Yet just a little while ago insects were classified as prayer bones instead of scenery.

She—How long can a man live on his nerves?
He—How old is your father?

A girl who can cook a plain meal, make most of the garments she wears, speak ninety of every hundred common words, quote some standard poetry correctly, keep her face attractive and give a general outline of the four Gospels is sure to be popular in the city or country.

A clerk who has been on a buying trip in New York wrote to the store bookkeeper back home: "Since I have been away I have seen many strange sights and hope to see you on Monday."

Hein in Michigan paper—"Mr. and Mrs. Paul Loring are the proud parents of a baby boy born to them yesterday morning. You may be next. Why don't you buy some fire insurance?"

MYSTERY

I've tried, but never could quite figure out what weeping willows had to cry about.

He: "My ideal of a wife is one who can make good bread."
She: "My ideal of a husband is one who can raise the dough in the hour of bread."

"How many times do you imagine Joe kissed you?"
"So far I haven't had to imagine Joe's kissed me at all."

MYSTERIOUS

"What makes you always so popular?"
"He asked the speedy young spark, and she held with a grin, 'As she powdered her chin, 'I keep all the boys in the dark.'"

Teacher—Who can give me a sentence using the word "avaunt"?
Little boy—Avaunt what avaint when avaint it?

Uncle—My husband swore last night that he'd have his own way or bust.
Dora—What happened?
Uncle—I busted him one.

A woman can generally tell how many babies and outtings she has been on in a season by recalling the number of vanity cases she has lost.

Mother—Were you good at the party?
Six-year-old—Yes.
Mother—You didn't ask twice for anything at the table?
Six-year-old—No, I didn't. I asked once, and they didn't hear me, so I helped myself.

About the only feminine mystery left is why she doesn't spend the afternoon at home occasionally.

AT THE THEATERS

Sally Comes Into Her Own At Star

Sally O'Neil, pianist in talent, and charming as a May breeze, has found her forte. "Princess Sally Levy" proved it.

The new picture, which is playing at the Star theater today and Wednesday proves a veritable triumph for the tiny heroine of "Alice," "Sally," "Sally" and other cream hits. It is her first role since "Alice," the picture that made her famous. But—It is a much better Sally O'Neil picture than her experience in the past months since her "discovery" has done wonders for her.

It is a Jewish-Italian comedy with a few heart throbs interlarded with the laughs, and Miss O'Neil is at once captivating, wonderful, and incidentally—often extremely funny. She plays the daughter of a Jewish father and Irish mother, in a comical series of adventures in which two lovers, a family quarrel, and a dash of adventure enter. The story is a frothy affair that every now and then dips deep to life and lips at the heartstrings.

William Desmond, director of "Little Annie Rooney" and other noted plays, handled the music, and the picture with rare skill, and the cast was one of the best balanced organizations the screen has ever seen.

"Our Gang" continues on its merry way with "Ten Years Old," the latest Hal Roach comedy starring the famous rowdy, which is also a feature of the outstanding program. Fatty Joe Cobb is ten years old and his childish pranks provides the laughs in what is said to be one of the funniest comedies that "Our Gang" have ever made. Anthony Mack directed.

"The Enchanted Island" Featured At Colonial

A picture of intense dramatic action in a setting of exquisite beauty is "The Enchanted Island," which is showing here for the first time today at the Colonial theater. It is an unusual picture from every angle, for it has a theme that is entirely different from pictures of that sort as to hold the interest continuously from the very first reel until the last fade-out.

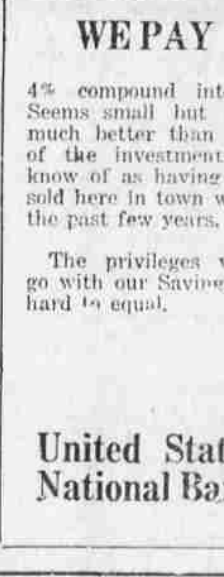

One of the outstanding moments among many is the realistic suspense of a woman who generally tell how many babies and outtings she has been on in a season by recalling the number of vanity cases she has lost.

Mother—Were you good at the party?
Six-year-old—Yes.
Mother—You didn't ask twice for anything at the table?
