DIGGER RESCUED AFTER 30 HOURS

Fred Lenau Taken from Depths of Well—Medics Amazed at His Vitality

AUBURN, Mass., Aug. 27. (AP)—Released after 30 hours of confinement due to a cave in of a 20-foot well he was digging, Fred Lenau today was winning back his rugged strength with every prospect of recovery unless pneumonia unexpectedly should develop.

Physicians were amazed at the vitality of the 27-year-old iron moulder as they worked over his mangled limbs in which circulation had been stopped by the cramped position at the bottom of the well. Cautiously they gave him liquid nourishment, the first which he had passed his lips in a day and a half.

"Thank God, thank God, they saved me," were his first words early this morning when, handed from worker to worker, he was lifted over the edge of the excavation. His voice faltered him and he grasped the hand of the nearest physician.

Carried to the waiting ambulance he exclaimed "where is my other foot?" It was still imbedded in the muck of the well where for hours it had seemed Lenau must remain until death relieved him.

He responded rapidly to treatment and in an hour his wife left him to sleep while she hastened home to register with their two children.

Hurriedly organized when the sides of the nearly completed well caved in on Lenau at 5:30 p. m. Thursday, volunteers worked untiringly to effect his release. He was conscious at all times and could make himself heard, although he was out of sight part of the time.

Shile Shows Up Work—
He was almost exhausted when another earth slide undid the work of hours. Placed in the mud up to his knees with a board from the slide shoving against his chest, Lenau was unable to move. Because of fear that another slide might suffocate him, he was given air through tubes and a mask.

Sliding another shaft beside the well, which was six feet in diameter, the rescuers drove it below the level at which the man was held. When they broke through and saved away the plank which imprisoned the upper part of his body, his feet dived into dirt which took hours of careful work to clear.

FOREST FIRE BURNS ABOUT FARM HOMES
west wind made fire fighting difficult.

NEWBORN CHILD, WHO IS (AP)—
The Angelo national forest fire and timber fire reported under control today after more than 10,000 acres had been burned over and damage to timber and resort buildings estimated at a half million dollars done. Other fires in the reserve drew the attention of some of the 100 men who have been fighting the big blaze.

INCENDIARY FIRES
YREKA, Cal., Aug. 27. (AP)—Nine incendiary fires in the Barkhouse district near here, believed to have been set Tuesday, have been brought under control. Officials said each had been started with a lighted candle, so it would burn down and ignite the grass. One surprise is that the fires were set by persons hoping to get work fighting them.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 27. (AP)—Rain over parts of the area where forest fires have been burning helped materially today in efforts to slake out the flames. A batch of rain practically extinguished the Green river fire, in the Columbia forest, and the storm King fire, in the Olympic forest, was controlled on all sides except one where a vigorous fight was made today.

TRAFFIC HELD UP
EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 27. (AP)—Three freight cars of the Southern Pacific railway company were thrown from the tracks of the main line here this morning when a brake beam broke. The mishap occurred at 2:50 o'clock and railroad traffic was held up for nearly four hours.

Three passenger trains, number 12, southbound, No. 15, northbound and No. 21, southbound over the Cascade line, did not leave here on 11:45 a. m. schedule.

LET'S GIVE THE LAD A REST

TO BUILD BRIDGE

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 27. (AP)—Application of the Great Northern railroad company for a permit to build a bridge across Harvath lake in Klaskanin county was granted by the state land board yesterday. A condition is that the 25 foot draw in the bridge is to be kept open at all times when the span is not being used by trains, or that a tender shall be present to open the draw whenever necessary.

The bridge is to be about 300 feet long and will connect properties of the company on the two sides of the lake.

NO NEW WORD FROM FLYERS IS RECEIVED

BRAZIL WAITING ANXIOUSLY

120 JANHRO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Brazil waited anxiously at the gates today in the expectation of seeing Paul Roderfer's plane. Although last night passed without information of his whereabouts being received, no great fear for the safety of the American aviator was expressed. It was pointed out that all of this forenoon may pass without information of the flyer because it was considered improbable that he would be seen before crossing the Amazon river. Prior to crossing the river he would be flying above jungles and afterwards over frontier regions of the east central states, great parts of which
