

LA GRANDE--

A Good City to Live In -- A Good City to Work In -- A Good City to Trade In

Good communities are to be found in every corner of America, but the verdict of travelers and visitors on the happy combinations of advantages found in La Grande mark it as a city far above the ordinary.

A temperate climate which reaches no extremes of heat or cold, a center of recreational spots, a community made up of public-spirited and true American people—these are combined with modern living advantages unsurpassed anywhere.

La Grande has good churches of varied denominations, an enviable school system, up-to-date library. It has many miles of paved streets, a surplus supply of mountain spring and artesian water, the most modern sewage disposal plant in the Northwest, and first class fire protection equipment. Equalized tax levels are moderate in the city and the commission government has a fine reputation for governing efficiency.

Seldom in a city of this size are there found more beautiful or more pridefully kept homes. The business district is considered one that would credit a community twice as large. Store fronts are new; interior fixtures are thoroughly modern; stocks are especially complete and are known for large assortments not usually found outside a metropolitan city.

La Grande as a community has much to be proud of and much to anticipate in the future. Its enterprises and further progress is worthy of the co-operation and support of every citizen.

This Progress Edition Advertisement Sponsored and Paid for by the Following Professional Men of La Grande:

HUGH BRADY, Attorney
H. S. BROWNTON, Dentist
LEE BOUVY, M. D.
COCHRAN AND EBERHARD, Attorneys
H. E. DIXON, Attorney
ROBERT S. EAKIN, Attorney
FRANK EAMES, Dentist
C. W. ERWIN, Dentist
GREEN AND HESS, Attorneys
GEO. S. HOFFMAN, Dentist
F. S. IVANHOE, Attorney
J. L. INGLE, Osteopath

E. G. KIRBY, M. D.
C. S. MOORE, M. D.
A. M. MOORE, Dentist
E. P. MOSSMAN, Dentist
RAY MURPHY, Dentist
W. P. McADORY, M. D.
F. L. RALSTON, M. D.
E. R. RINGO, Attorney
A. L. RICHARDSON, M. D.
J. D. SLATER, Attorney
D. M. STRANG, M. D.