TRUSTING GOD: O Lord my God, in thee do I put my trust, save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me Psalm 71.

that it can be done, easily and quickly, just the same. The only requirement is a will to do, an appreciation for industries that make our county and our individual communities what they are. No taxpayer in the county would be so short-sighted, so selfish, or so indifferent as to criticize the county going ahead with work of this kind. Rather would the county court be deserving of high commendation for thus meeting an evident and important emergency, for going out of their way to do justice to an otherwise isolated county community.

Indifference, exaggerated caution, and inelasticity of local government in such cases is far more costly than we realize. As communities and as citizens we take all prizes for inconsistency. We worry, work and hope for just such hindrances as we have in our midst. To get them we offer anything and everything. When we have them or think we have, we forget about them, ignore them, and refuse to move one inch from our position of imaginary security to cooperate with them and make their operations in our midst both profitable and mutually pleasant.

Anybody can find a hundred excuses for not doing something that should be done, but excuses do not build communities or commonwealths. True community leadership and service are found in the citizen who is both willing and anxious to go out of his way to do the thing that is obviously fair, just, and reasonable. Failure to handle this case more equitably is insulting to the intelligence and vision of the people of this county. Either the people, their officials, or both are to blame. Fortunately there is still time to correct an unhappy impression, to meet a very evident public obligation.

GERMANS REACH COLOGNE SAFELY

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (AP)—Lieutenant Otto Koennecke and Count Solms-Laubach hopped off the airplane for Cologne, where they will refuel their Carper biplane for their attempted trans-Atlantic flight to the United States.

CALSHOT, Eng., Aug. 12 (AP)—With unfavorable weather conditions at various spots over the Atlantic, Captain Frank T. Courtney said he had no idea when he would get away for the trans-Atlantic hop in his biplane "White".

COLOGNE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Lieutenant Otto Koennecke and Count Solms-Laubach arrived here at 11:50 o'clock tonight in their Carper biplane from Berlin, prior to their departure on a trans-Atlantic voyage to the United States.

BESHAU, Ger., Aug. 12 (AP)—Only a sudden change in the existing unstable weather conditions along the North Atlantic and Newfoundland will induce the Junkers firm to allow the pilots of the "Europa" and "Bremen" to hop off before Monday, it was announced today.

Both planes were taken from their hangars today, given final inspection and fueled.

PARIS, Aug. 12 (AP)—French authorities affecting the biplane monoplane Columbia dropped today, and it appeared this afternoon that there was slight chance of her being ready to fly tomorrow even if the weather over the Atlantic clears.

Maurice Drouhin, French pilot engaged for the flight by Charles A. Levine, was inspecting the plane when he found a blade of the propeller twisted. The blade was such as might be made with a pair of pliers.

Straightening of the blade will be a delicate operation, as the surface must be absolutely true.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 12 (AP)—The decision to hop off Monday at 8 a. m. on the first stage of his trans-Atlantic flight, "recalling" "Bremen," was announced late today by Captain Frank T. Courtney after receiving weather reports from Washington and London.

Californian Hurt Near Pendleton

PENDLETON, Aug. 12 (AP)—John Dodson, aged about 31, of Santa Margita, Cal., is in a local hospital suffering painful injuries sustained yesterday when his automobile went off a 20-foot embankment on the highway 15 miles west of Pendleton. He suffered a broken shoulder, severe cuts and bruises about the neck and body. He was unable to tell how the accident happened when brought here. The car turned two complete somersaults and landed upright against a fence.

MEMBERS STILL OUT

ELGENTE, Ore., Aug. 12 (AP)—There is still no change in the strike of union members here asking an increase from $5 to $5 a day. William Cooper, president of the Oregon state federation of labor, will meet with the central labor council here in the near future, it is reported today. The General Contractors' association of Elgente is opposed to any increase in wages for the building trades. This report follows a reported agreement where by carpenters were to be increased to $5 a day. It is said a few contractors entered into this agreement but association.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12 (AP)—Harry James was stopped last night when two vice squad officers noted that he failed to give a traffic signal. The officers reported they found in his car a quantity of liquor. They took him home where they said they found more liquor in his garage and in his apartment. Today he faced a charge of possession of liquor.

KING BEN TELLS OF HIS TROUBLE

Admits That All Was Not Peaceful Between Him and Mary, His Wife

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Aug. 12 (AP)—Benjamin Purnell, leader of the House of David colony, admitted on the witness stand in the state's dissolution suit today that there was "trouble" between him and Mary, his wife. He contradicted Mary's testimony that his writings in which he referred to her as a "deceitful reproach" were the gossip of Ada Ross and Edith Moberg.

