

The Finest Building Between Portland and Salt Lake City One Hundred Ultra-Modern Rooms Now Under Construction

HOTEL OREGONIA

Open About December 1st.

The march of progress brings a new name into the hotel vocabulary of La Grande and of the Pacific Northwest. The HOTEL OREGONIA marks a new era in this community's growth and development; it will set and maintain a standard of comfort, convenience, and service equal to that of any hotel of the metropolitan cities.

Just as every construction detail is the best known to modern fire-proof building, so every convenience feature will be provided to make The Oregonia the best structure and the best hotel between Portland and Salt Lake City.

A beautiful and spacious lobby facing Adams and Fir street — a large, smartly appointed dining room served by an ultra-modern kitchen—a mezzanine floor providing luxurious reading, writing, and lounging accommodations—a large and specially appointed dining room for club and social gatherings. These are only a few of the features to be enjoyed by La Grande people and the traveling public in this fine new hotel.

A Building Significant of La Grande's Great Progress—A Name Significant of a Wonderful and Beautiful State

To the people of La Grande and all Oregon the name "Oregonia" will at once become both friendly and respected—worthy of the home state from which the name is taken and of the home city in which it now becomes a proud institution. Just as it is typical of beautiful scenery, of a rare recreational region unequalled in the entire country, so will the HOTEL OREGONIA be typical of all that is charming, all that is attractive in modern hotel service—a hotel in perfect keeping with the future progress and growth of Eastern Oregon's Greatest city.
