cook—Didn't you tell me to have roast beef and gravy? Well, the butcher sent up the beef but he didn't send up a drop of gravy.

If a straw vote goes your way it is a pretty good indication of the drift of public sentiment. If it goes the other way it doesn't amount to much.

The Boss: "What do you mean by such language? Are you the manager here, or am I?"

Jones: "I know I'm not the manager."

The Boss: "Very well, then; if you are not the manager, why do you talk like a blamed idiot?"

* * *

"Didn't Gladys invite you to the wedding?"

"No, the mean thing. But she certainly won't be able to keep me from the divorce."

"What's the trouble, Mrs. Barr?" the grocer asked the young bride who had stormed into his store.

"I've been cheated," was the reply. "I ordered macaroni for dinner, and all the boy brought me was a lot of empty stems."

BITS OF NEWS

NEW YORK (AP) — A day's gleanings of "news" in subway town:

More and more metallic trimmings is the order for feminine fall fashion.

After close inspection, the police commissioner has selected 75 "Beau Brummel" cops for a special night club squad.

Station WGL will feature a description of an insane asylum broadcast from inside the institution.

A Montauk, L. I. theater is being used in rotation each Sunday as a chapel for Catholics, Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists.

"When is a fresh egg?" is gravely propounded at an official injury after experts insist that processed eggs from California are fresher than those shipped from the adjacent suburbs.

More than 50 reporters and news photographers were on duty at one radical "protest" meeting.

Owning an auto in China is distinctly a luxury. The license fee in one city costs $37.50 a month and when gasoline is cheap it is $1.50 a gallon. In addition, a jaunt off the main thoroughfare requires the services of at least four attendants.

WOMEN BUY MOST OF ENGLISH SNUFF

LONDON (AP)—Sixty-five per cent of the snuff sold in England is purchased by women.

Although the habit of snuff-taking has considerably declined, women snuff-takers are to be found in every grade of society. There are said to be thousands in the Lancashire cotton mills. Cotton workers find snuff is a valuable means of clearing the air passages of fluff.

Snuff is manufactured here by a complex process. Waste and scraps of tobacco are largely used and are moistened with a solution of common salt and left in heaps to ferment. The solution is flavored with liquorice, tonka beans and other ingredients. The processes of drying, grinding and a second fermentation follow.

Post-mortem examination of Ida, famed ostrich at the London Zoological Gardens, disclosed the following articles in her gizzard: Three gloves, a handkerchief, cord, an empty film spool, two large and several small nails, a pencil, four halfpennies, two farthings, a French coin, parts of a comb and a gold necklace, a collar button, bicycle tire valves, a clock key, a dozen short bits of wire, metal staples, screws, rivets, a glove fastener and a piece of wood four inches long.

AT THE THEATERS

"Horseback Hero" Hoot's New Role At Star

Hoot Gibson essays a new role in his latest Western comedy farce film, "A Hero on Horseback," a Universal-Jewel which will be the feature attraction at the Star theater Thursday and Friday. Although he still retains his familiar garb of the land of cactus, cattle and cowboys, Hoot discards his backing bronco for a swivel chair and a mahogany desk and becomes a banker.

Down on the "bust ranch" of the Universal lot in the midst of the heterogeneous collection of buildings set up to create the atmosphere of a street in a Western cattle country town, a spacious banking office was constructed, with a burglar-proof vault, and fitted with the customary banking fixtures. However, in keeping with the locale of the story, saddles and other cowboy paraphernalia are very much in evidence.

It will be quite a thrill to film fans who always associate their cowboy screen favorites with fast-riding, two-gun action to see Hoot ensconced behind the counter playing the role of a capitalist.

However, there is more than a western touch to the picture which embodies light comedy interspersed with thrills, suspense and human interest, with the inimitable Gibson riding the crest of every scene and situation with his winning personality.

Gladyne Clair was drafted from the cowboy film ranks to play the leading feminine role opposite Hoot, while the venerable, though exceeding spry Dan Mason, of Toonerville Trolley fame, assists the star in lending laughs to the picture. Edwards Davis and Edward Hearn are also in the cast.

A comedy will also be shown.

Denny And All-Star Cast In Fun Movie

"Fast and Furious," Universal's picturization of Reginald Denny's original story has been booked for its first local showing by the Arcade theater three days starting Thursday.

Embracing an all-star cast and directed by Mel Brown, one of Universal's younger directorial aces, the picture will add another host of admirers to the already large legion of Denny's film fans.

Claude Gillingwater, who has played character roles on the dramatic boards for years and who has worked in pictures for the last decade or more, is cast in one of the leading parts in this typical Denny starring vehicle.

Barbara Worth, whom motion picture critics have acclaimed as the screen find of the year and who has been forging ahead by leaps and bounds since her advent in Hollywood via the extra girl route, plays the leading feminine role opposite Denny, while other members of the cast are Armand Kalis, Jee Moran, Chas. K. French, Wilson Benge and Edgar Norton.

"Fast and Furious" is the story of a speedmaniac, who finally meets his Waterloo when he finds himself flat on his back amidst the wreckage of his space-annihilator, gazing up into the baby blue eyes of the only girl in the world, thereby not only losing the race but also his heart.

There isn't a dull moment in the picture, it starts with a whiz and ends with a bang.

On the same program will be shown a late Paramount News reel that contains among other mighty interesting events the plane-to-plane changing in mid-air by Miss Ingle when Al Johnson's monoplane caught fire. Johnson is a Paramount cameraman and the almost fatal fire aloft, the forced descent in a parachute, the hurtling nose-dive through the air the wreckage and a actual depiction of what a doomed flyer would see was all graphically caught by an automatic camera in Johnson's plane.

A comedy "Under Two Jags" will also be shown.

LONDON PHOTOGRAPHERS AGAINST "TOUCHING UP"

LONDON (AP)—No touching up of photographs hereafter! This was the decision of London photographers at their annual exhibition.

"Touching up a photograph spoils the character and gives an untrue representation," said one of the speakers. "We must do as little as possible. Character is the all-important requisite, and character and charm combined give the best results. People want photos which show them in a commonplace setting, just as their friends have seen them."

DISMISSED

CHICAGO (AP)—John A. Olshaw was dismissed by a magistrate when arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct based upon his turning a flashlight on the "spook" at a spirit seance.

Ancient Egypt's sacred lotus was in reality an ordinary water lilly.
