SEASONAL TRAGEDY

There was a young lady named Lida
Who died as a bride to a suitor.
She asserted her rights—
Now theirs. June-nuptial contract is tied.

Science has invented an earthquake annunciator that goes off like an alarm clock. Now, if science will only invent an alarm clock that goes off like an earthquake.

One of the best things you have up your sleeve is your funny bone.

At the movies: Excuse me, audience, but do you mind coughing more quietly so that I may be better able to hear your friend read out the subtitles?

Ministers are not good at golf. Somehow they never can manage the proper golf language in addressing the ball.

Why does cream cool so much more than milk?
"I suppose it's harder for the cow to sit on the little bottles."

Charles: "I think it's just terrible sending all these nice Marines to China. What will they do when they get there?"
Gladys: "Good heavens, dear, didn't you never hear of a Marine?"

One reason why girls kiss and make up is because the darn stuff rubs off.

Stranger—Have you a good hair tonic you can recommend?
Broggitt—Here is something spoken of quite favorably by those who have drunk it.

We don't care if you have heard it before. It's a good story and we're going to repeat it. So here goes:
"When did the robbery occur?" the cross-examining lawyer asked the witness.
"I think—" he began.
"We don't care what you think—we want to know what you know," remarked the lawyer.

"Well, I may as well get off the stand, then," said the witness. "I can't talk without thinking. I'm not a lawyer."

Lady (to tramp): It must be very demoralizing going about the country begging. Don't you ever wish for something better?
Tramp: Yes, mum, I'd like to do it in a motor.

The latest Broadway farm ballad is called "Oh! Sorry About the Wand, Mother; Father Will Bring Home a Load."

The odds are all in favor of the reader. We have to write these things. You don't have to read them unless you want to.

"Tender Hour" Coming To Star Sunday

The tragedy hidden behind the many "business" marriages of the rich is dramatically depicted in "The Tender Hour," the George Fitzmaurice production which comes as the feature attraction at the Star Theater Sunday and Monday.

That the situation as it is shown in the plot of the picture is a real one is proven by at least half a dozen such marriages which have ended disastrously and with much sensational publicity in the past year.

Particularly does this apply to the marriages of American girls to European dukes. It is this particular phase of "bargain marriage" on which the story of "The Tender Hour" is based.

In the picture an American financier who regards a daughter merely as a possession is sold to the highest bidder for her into marriage with an expatriated nobleman in order to further business interests.

Little Dove and Ben Lyon play featured roles in the picture, with Alice B. Francis, Montagu Love and others in prominent parts. The picture is based on an original screen story by Carey Wilson, and was produced by John McCormick, general manager of West Coast production for First National.

The latest Paramount News reel and a comedy make up the balance of the program.

All-Star Cast In Feature Film Today Only

An exceptional cast is appearing in "The Last Alarm," a Bayard Superior melodrama which will go down in cinema history as a veritable tribute to American firemen. Showing today only at the Colonial theater.

Notable in the cast are Maurice Costello, Wanda Hawley, Hazel Howell, Theodore Von Eltz, Rex Lewis, Jimmy Aubrey, Florence Turner and Ervin Brentner. Costello, the veteran, is so well and favorably known as to require no introduction. And of course, Wanda Hawley, Hazel Howell—in fact, all of the others, have established themselves on the screen.

The biggest obstacle to hurdle in bringing a musical comedy to the screen is that of retaining the humor. Spilled upon the stage with plenty of "humor" and wit-cranks, these are difficult to translate into terms of celluloid.

What Europe needs is more brain and less arms.

Fascinating Film Of College Life At Colonial

College life and all it implies, interestingly told, with a tremendous amount of suspense, is embodied in "College Days," which is showing for the first time Sunday at the Colonial theater. Here is a picture that is worthwhile and from the amount of excitement manifested by the audience yesterday during the gripping football game, there is no doubt in our reviewer's mind that the contents of "College Days" will be the best entertainment of its kind ever here in our town.

A word or two must be said first in the story, which is from the pen of A. P. Younger, who adapted the famous story, "Brown of Harvard," for the screen, and who is turning out "College Days" as a better than his last college story. "The Great Game" has been authored on the screen since a story of beautiful young girls, led by the winsome and pretty Marjorie Day, and the ensemble of college youths, who from appearance and action must have been genuine college students.

The story is told of a boy, who comes to one of the big universities and soon makes himself known to all the pretty ones, in that he is the one. Many little things come to mar their love-making which is finally unraveled by his brilliant playboy on the large university football team, in which he helps win the game for his Alma Mater and at the same time the girl.

The picture includes such well-known players as Marjorie Day, Charles Delaney, James Harrison, Diane Thompson, Brooks Benedict, Kathleen Key, Edna Murphy, Gibson Gowland, Lawford Davidson, Pat Harriman.

"College Days" will be at the Colonial theater until Monday.

Arcade To Show "Gingham Girl" On Sunday

The biggest obstacle to hurdle in bringing a musical comedy to the screen is that of retaining the humor. Spilled upon the stage with plenty of "humor" and wit-cranks, these are difficult to translate into terms of celluloid.

In the name of "The Gingham Girl," the feature attraction at the Arcade theater Sunday only, the boys behind it have done a good job. The piece is faithfully followed in its theme and love interest are concerned—and its pace don't lag behind the high jinks which featured the spoken version.

George K. Arthur in the whitened boy here and the demonstration he has a real flair for comedy in his role of a hunk town hero who goes in for success by reading about it—and who, incidentally, sports the type of clothes associated with race tracks. He comes in New York along with the girl, the latter to make and sell cookies, the former to show the town how to be successful in funny situations—especially in the Greenwich Village scene. The romance is neatly developed and the piece sparkles all the way.

If there is a dull moment it is hurried with ease. As a result the piece has the high mark of spontaneity. The players carry on their assignments with enthusiasm—George Arthur showing real characterization without stepping out of bounds. And Lois Wilson makes a charming girl friend.

Bobby Vernon in "Short Socks," a Paramount Comedy comedy and one of the Out of the Inland cartoons, "Koko Plays Post" make up the balance of the program.