In reply to questions by George Nichols, state's attorney, he admitted he wrote the accusations against Mary and that they were his own.

Among the appellations contained in the document by which Assistant Attorney George Nichols had read were "Oh Mary I wish of us infernal wickedness, I cannot write of all she did."

The state drew from the witness substantiation of its charges that there is an open break between Benjamin and Mary.

Two days ago Mary testified that the accusations found against her in documents in Benjamin's writings were simply notes he jotted down for her benefit. She contended Ada Ross and Edith Moberg, two women leaders, carried the tales to Purnell in an effort to cause trouble. Benjamin wrote them down, she testified, so he could give her a full report of what they said.

ROBBIE ACCOMMODATING
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12 (AP)—That holdup men can be accommodating at times was indicated by a police report today. E. J. Anderson said that two men who forced him to get into a sedan last night took him for a ride, relieved him of $2 and then asked him where he lived. When he gave the address they drove him to his front door and bade him good night.

ON SPECIAL DUTY
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12 (AP)—Harry Griffith, veteran traffic officer, has been detailed by Captain Frank Eryk to apprehend Portland motorists misusing the Washington or California license plates. His task has been simplified by communications and telephone calls from neighbors of license law violators.

McADOO TALKS OF "PRIVATE RIGHTS" against the community of which they are a part.

"The strongest, because it is the soundest argument against government regulation is not the doctrine of natural rights," he said, "but the argument that the government is unfit to discharge the duties which it is proposed to confide in it and that private rights are not safe in its hands."

80,000 RED MEN REVOLT IN BOLIVIA

were reduced to the status of perhaps the humblest people on earth, and today their descendants live in a wretched state.
The sudden return of the fighting spirit of the Indians is believed to be due to dissatisfaction over the division of land, coupled with instigation by agitators.

Garment in Red Blankets

The Indians have taken to the war path garbed in quaint red blankets, peculiar cloths, ear-earrings and funny little hats cocked atop the forepart of their heads. The women, with babies carried on their backs by means of blankets slung about the neck, follow the warriors on their trail of pillage.

WHAT IS PSYCHOANALYSIS?
By A. A. Brill, M. D.,
New York City

Member Gorgas Memorial Inst. Psychoanalysis had its origin in the effort to alleviate the suffering of a large class of patients variously designated as neurasthenics, psychasthenics, and hysterics who on examination showed no physical ailment, but who nevertheless had aches, physical and mental, peculiar feelings and ideas, and were in some cases almost totally disabled.

It has been estimated that fully 75 per cent of the patients who frequent clinics, dispensaries, and private physicians, belong to this class. Up to within recent years they were treated by means of physical remedies, such as medicine, rest cures, baths, electricity, and change of environment. Many physicians still adhere to this form of treatment.

In 1885 Sigmund Freud, an instructor in neurology in the University of Vienna, was attracted by the work of a Parisian, Prof. Charcot, who was using hypnosis in the treatment of this class of patients.

About the same time Dr. Breuer, an active general practitioner in Vienna, also used hypnosis in his treatment and, in addition, discovered the "talking cure," so called by the patient who unconsciously led him to it. For, after having been treated for a long time by many physicians without success, she suggested to Dr. Breuer that she might help him in the treatment if she could tell him under what conditions her hysterical symptoms originated.

The more she talked, the better she seemed to feel, symptoms after symptoms vanishing as she lived through in her narrative the disagreeable and painful experiences of her past. On his return from Charcot's clinic Breuer related to Freud this remarkable case, and the latter at once sensed the enormous importance of it.

After testing this method in many cases, they published their discoveries in 1895, thus laying the foundation of the new mental science. Their startling conclusions were: that hysterical symptoms were the result of painful and unoblivable experiences to which the patient could not react at the time of their occurrence; and that the symptoms vanished when the physician succeeded in reawakening the memories and the feelings that went with them, provided the patient discussed all the details, and gave free play to his emotions.

Friends, this is a picture of my own mother, taken just a few months before she passed away. I always shall be proud of my mother. She was the mother of 16 children, 8 boys and 8 girls. Your humble servant was the 15th, the 16th child was a girl and died in infancy. I always have craved the companionship of a mother. That is why I like to attend the old pioneer picnics and gatherings.
