AT THE THEATERS

Stirring Story On Screen At The Star

"Not For Publication" EPO's stirring story of modern pioneering in the west, showing today for the last time at the Star theater, brings forth fine as its star to the screen in an absorbing romance in which politics and the power of the press play important parts.

It is seen as a contractor and political boss who wins the contract for the construction of a great dam project. His methods, challenging a militant assessor, become the subject of an investigation by the latter. A murder mystery clouds the horizon, and with the growing importance of the romantic love angle of the story, adds complications. The story mounts to a tremendously dramatic climax in its closing sequence.

Ray Leane and Jola Mendez are seen in splendid parts as the juvenile and feminine leads respectively. They directed as well as portrayed the starring role. The story is based on "The Temple of the Clouds" by Robert Wylie Roberts and was adapted by Eward Adams.

The Will Rogers in Holland film is also being shown as well as a thirty feature Paramount comedy "How Sailer How."

GERMAN HEAVYWEIGHT LAYS ASIDE GLOVES

BERLIN (AP)—Hans Dietrich, boxer, until recently German heavyweight champion, will soon exchange his boxing gloves and toes for a smart cut-away and spats. Then, in German fashion, he will bow and say "Adieu" to the patrons of his father-in-law's restaurant on historic Wilhelmstrasse.

"Good Hans" as he is familiarly known, was the idol of German tipplers. The race for his heart was won by the pretty daughter of Paul Lauer, proprietor of "Lauer's," a few steps from Unter den Linden. The restaurant has achieved historic fame through the fact that, during the revolution of 1918, President Ebert and members of the German cabinet singled out "Lauer's" as the only public restaurant to which they deemed it prudent to go during those troubled times.

Dietrich's plans to relieve his father-in-law of a large part of his work.

Her Husband Liked Them Blonde

Paris is the home of Paul Stein's second production for Warner Brothers, "Don't Tell the Wife" starring Irene Rich. All the nerve and volatility of the Winnetou film has been ingeniously recaptured by the famous director who knows Paris as G. Henry knew New York.

Fun, fantasy and romance blend in the maze of this frothy marital romp in which Irene Rich is starred as Madame Carter, a happy young matron, who suddenly becomes aware that her husband, Hunter Gordon, for seven years, faithful in the wedding vows, has become infatuated with a bewitching blonde, Suzanne, played by Lilian Tushman.

To retaliation the lovely Madame begins a half-hearted affair, directed by Madame Carter, a happy young matron, who suddenly becomes aware that her husband, Hunter Gordon, for seven years, faithful in the wedding vows, has become infatuated with a bewitching blonde, Suzanne, played by Lilian Tushman.
