WIFE HYSTERICAL AT DEATH NEWS

Medical Attention Necessary for Mrs. Sacco Following Execution

BOSTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Elsie Sacco, who had attended her husband constantly during the seven years he was charged with murder and who made an eleventh hour appeal in person to Governor Alvan T. Fuller yesterday, was closely attended in the Beacon Hill apartment where she took refuge last night with Miss Luigia Vanzetti, sister of Bartolomeo Vanzetti, abductor of Bartolomeo.

The house was barred to reporters but it was gathered that medical attention was necessary to quiet the two women after they were notified by telephone of the execution this morning.

The residential district of the Beacon Hill had long since been quiet and sleep when suddenly residents were alarmed by piercing shrieks which echoed up the narrow street. The telephone message had been received. The cries were renewed a little later when members of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee arrived to tell of the execution. Residents of the street spent a sleepless night from then on.

DIES FOR DOUBLE MURDER

BOSTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—The crime for which Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were sentenced to die was a double murder.

On the morning of April 15, 1920, Frederick A. Parmenter, paymaster, and Alexander Berardelli, his guard, arrived at the factory of Slater and Morrill company, South Braintree, near Boston, to pay off employees. They carried in cash $15,774. As they were about to enter the factory door, two men approached and fired at them. Both fell mortally wounded.

The two robbers grabbed the money. An automobile, which had been waiting nearby, sped up to the curb. The robbers were thrown in and the two robbers clambered into the car, which was driven off at high speed.

Similar Crimes

The robbery and murders at South Braintree had been preceded by similar crimes. Police and detectives had definite suspicions, and they set a trap to catch the owner of an automobile which was in a garage at Braintree. On the night of May 5, 1920, Sacco and Vanzetti, with others, appeared at the garage and asked to take the car out. The garage keeper's wife slipped into her house and telephoned the police. Sacco and Vanzetti left the garage, without taking the car, and it was testified later that they followed the garage keeper's wife to her home when she made the call and that they acted in a queer manner. Police arrested them on a direction street car. Both had revolvers in their pockets.

