Looks 'Cross The Channel

CHICAGO (AP)—In assembling a faculty for its football coaches' school, Northwestern University found three famous gridiron leaders—all veterans in eastern football—living in Chicago.

Walter Miller, former All-American, who coached the Carnegie Tech seven, Arnold Harwood, Harvard's head coach, also is a native born Chicagoan. Jim Hickey, Dartmouth's football coach, is the third to spend the fall season in Chicago.

It's always a relief when a boy gets big enough on his father and over his discarded mother.

See the western leaders. Denver is scheduled against Iowa, Minnesota will play Purdue and Utah faces Northwestern.

On the opening day of the season, Indiana journeys to Kentucky, and Oklahoma University comes to face the Hoopsters at the University of Chicago. The Oklahoma Aggies, champions of the Missouri Valley conference, will play the University of Minnesota.

Other inter-conference clashes between the Big Ten and Missouri Valley include Missouri at Northwestern, Wisconsin at Kansas and Drake at Minnesota.