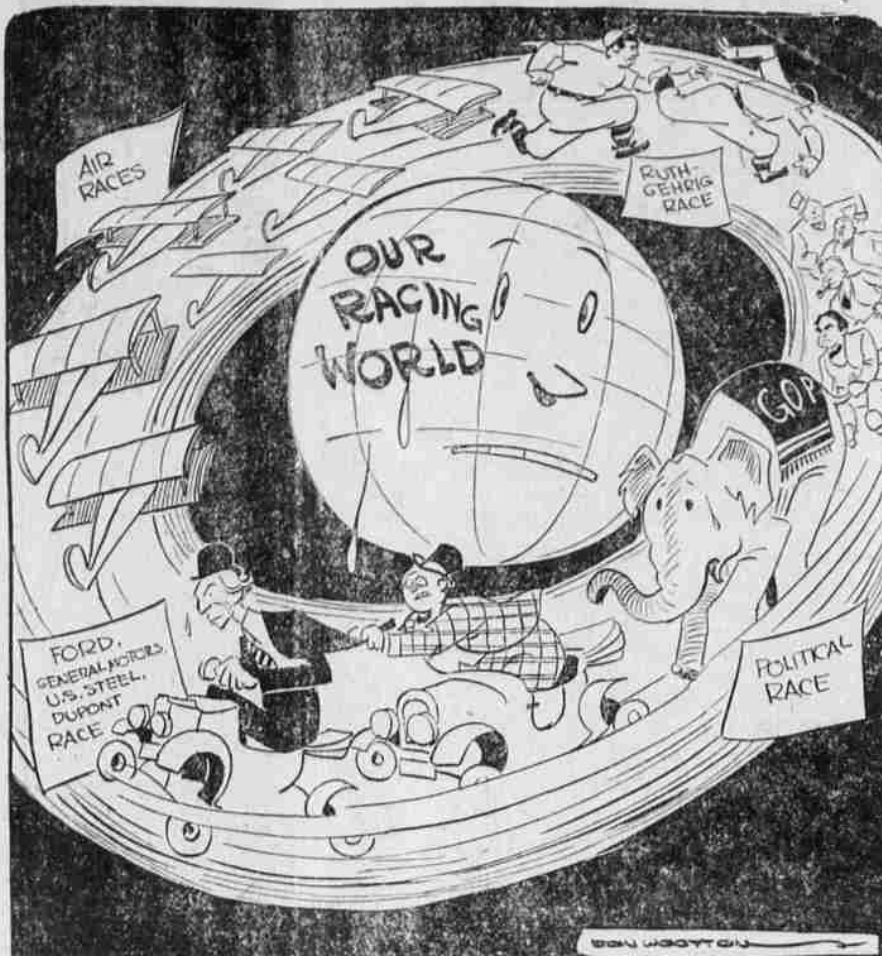

Sacco was a shoemaker and was employed in Houghton, where he lived. Vanzetti lived in Plymouth, where he sold fish. Both were "radicals" and were active in spreading radical propaganda. It was their contention that they had gone to the garage with a friend to get his automobile to collect radical literature in the possession of other friends, so that in some department of justice operation would be disrupted. They claimed such literature would be found. The automobile they sought to use in this work, it developed, was not the car used in the hold-up and murder.

NEWS OF THE EXECUTION OF SACCO AND VANZETTI RECEIVED QUIETLY IN U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Announcement of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti was received quietly by crowds that gathered in public squares and before newspaper bulletin boards in many cities after a day of unceasing police diligence and general uneasiness.

At midnight in Union Square, New York, where police estimated 12,000 persons had gathered, placards reading "Sacco murdered," "Vanzetti murdered" were posted by a socialist newspaper when

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Announcement of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti was received quietly by crowds that gathered in public squares and before newspaper bulletin boards in many cities after a day of unceasing police diligence and general uneasiness.

127 ARRESTED IN FRISCO

One hundred and twenty-seven strikers were arrested in San Francisco as they passed the hall of justice. These arrests climaxed a day of unrest, in which three demonstrations were blocked. Police rushed the first, a mass meeting, and prevented speakers from addressing the gathering.

Chicago police were on watch armed with machine guns, shot guns and tear bombs. Aurora D'Angelo, 18-year-old leader of 150 radical demonstrators, was again held by police after having been released on bond. The chief of detectives reported that he had information that she planned a violent demonstration.

Four men were arrested in Jersey City. One of them, police said,

Don't make fun of Aimee McPherson's automobile "lifeboats." She knows what she's doing. Think how much better for everybody it would have been if there had been such a boat cruising around when Aimee was kidnapped on the beach.

Chicago, always known as a noisy city, has its prominence proved. Scientific tests conducted by acoustic engineers with the best modern instrumental equipment show that Chicago is the noisiest city in the world. And it would be just like Chicago to start bragging about that. Chicago, however, will be rendered thoughtful by the statement of those engineers that the noise is costing the city more than $5,000,000 a year—which is all it costs London, a much larger city. Noise is inefficient, because it increases fatigue, decreases speed and causes errors. Chicago, which is for efficiency above everything else, will probably take up noiselessness in a serious way one of these days, and set out to become the quietest city on earth.

A RELIEF PLAN BY JARDINE

A farm program, which is to be expressed in a legislative measure to be introduced in the next congress, was on August 19 advanced by the secretary of agriculture, W. M. Jardine. Mr. Jardine explained that his program is for a sound business enterprise, and that he would not advocate a price fixing measure or a subsidy to agriculture. The plan he proposed provides for the creation of a revolving fund to be advanced by the government which would be used to hold the surplus of agricultural crops off the market in order to check undue price depressions in times of plethora. This fund would be handled by what he designated as stabilization corporations.—United States Daily.

Mr. Jardine's proposal, without doubt, is the result of much study and a thorough investigation of the present farm problem. He would seek to do for agricultural prices what the federal reserve has done for credit in the country, and his stabilization corporations would meet the approval of many experts who have sought to improve crop prices by legislation.

A revolving fund of some three hundred million dollars, advanced by the government as a loan, not as a subsidy, would be available to the corporations. He believes that a surplus would accumulate under most conditions but admits that losses might wipe out a surplus in an extreme year. Losses would be made up in subsequent good years and this fact would tend toward conservative business management of crop purchases, in his opinion.

Some such relief plan is possible, and though the demand for legislation will be less insistent this year in sections where good crops and good prices have prevailed, it deserves immediate attention. Industry has been stabilized. The same can be accomplished for agriculture.

They increased the carryover into next season $1,028,422,891, may be no greater than the carryover from last year. The reasons for expectation for increase in carryover are that there seems to be a tendency to increase wheat consumption in Europe and although the world crop likely to be larger, the European crop seems likely to be somewhat larger than last year, and the increase in home production will probably encourage their consumption to Europe.

Increase Likely

Mr. Peterson is optimistic for the season 1927-28 is more likely to come from larger crops than from an increase in stocks. Although there has not been any material increase in world production in the three years, the harvested area has expanded about five percent and the results of this expansion eventually will appear in larger crops. Notwithstanding the fact that conditions have somewhat unfavorable the growing winter wheat in the United States had fall and that conditions were very unfavorable for seeding spring wheat in Canada, the crop reported to date for the 1927 harvest in the northern hemisphere is about 15 percent greater than last year.

Lyle Leaves For Prohi Conference

SEATTLE, Aug. 22 (AP)—Bob Lyle, federal prohibition administrator for Washington, Oregon and Alaska, left for Washington, D. C., today to confer with James H. Dorn, prohibition commissioner and secretary of the treasury, assistant secretary of the treasury.

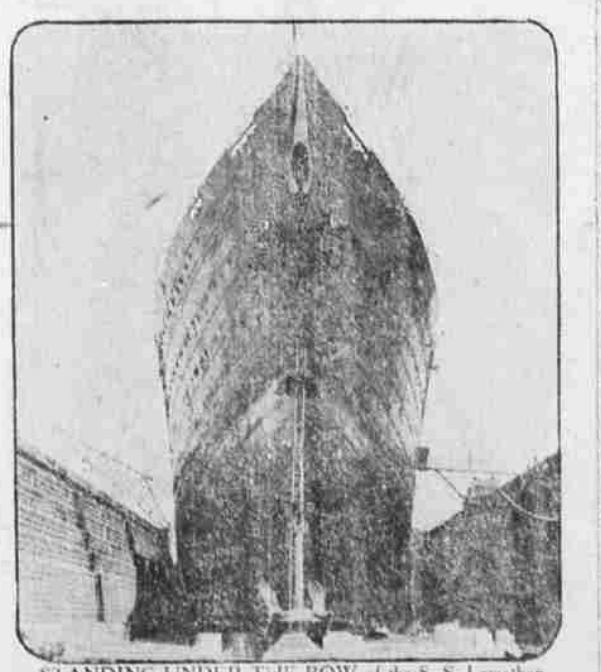

Announcements from Washington today indicated Lyle would be questioned concerning charges of failure of dry agents and laxity of prohibition enforcement in the district.

Lyle is expected to comment on his forthcoming conference in Washington.

Bombing Threats Followed Up By Portland Police

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 22 (AP)—The police gun squad made a hurried trip to a downtown corner late last night when a report was telephoned to the station that eight or ten men were setting that building would be blown up as a result of the Sacco and Vanzetti executions. When the police arrived at the scene the group had disappeared.

A meagerly indirectly connected with the Sacco-Vanzetti case occurred yesterday near Arlington, where Milton Baker, who was acting as a guard at the John Day railroad bridge was killed when hit by a train.

The Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation company placed guards at bridges in Eastern Oregon to prevent an act of violence.

To Exhibit Bodies Of Sacco, Vanzetti

BOSTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The bodies of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti are to be taken to specially constructed caskets through the cities of the east.

This was announced by the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee today.

Making up a shopping list

The hall needs a new rug. More towels are needed for the bathroom, and the kitchen floor could certainly stand a coat of paint. The children need shoes. The car will soon need tires. Well, we buy a hundred new things every year.

Scattered throughout the United States are manufacturers who make the very things we need. Their products are on sale in certain stores within easy reach. Certain of these products, and certain of these stores, are especially fitted to take care of our special need. But which products and which stores? Which can we afford, and which do we think is best? We must look to advertising for advice.

Advertising is the straight line between supply and demand. It saves time spent in haphazard shopping. It leads you directly to your goal. By reading the advertisements, we can determine in advance where the best values are to be found. With the aid of advertising, shopping becomes a simple and pleasant business, and the budget figures bring more smiles than frowns.

From the pages of this paper you can make up a shopping list that will save you money
